The bride will wear a tallener of gray poiret-twill with a smart small hat to match, worn with a blue veil. Miss Valerie Briggs will be maid of honor and will wear a frock of crepe in a new shade of brown. Her hat will be of a corresponding hue. Both will wear corsage bouquets.

LeRoy Gard will attend Mr. Berger and the ushers will be Bert Hoffine and Howard Kurtz. Mrs. William H. Prunk will sing "At Dawning" just before the marriage service and Mrs. Horace Sykes will play the accompaniment, and later the wedding march from Mendelssohn.

The church will be decorated with quantities of greenery and large cornucopias filled with asters. Pink and white asters will be arranged along the side walls while the altar will be banked with palms and large baskets of asters in the pink and white shades.

The young couple will leave following the ceremony for a wedding trip which will be taken by automobile. They will return after the first of the month and will be at home to their friends at their new home on North High street after September 15.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ralph White and is one of the charming and talented members of the younger set. Dr. Berger is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Berger and a graduate of the North Pacific Dental college.

Mrs. Walter Spaulding and the Spaulding twins returned yesterday from several weeks spent at Seaside. Mrs. Nora G. Miller of Corvallis accompanied Mrs. Spaulding on the trip.

Rev. J. E. Buck, pastor of St. Joseph's church, who returned this week from a trip of several months' duration in Europe, has consented to talk to the members and guests who attend, telling them of some of the interesting points of his trip.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Moore and daughters Lucille and Dorothy have recently returned from a trip to Seattle and British Columbia. While in Seattle they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Gray of the Worth & Gray store in Salem.

They were entertained at the country home of the Grays on Lake Washington. One of the pleasurable incidents of the visit there were the trips on the Gray's houseboat.

Irene Breithaupt and Isobel Houston will be in charge of refreshments. The girls will elect officers at this meeting.

One morning, when Billy woke up, he sat on the floor for some time gazing at his toes.

"Hurry up, Billy, you'll be late for breakfast," said his mother. "Why are you looking at your feet?"

"Well," said the boy, "isn't it funny that one of my toes is so much larger than the others; I had them all at the same time, didn't I?"

"Well," announced Mr. Perk- asle to his wife, "John and Mary have taken the first step toward divorce."

"You don't mean to tell me! What on earth is the matter?"

"They have got married," Toledo Blade.

JEFF BALDWIN IN LAW'S HANDS

Notorious Oregon Convict Captured in New York City Says Message

Jeff Baldwin, one of the most notorious and incorrigible convicts who ever was held in the Oregon state penitentiary, and whom Oregon authorities for several years have believed dead, has been captured in New York City, and will be returned here to finish out sentences that were cut short when he escaped. J. N. Lilly, deputy warden of the state prison, will leave tonight for New York to return the prisoner. Baldwin was arrested there for burglary.

Baldwin is not the ordinary type of convict who escaped by strolling away from some trusty work crew, but was of the kind that takes more daring measures. Baldwin was convicted in Clatsop county for larceny in a dwelling and was received at the penitentiary June 24, 1915, to do seven years. He was made a trusty and escaped September 19, 1917, but was caught seven days later. One day during the week that he was out he tried to kill the sheriff of Linn county and was given a new sentence of ten years for assault with intent to kill.

At 9 o'clock on a Sunday morning, May 12, 1918, Baldwin, who was employed in the prison yard on the east side of the main prison, went through the basement bars into the building. The bars were sawed. Whether Baldwin or some other convict sawed them has never been ascertained. Gaining a basement corridor, Baldwin broke a lock on an intervening door and entered the basement in the west wing. He exchanged his clothes for a white suit commonly worn by trusties in the prison bakery, spread the bars in a basement window of the west wing and went into the yard. He then calmly walked through the front gate which was opened for him at his signal.

The northwest was combed by officers in search of Baldwin. It was generally believed he went south, and for a time it was believed he had killed a youth in the mountains of Linn county and taken a small rifle that the boy carried. This apparently was not true. Oregon officers later heard stories that led them to believe Baldwin had been killed in an underworld feud in some southern California city or in Tia Juana, and he was no longer an object of search.

