CREWS WARNS THE PUBLIC

Corporation Commissioner Tells People to Look Out for Stock Sellers

A warning to the public to be cautious about the purchasing of speculative securities is issued by W. E. Crews, state corporation commissioner.

"This state," says Mr. Crews, "is now being looked upon as a fertile field for the sale of all classes of speculative securities. The difficulties of getting by the blue sky law have held off speculators and promoters until the market for such securities in all other western states, on account of the laxity of such states is preventing the sale of this class of securities, has been exhausted, and now apparent effort is being made to flood this state with all kinds of unsound and speculative securities."

"I wish the purchasing public of the state of Oregon to understand that while this department is exercising caution in granting permits for the sale of stock, bonds, certificates, etc., that any such securities, the marketing of which requires individual soliciting, is generally hazardous. Capital is always seeking safe investments, and any proposition which is safe and yields a profit will be sought. It will not often seek the purchaser. People having funds not immediately needed who are seeking investments should consult careful business men. It is too often believed that when one holds a permit from this department for the sale of securities, that such securities are in some way guaranteed by the state. Such is not the fact. Every permit that issues from this department contains this notice:

"You are further advised that in the issuance of this permit, the action of this department is permissive only, and is not to be construed by you, or represented by you or your agents to others as a recommendation of the securities therein named. Any mention or reference to the blue sky law or to this department in connection with the sale of said securities which in any manner is calculated to give the impression or suggestion to prospective investors that this department recommends the same or has made such an exhaustive and conclusive examination as to its investment merits before issuing this permit as to eliminate all risk as to such investment, is positively prohibited."

"An examination of many of the applications for permits indicates that the visitors to the state are hurriedly passing through the state with intention of remaining but a few days," says Mr. Koser. "Others desire for a longer period, and quite a number indicate a sojourn of 90 days, the maximum privilege which our law grants."

The registration of the cars as they come into the state has revealed the fact that in a considerable number of instances the applicants were not entitled to a visitor's permit, but by reason of their residence the car should be licensed under the laws of Oregon, which was required in those cases. By reason thereof considerable revenue has fallen to the state, of which it would have otherwise been deprived for the lack of check occasioned through the operation of the law.

"During the month of August there were nearly as many cars registered as during the period from May 24 to July 31, indicating that the month of August carries the peak of travel. This is also indicated through the volume of gas sales, as the returns under the several laws imposing a tax on that commodity are greatest during that month of the year."

OBJECTION MADE TO PRUNE UNION

Launching of Cooperative Scheme in Clarke County Brings Fight

VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 14. - An active fight on the cooperative scheme offered Clarke county prune growers by the California Packing corporation has been started here by the Washington Growers' Packing corporation, the sales organ of the Clarke Prune Growers' association. About 85 per cent of the prune growers are members of the association.

The officers of the Washington growers claim that the object of the California concern is to get choice Italian prunes on a cost-plus basis and to enter the market in the east with the power to sell the prunes at any price they see fit over the 2 1/2-cent advance allowed by the growers, thus making it possible to undercut the associations. Independent growers are being urged by the Washington growers to reject the contracts.

NARCOTIC FILM DRAWS THROUGH

Evils of Drug Habit Presented in Tremendously Forceful Manner

Often the theatre-goer is attracted to a show through press notices and publicity, and in many instances is disappointed, but "Human Wreckage," shown to the public in Salem at the Grand theatre for the first time Friday night more than lived up to its notices in its vivid portrayal of the insidiousness of the deadly narcotic evil.

Symbolism was carried out to a high degree. Dope, portrayed as a beast that seeks to destroy, was represented by a hyena, appearing at intervals through the film, a constant reminder of the evil of the traffic.

While "Human Wreckage" is an exaggeration to some extent, in that it gathers together parallel instances and flashes them before the eye in rapid succession, it brings the perils of the habit to the audience and drives the lesson home with never-forgettable force.

Long before the first show was over last night a large crowd was waiting in front of the ticket window and by the time those inside

WALNUTS BETTER, GROWERS DECLARE

Producers of Valley Hold Meeting at Quarters of Association

Walnut growers who are affiliated with the Oregon Growers met at the association's rooms yesterday afternoon for a general discussion of the 1923 pool and the handling of the 1923 crop. Reports of a partial estimate of this year's crop were to the effect that though the nuts are of a better quality, the harvest of last year will not be maintained. About 400 tons were harvested in 1922. Though the acreage in the state has been increased, the trees are not old enough to increase the total yield to any extent this season. About 40 growers were present.

Kenneth Miller, president of the Walnut Men's association, Sheridan, was present. At his request M. J. Newhouse, assistant manager of the Oregon Growers, explained the tentative reorganization plans of the association. Earl Pearce, also of the Oregon Growers, was named as chairman of a committee to work with the management in advising as to prices.

had seen the show, the crowd extended out across the sidewalk. The second showing of the film was presented to a capacity house on the lower floor and a fairly well-filled balcony. The picture will remain in Salem until Monday night.

1924 Model Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car $1210

There is no product where price so fails to indicate value as in a motor car.

The difference in prices rarely represents a corresponding difference in values. Cars are being offered at prices greatly in excess of the Studebaker Light-Six which do not equal its intrinsic value.

Likewise, many cars selling for less, are high-priced compared with the Light-Six. They are not in the same class because they do not represent as great intrinsic value for the money invested. The Studebaker Light-Six is the real quality car in the thousand-dollar field.

The low price of the Light-Six is due to Studebaker's vast physical and financial resources, the saving of middlemen's profits by reason of complete manufacture in Studebaker plants, and low manufacturing and sales overhead per car because of continuous large volume.
