OF SPECIAL interest to Salem folk was the announcement of the marriage yesterday of Miss Marie Mendenhall of Everett, Wash., and Roy S. (Spec) Keene of Salem. Mr. Keene is a son of Mrs. Sophie Keene of Salem.

Both Mr. Keene and his bride are graduates of Oregon Agricultural college. She was a member of the class of 1920 and has for the last three years been supervisor of home economics in the Everett schools. She is a Kappa Alpha Theta and took a prominent part in student activities while in college. She was chosen manager of the women's student show during her senior year and is a member of Omicron Nu, home economics honor society.

Mr. Keene was graduated in 1921 and has been athletic coach at Corvallis for the last two years. He recently returned from a six weeks' summer course at the University of California. He will be freshman coach at the Oregon Agricultural college for the coming year. He was president of the student body during his senior year at college.

Mrs. Keene has visited in Salem at different times and was a guest a year ago at the wedding of Miss Dorothy Chambers and Carl T. Pope. She has also visited with Mrs. Ruth Schultz-Gill at different times.

Mr. and Mrs. Keene are taking an automobile trip for several weeks, after which they will make their home in Corvallis. They will occupy the former home of Dr. Pernot on College hill.

Miss Helene Willette and Paul B. Wallace will be married at noon today in the Pilgrim Congregational church in Seattle. Only immediate members of the families and intimate friends will attend.

Miss Margaret White was honor guest last night at an apron shower for which Mrs. W. H. Frank was hostess. Summer flowers in varied colors were used about the rooms and a delightful supper was served by the hostess.

The aprons presented to the guest of honor were hung on a cypress tree where she found them during the course of the evening. The guests hidden for the evening were Miss Marie Briggs, Miss Grace Holt, Miss Valeria Briggs, Mrs. W. A. M'NARY WILL AID MONEY BORROWERS

Complaints Made By Federal Loan Beneficiaries at Treatment Received

While on a trip through eastern Oregon Senator McNary will investigate protests of federal loan beneficiaries in Malheur county. These persons assert that they are being harassed concerning interest payments. Senator McNary says that he will intercede in behalf of all worthy borrowers.

Senator McNary has received from all Oregon borrowers copies of telegrams alleged to have been received by them from W. C. McNeill, special agent for the farm loan board, in which he says: "Will you remit or shall I order more drastic measures applied to effect the collection?"

One of McNeill's letters is quoted as saying that "we wish you to understand that the federal land bank has reached a point in its existence where it is absolutely necessary that the interest items due on the mortgages made by the bank be paid."

The telegrams and letters are said to refer to interest on loans from the federal land bank at Spokane. It is said that in many instances the borrowers have been so unfortunate that they are unable to meet their obligations.

"Chief Engineer Boschke has at once gone to work preparing papers for bids to submit to contractors so that the actual physical work may begin, survey parties having been in the field for several weeks past. MOVIE GOSSIP

OREGON "Vanity Fair."
LIBERTY "Thorns and Orange Blossoms."
BLIGH Alice Calhoun in "Little Wildcat."

"There is a divine spark in every woman which needs but a breath to burst into flame. Surround her with clean conditions, give her the proper environment, the CHANCE that Christ gave the Magdalen, and she will become as pure and good as—my own mother!"

Thus spoke Robert Ware, wealthy clubman, to his friend, Judge Arnold, Arnold's challenge of the theory, and Ware's acceptance of it, is the foundation of the story, "Little Wildcat," one of the most remarkable pictures of the year, starring Alice Calhoun. Bligh today.

Thackeray called his great "Vanity Fair," a novel without a hero. It might also be called a novel without a heroine, for Becky Sharp, one of the most interesting characters in all literature, is far from the popular conception of a heroine. She is a scheming little person who practices her wiles without scruple.

Mabel Ballin, who is starring in Hugo Ballin's production of the "Thackeray classic, made at the Goldwyn studios, has some interesting ideas about Becky, whom she calls "an adventuress with a sense of humor." She also believes that audiences will recognize the humanness of Becky's inhumanity and be beguiled thereby. "Vanity Fair" will be the attraction at the Oregon theater for three days, beginning today.

"There is not the slightest doubt that Becky was unscrupulous," says Miss Ballin. "Mrs. Fiske, who played Becky Sharp on the stage for a long time, and afterwards, about 11 years ago, made a picture from the story, is said to have insisted that Becky was more sinned against than sinning. I wonder if her opinion was not the actress' desire, perhaps subconsciously, to play for sympathy."

"There are occasions in the book when one is momentarily thrown off the track and taken in by the little siren; but, to my way of thinking, Becky had sufficient strength of character to be good if she chose, in spite of every discouragement. But she doesn't choose. She is just a natural-born adventuress with a disarming sense of humor. She captivates all but the honest Dobbin, who sees the make-believe too clearly for his own peace of mind.

"The nicest thing about Becky and her greatest asset is her lack of morbidity. She is buoyant. She enjoys the game of living. Her quest for life is more wholesome than that of many so-called good people. To all appearances, helpless and gentle, her will and scheming are not apparent, and she throws the people she comes in contact with completely off their guard. Certainly Becky defies all precedents for heroines."

As an example to the morale of the screen animals who occasionally imbibe temperament from their fellow actors, the human beings, stands the exploit of "Oscar," a big circus elephant, who recently stopped an imminent stampede when the other pachyderms, being used as atmospheric background for the photoplay, deluded to go out and explore the world. "Oscar," a great bulk of an elephant, standing about seven feet high and weighing approximately four tons, stood sidewise in the entrance to the tent, with his bulk acting as a barrier, and stopped the surging gray mass until the keepers could quiet them and herd them back to their places in the ring. "Oscar" will soon be seen in Thomas H. Ince's "Soul of the Beast," a Metro picture, in which he shares honors with Madge Bellamy, and his grateful keepers think his name should appear in electric lights much larger than the mere human beings who constitute the cast.

The picture, directed by John Griffith Wray and written by C. Gardner Sullivan, will be shown at the Liberty theater, starting Sunday.

Bligh—They have finally got that fellow Noncomp and put him in an asylum.

Bjones—What did he do, spec-ally, which showed that he was "off?"

Bligh—He thought he could disguise his Ford so no-one could tell what it was.

The alliance between Great Britain and France may be bent, but not broken. But how much John Bull does hanker for that German trade.—Exchange.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. They then become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Don't Judge from Appearances

THE earth looks flat enough! That's why so many thousand years came and went before our ancestors even suspected the terrestrial globe of being round. Their eyes deceived them!

Don't depend on appearances to guide you right. Don't buy goods on the strength of looks alone. Merchandise with a well-known name has the call. Only the maker of a good product can afford to advertise his name. Attempts to popularize unworthy goods cannot succeed.

Wise merchants and manufacturers seek the good papers to tell the story of their wares. The publishers seek the reputable advertising for their readers' guidance. Well-informed buyers seek news of good merchandise through the columns of the best papers.

This proves the value of advertising. Neither advertiser nor publisher can prosper without your patronage. Therefore, it is to their advantage to cater to you. They do it, too.

It is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by the messages they lay before you—the advertisements.

Read them regularly