Baldwin was so incorrigible in the prison that he and one Curtis, alias Herbert Merrithew, were placed in a cell and "bosed" by former Warden John Minto. This was one thing that led to the dismissal of Minto by the late Governor Withycombe.

Baldwin has hanging over him in Oregon four years of his first Clatsop county sentence and the entire ten years of his Linn county sentence.

It is understood that he was arrested in New York recently for a minor offense and from circulars was recognized as the man wanted in Oregon.

Baldwin is said to have served two terms in the Monroe, Wash., reformatory before he was received here. Deputy Warden Lilly is taking along an Oregon boot and other irons to keep Baldwin in submission.

BROWNIE IS DEAD; DOG USED IN DISCOVERY OF DRUG CURE IS VICTIM OF POISON GHOUL

By WILL CARVER "Brownie" is dead.

A dog poisoner has added her to his list of victims.

Very few Salem residents had knowledge of Brownie's existence but there is every reason to believe that some day the world will concede that Brownie's life was utilized for the cause of humanity.

Brownie, a large, intelligent hound of the beagle type, was a medium of the discovery of the Poore narcotic cure, recently tested and pronounced efficient after the complete recovery of five opium "fiends" following a 10-day treatment at an emergency hospital in Portland. Brownie, the property of Dr. E. W. Poore, was only one of nearly a hundred dogs of her breed to survive Dr. Poore's experiment which combined a period of over 11 year's time.

"I would not sell Brownie for any sum," declared Dr. Poore recently. "I resorted to all known measures for humane treatment during my years of research. I introduced the drug habit to Brownie and she became an addict. Then my specific was given her and she survived the toxic reaction of the treatment. A test that she was the subject of minor experiments and at times it seemed to me that she had some canine knowledge that she was aiding my work. She shall have the best of care as long as she lives."

Dr. Poore does not know that Brownie is dead. She died Sunday morning after the poisoner had done his work. Brownie has for several months been kept in Salem by Mr. and Mrs. Basil Branson, friends of Dr. Poore.

Just why anyone should take Brownie's life will join the mysteries of the dog poisoner. At least, Brownie has saved a life of far greater usefulness than that of many a distributor of poison.

Those who grieve for Brownie have one consolation. Scores of cures and hundreds of applications for the Poore treatment are daily proof that this humble animal was the medium of a message of hope for thousands who are slaves to the narcotic evil.

SILVERTON NEWS

SILVERTON, Or., Aug. 28. —(Special to The Statesman)—The Silverton streets were crowded last night by citizens who were trying to "listen in" through the means of the Ames Hardware loud talker to the radio concert furnished by the Oregonian. It was not that Silverton folks had never seen or heard a radio before as it might appear to the uninitiated. The occasion was simply that the Silverton Community club was broadcasting from the Oregonian station. Mayor L. C. Eastman spoke, as did also Julius Alm, president of the Community club. Among others taking part in the program were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCall, Mrs. Vida Bannett, Mrs. Gertrude Cameron, Mrs. E. C. Richardson and Tom Corhouse. It is said that there are around 100 privately owned radio sets in and around Silverton.

Splinting the Trees
EUGENE, Aug. 28.—Splints are now being put on the grove of black walnut trees in College Crest which were recently grafted to English walnuts for Dr. F. E. Adams of this city, in making extensive improvements to the place to which he is moving his residence this week from 728 Thirteenth avenue east. He has about 75 trees grafted there and expects to get nuts from them next year. He also has a grove of filberts planted there, along with fruit of several varieties.

One tree in the acreage has been grafted to produce two kinds of prunes and a variety of plums. The doctor has recently had the building remodeled at considerable cost.

Good Crops Assured
BAKER, Aug. 28.—Baker county farmers are favored with good weather, just warm enough to give "pep" to the farm hand and from all accounts the abundant crops of hay and grain will be harvested without a hindrance from shortage of labor.

