

MINING POLICY IS SET FORTH

Eastern Capital Plans Corporation to Develop Industry in Oregon

The policy of the state with respect to the mining industry, as the policy is administered by W. E. Crews, state corporation commissioner, is set forth concisely in a letter that Mr. Crews has written to P. B. Wickham, prominent mining man of Grants Pass and one of the most widely known mining men in the northwest.

Policy Set Forth

"I will say that it is and will be the policy of this department as long as I am commissioner to grant every assistance possible for the development of the mining resources of this state," writes Mr. Crews, "and to that end I will say that anyone coming before this department with an application to sell securities for the development of mines will receive a permit for the sale of the same when they make it apparent that they have a mine or a prospect which has apparent merit, provided that all the moneys received from the sale of said securities, less a reasonable percentage for the sale thereof, is to be actually expended in the development of the property. This I shall desire to be done by way of conditions attached to the permit. What I want is an organization, justly and fairly conceived and honestly conducted to the end that it may determine whether or not the property may prove to be a mine. Recognizing that all mines were at one time prospects, I shall therefore give the prospect every opportunity that this office affords."

Mr. Wickham is connected with Pittsburg mining associates, and in his letter to Mr. Crews he mentions that the eastern associates have for some time been planning the organization of a large corporation for the operation of mines in Oregon.

"These are good people who understand both ends of the mining business and have rather generous financial support, but the big question, and one that has held the plan in abeyance, has been the place of incorporation," writes Mr. Wickham to Commissioner Crews. "Obviously Oregon was the natural home for industry within the state, but close observation of previous policies and regulations had discouraged this idea, and they are preparing to incorporate elsewhere."

"Nevertheless, I will have considerable influence in this matter, and if it would not be imposing upon you would like to request that you write me, stating your proposed policy, as far as you care to do, and with the privilege that I may send your letter on to those people with the hope that they will see renewed possibilities in coming here with their company."

No One Knows

"Whether these acute situations might be relieved if the government should set up an agency with large authority to handle our surplus farm products in its discretion and provide it with ample funds, I do not know. I do not believe any one knows."

The low price of wheat this year will bring some reduction in acreage, Mr. Wallace predicted, adding that "it is a terribly hard situation for the individual, but those who remain will be benefited."

Exports Declining

In reference to the export situation, he said:

"A gradual decline in our exports of grains and meats is to be expected. We cannot hope to keep them at the high rate of recent years. But these exports are not going to vanish overnight. Europe will continue to buy large quantities of us for some time."

AZIZ AUTO IS NO MORE

New-Car and Used-Car Businesses May Be Divorced in This City

The day of the "Aziz" auto, the renegade, backbiting, gas eating, wage-devouring Azis trade-in car that has ruined many a man's hope of heaven and a house of his own to die in, is no more. That is, it is to be curtailed down to a shorter day, like the day of labor, and it promises to come to total extinction through the new certified public motor car market plan that the car dealers of Salem endorsed at their motor meeting at the Marion last night.

Appleby Presents Plan

The plan was presented by James E. Appleby of California, who from his long years of motor experience has evolved a plan to divorce the new-car and the used-car businesses, and stop the ruinous competitive bidding for used cars. He presented some startling statistics, showing the growth of the trade-ins and their effect on the motor business. Over-pricing of new cars through exorbitant trade-in prices for used cars, and then the frantic efforts to run these old cars back into the trade without overhauling, has demoralized the business until some check had to be interposed.

The general plan is to establish a central car market, where cars can be brought for appraisal. A competent judge will determine the repairs necessary. No car will be taken in without having its restoration to good working condition guaranteed. A car practically gets a factory building, before it is allowed to go out, and this feat is charged against the car. The new car dealers do not touch the used cars, eliminating all the present competitive bidding for junk stock. A manager will handle the car impartially, and the public is guaranteed a perfectly sound car, rebuilt and refinished, at a supply-and-demand price. It should result in the public buying good, guaranteed cars, for less than they now pay for graveyard and assassin cars, and still the man who sells the used car, gets its true value, and the new car seller has only the matter of selling his new stock.

"The new car merchant is an optimist; the used car buyer is a

Lesson No. 4

Pies "Like His Mother Used to Make"

PIE has been called the great American dessert, and to be able to construct a good pie is one of the supreme tests of a cook.

The first essential of any pie is a flaky, tender crust—the kind that will fairly "melt in your mouth." One of the secrets of this is to have your ingredients as cold as possible when they are mixed; another is to avoid handling the pastry dough more than is absolutely necessary.

There are many kinds of fillings that can be used for making pies. Fruit, mince-meat and similar fillings are usually in convenient form and require little special preparation. In this lesson I will give you some excellent recipes for more complicated pies.

Pie Crust

1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup shortening, cold water to moisten. Sift salt with flour. Cut shortening into flour with a knife or work in quickly with tips of fingers of the mixture adhere together. Turn on a lightly floured board and roll thin, handling as little as possible. This recipe makes one pie crust.

Cocoanut Pie

2 eggs, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup flour, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 cups water, 1/2 cup cocoanut, 1/2 cup Carnation Milk.

Scald the milk in double boiler. Mix the flour with a little cold water, and add to scalded milk. Cook until it thickens; add sugar, salt and yolks of eggs well beaten, then add to mixture and cook for two minutes. Add vanilla and cocoanut. Add to baked pie crust. Beat the whites of eggs stiff, add 1 tablespoon of sugar and put on top of the pie. Set in oven long enough to brown on top. This recipe makes one pie.

Gustard Pie

2 eggs, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup water, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup Carnation Milk, few grains nutmeg.

Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk. Line a pie tin with pie paste; add the mixture to which the vanilla has been added. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg. Bake in hot oven at first,

Questions and Answers

Why is milk sometimes called "the perfect food?" Mrs. J. S. C.

Because it contains the food elements necessary to sustain life and build strength. Carnation Milk, which is pure, rich cow's milk with just part of the water evaporated, is the safest form of milk, because it contains all these food elements and brings them to you in perfect condition, sterilized but unchanged.

What do you recommend as a safe hot drink for children? Mrs. R. E. M.

Cocoa or chocolate is nourishing, and when made with pure, rich Carnation Milk is a real food and very wholesome. A simple, wholesome drink is the one our mothers used to call "cambic tea." Make it by using 1 part Carnation Milk and 3 parts hot water. Sweeten to taste.
