DOGS, BIRDS, BEES SHOWN

Unusual Field Covered in Exhibits to Be Seen at Oregon Fair

With the opening of the Oregon state fair, Monday, Sept. 24, fanciers of pure-bred poultry, dogs, rabbits and several additional kinds of pet stock will be given an opportunity to witness exhibits in these departments, such as no state fair has previously presented. Although the entries in the poultry department do not close until September 23, already enough exhibits have been listed to fill the big poultry building and necessitate the erection of some temporary structure to house the overflow. No Exceptions. The same condition obtains in practically every department this year, with that of pet stock no exception. The latter will feature in conjunction a dog show with fully 1000 entries. This show will be put on, as the first annual fall show of the Wilamette Kennel club. C. S. Whitmore, Portland dog fancier, has been in Salem much lately, perfecting plans for the forthcoming event. Championship prizes given at the state fair show will be counted towards championships for the American Kennel club. Aside from these, will be a substantial list of prizes, including a special cup to be offered for the best dog in the show, which will be owned by the Wilamette Kennel club. Other prizes will consist of medals and cash.

The judges for the show have already been chosen. They will be W. B. Fletcher, Portland, national authority on all terrier breeds; W. M. Coates, Seattle, specialist and authority on bull dog, Chow and Collie breeds, and John McMahon of Seattle, authority on all other kinds. A meeting of dog fanciers of Salem was held recently, at which time it was voted to lend all possible assistance in making the show a big success. A group of prominent business men were named as a bench show committee, with Mr. Whitmore, who is editor of the "Breeder and Fancier," to serve as secretary.

In the pet stock division there will be an outstanding feature, an exhibition of pure registered silver black foxes to be classified in two divisions—dark silver and hedium silver. Trophy ribbons are offered in the premium competition. D. M. Haskins of Dundee, Ore., has made the largest entry to date in this department. The competition is open to fox breeders in both Canada and the United States.

Rabbits Big Entry

A large classification has been made up for rabbits, including practically every breed for both meat and fur. All breeds of chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys recognized by the "American Standard of Perfection of Poultry," will be entitled to compete for regular premiums, as well as other fowls found worthy by the judge. The latest edition of "The American Standard of Perfection in Poultry," will be the guide of the judges in awarding prizes on all varieties recognized therein. All other varieties will be judged by their club standards, or by comparison.

Poultry classification includes the following strains: American, Asiatic, Mediterranean, English, Polish, Hamburgs, French, Continental, game, game bantams, Orientals, ornamental bantams and a miscellaneous division, consisting of Silkies, Sultans, Frisies, Buttercups and Lackenveiders.

Wild Game Shown

There will be a section in the poultry building devoted to wild game. Here will be found pheasants in the silver, golden, native Mongolian and Chinese varieties. Special premiums are to be distributed for the best individual bird in the different strains, and the Rhode Island Red club of America will give 15 prize ribbons eight to the single comb and eight to the rose comb variety. In the pigeon division, pigmy pouters, fantails, Jacobins, tumblers, homers, swallow, turbits and barbs.

Bees Department Better

Another department that promises to be of much interest is to be found in the bee house, where apian products will be shown. F. E. Lynn is department manager of this section. Entries will be open until September 23. All exhibits must have been produced in the apiary of the exhibitor during the year 1923, and premiums will be restricted to exhibits within the state of Oregon.

Competition Keener

Interest promises to be lively in all these departments, with competition extremely keen, owing to the increase of entries, which in each division are practically doubled. The buildings to house these shows have been thoroughly renovated, repairs and improvements added, which have made it possible to exhibit the increased displays. Edward Shearer of Estacada, for many years holding the same position, will again serve as superintendent of the poultry department.

Dallas Planing Mills Sold to Astoria Concern

DALLAS, Ore., Sept. 7.—The Dallas Planing mill, one of the oldest industries of the city, was sold this week by Frank J. Coad, the owner, to the Columbia Planing Mill company of Astoria, who will dismantle the plant and ship the machinery to that city in the near future.

The Dallas Planing mill was started in 1883 by Mr. Coad and D. J. Riley of this city who operated it until in 1904 when Mr. Coad purchased his partner's interest. Mr. Coad has since been in charge of the plant with the exception of a short time when he leased the plant to the late Frank Chapman, who operated it for one year, and on another occasion when the business was taken over by A. B. Fritzen & Sons who ran the plant for nearly three years but who relinquished the plant back to Mr. Coad in July of this year. The Columbia Planing Mill company suffered the destruction of its plant by fire recently and the machinery will take the place of that destroyed when the big plant burned. Mr. Coad still retains possession of the stock of lumber in the mill and the factory site and my decide to install a small plant in the building at a later date.

Need Longer Pipe

DALLAS, Ore., Sept. 8.—It was brought at the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening that the shortage of water in Dallas is due to the fact that there is not a large enough pipe to carry the supply from Canyon creek to the reservoir and not from any lack of water. Councilman Sundberg, in the chair in the absence of the mayor, said that he had understood that the lessee of the plant had agreed to put in a larger pipe during the summer, but as the work had not been done he had the city recorder write and ask for a reason. H. G. Gates, the lessee, responded that he found it impossible to get the material, but that he would get it and have the work done this winter. Mr. Sundberg stated that if this larger pipe is put in that it will be possible to have plenty of water, allowing people to walk on their lawns at a reasonable price. The letter from Gates was filed, but no action was taken.

Maddens Turned Back

YOKOHAMA GROVE, Ore., Sept. 8.—Yokohama Grove had more than passing interest in the destruction of Yokohama, Japan, because of the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Madden, who had visited here during the summer at the home of Mrs. Madden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hemenway, were on their way home at the time and were accompanied by Miss Martha Madden, of Eugene, former resident of this city and daughter of the late Mrs. Frasier Johnson. Mr. Madden has been received from the Steamship company to the effect that the boat reached Yokohama safely a day and a half after the earthquake, that most of the passengers remained on board when the boat sailed almost immediately for Seattle with a large number of those who escaped death.
