

NEW BLUE BOOK OFF THE PRESS

Secretary Kozer Calls Attention to Changes in Biennial Publication

Sam A. Kozer, secretary of state, has received from the state printer the 1923-1924 edition of the Oregon Blue Book and is now distributing it. It contains similar matter to that incorporated in previous issues of the publication, but extensions are made to bring all matter down to date.

An "Epitome of Oregon History" contained in the book is prepared by Prof. J. B. Horner of Oregon Agricultural college. The sketch appearing in former editions of the Blue Book was prepared by Prof. Joseph Schafer of the University of Oregon.

The list of Oregon newspapers was prepared by Hal E. Hoas, president of the Oregon Editorial association. Mr. Kozer requests that if there are any errors or omissions in the list, correction be sent in.

The Blue Book, since its authorization, has become almost indispensable in connection with the political, business and social life of the state, the demands each biennial period being far beyond the supply of the books.

Oregon State News

Consolidation Lost.
 The result of the election on the Union High School Proposition was not altogether a surprise, as the dopesters had it figured that the contest would be close. Some features, however, were unexpected. The extra large vote for it in the Canby district was unlooked upon as a favorable district. Although the majority of the total votes cast was for the school, still the proposition was lost.

In order to carry the election, a majority of the total votes in the 12 districts were necessary and a majority of the districts favorable to the proposal was also necessary. In the entire 12 districts the votes cast were 352 for and 287 against. The districts, however, were evenly divided, six for and six against.—Aurora Observer.

Better Play Ground.
 MARSHFIELD, Sept. 1.—A movement to induce city officials to put in needed improvements at the children's playground was started today noon at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club. The matter was brought before the club by Chester Wolcott, who called attention to the fact that the playground should be cleaned up. Mr. Wolcott, George C. Huggins and E. W. McInturf were appointed to go before the city council and ask that the matter receive prompt attention.

Jersey Cattle Lead.
 ALBANY, Aug. 31.—The most enthusiastic of all cattle owners exhibiting in the Linn county fair are the Jersey men, according to E. T. Troffiter, manager. Mr. Troffiter has talked, not only to the owners themselves, but to members of judging teams and club boys and girls.

Of all the premiums and awards in the whole fair those offered to Jersey men and Jersey clubs

Sending Apples to Japan.
 PORT ORFORD, Ore., Sept. 1.—It is estimated that 30 cars of people from Medford and the Rogue river valley will come to Port Orford early this month when the big steamer Frogner returns to this port for another cargo for the orient, according to T. W. Fulton, secretary of the Port Orford chamber of commerce, who returned yesterday from a week's stay in Medford.

Incidentally, the valley people want to see the terminus of the Rogue river highway from Medford-to-the-sea, and become acquainted with this section of the state and its resources. An idea has originated in Medford whereby each car making the trip bring a box of apples or pears which will be sent to Japan on the Frogner and constitute the first valley fruit shipment from this port.

Homeless Children in School.
 CORVALLIS, Sept. 1.—A problem in education has arisen at the Farm Home. About 35 boys and girls are old enough to attend school, and where they will go is somewhat of a quandary. The Firplay school close by is already taxed to capacity, according to Superintendent Castle, and besides the superintendent of the farm does not like to have the children attend there in a body, for various reasons.

Arrangements will probably be made with the Corvallis school authorities to scatter the children about in the various city schools, bringing them in each morning in a bus.

Nearly Will Hunt.
 EUGENE, Sept. 1.—Many are the nimrods and intending hunters men preparing to be abroad Labor day. Red hats, shirts, ammunition, camping supplies and gasoline have been purchased here during the past few days by folk from all over the west part of Oregon. Many of the fortunate have been out for several days ahead of the rush made this weekend by the national holiday.

VALLEY MOTOR FOLKS PICNIC

Half Hundred Men and Families Going to Rickerall for Recreation

The Valley Motor company will have on display in their showroom, beginning today, one of the latest models in Ford coupes. Special shipping instructions enable the Salem concern to have this new model in so quickly, as it is the first in the state with the exception of a few cars that have been delivered from Portland.

The new car is a beauty from the angle of construction. The lines are different from any of the previous Ford cars. The radiator is higher, effecting the hood and other portions of the front end. The doors open toward the front of the car, and the long, streaming swan-like lines of the rear end places it in a class by itself. A compartment is built in just back of the seat that is large enough for small luggage, while at the rear end of the body room has been provided for a small steamer trunk or hand baggage.