Now, if only fair prices prevail the coming fall for hay and grain the grower will be content for a half loaf is better than no loaf at all.

An Inconvenient Custom
The post office department has officially frowned upon the practice of printing return address upon the backs of envelopes. Their earnest request to local postmasters, printers and those who use envelopes is to discourage the use of the return address in any other than the upper left hand corner of the address side, where postal employees are accustomed to look for it. The common practice of using the proper place for the return address will prevent many thousands of letters from going to the dead letter office, and will save thousands of dollars to the government and the users of first class mail privileges.—Oregon City Enterprise.

A Community Affair
CORVALLIS, Aug. 28.—The Community Affairs committee of the Corvallis Chamber of Commerce put on a splendid get-together at the Plymouth hall Saturday night. It is the custom of the Plymouth community to hold regular monthly meetings throughout the year, and consequently a large crowd attended notwithstanding the extremely warm evening. Lee Anderson, in charge of the program, pronounced it perfect, especially the talk by Tom Graham, the live wire Corvallis fire chief.

Providing for Farmers' Day
ALBANY, Aug. 28.—A fund of more than $1000 has been subscribed by the members of the Chamber of Commerce to defray the expenses of "Farmers' Day" at the Linn county fair. Monday has been set aside and the people of Linn county have been notified of a general invitation to attend. The finance committee of the chamber for this fund consisted of I. A. McDowell, F. E. Livengood, Don Preston, Roscoe Ames, J. J. Barrett, and Waldo Anderson.

Medford Kiwanis Organized
MEDFORD, Aug. 28.—The official presentation of the charter to the newly organized Kiwanis club of Medford will take place next month and, expectations are that a Eugene delegation of Kiwanians will take part in the ceremony, according to A. E. Roberts, secretary of the local club, who with W. K. Newell, member of the board of trustees, attended the organization session at Medford this week. The Medford club is the 11th to be formed in Oregon.

Tariff Flight Grave
LAKEVIEW, Aug. 28.—Powerful commercial interests are making an organized effort to prevail on the tariff commission and congress to remove the tariff on all agricultural products including livestock, wool, dairy and other western products, according to a lengthy telegram received last night by the Bank of Lakeview, from F. J. Hagenbarth, president of the National Woolgrowers association. So serious is the situation that a message was sent asking permission to use the bank's name together with the names of other influential western producers, merchants and bankers in countering the effect of the eastern commercial interests. Removal of the protective tariff at this time would be ruinous to the entire western United States, it is thought.

ONE OF AMERICA'S STRONGEST COMPANIES.

Non-Detonating Gasoline—do you use it in your car?

Gasolines explode in two ways. One kind explodes instantaneously—detonates. It has the effect of a sledge hammer blow.

It crashes against the piston head, forcing the stroke by the single impulse.

It limits the compression because of its tendency to explode prematurely, and thus reduces power and efficiency.

Detonation causes "knocking." You notice it especially on the hills. It increases vibration thus increasing wear and tear.

The Prolonged Impulse

The other kind of explosion—the more efficient kind—you get from Union Gasoline.

It is a prolonged explosion. The impulse is progressive and sustained—not crashing and instantaneous.

It thrusts the piston throughout the entire stroke.

So Union Gasoline permits increased compression in your motor, for compression, as authorities agree, is limited by the tendency of gasoline to detonate. And on maximum compression is dependent maximum efficiency and power.

More Power on Hills

Thus Union Non-Detonating Gasoline makes your car a better hill climber. You find a new "lift." Your car is, in fact, being pulled up by a steady, sustained impulse rather than by a series of jerks.

Likewise you have new speed on the level and more snap in the getaway—both results of high compression.

You enjoy a smoother running car. It has less vibration, for the power impulses are smooth and constant. It saves wear and tear.

And you obtain more miles per gallon because of increased efficiency.

Union Gasoline is the product of progressive refining methods. Its quality is governed by exhaustive tests. It is constantly being improved by the research of able chemists who are aided by the very finest equipment for studying refining processes.
