PORTLAND LOSES FINAL CONTEST

Williams Holds Beavers To Five Hits, While Eckert Is Hit Hard

Seattle won the final game of the season from Portland Sunday, 8 to 1. It was necessary to call the game in the seventh inning on account of rain, and the second contest was called off for the same reason.

This gave the teams an even break in the six games played, leaving Portland three and one-half games behind Sacramento, which finished in second place.

Portland never had a chance to win against the pitching of Carl Williams, who held the Beavers to five hits, keeping them well scattered. Charley Eckert, on the other hand, was hit hard in spots, and was relieved in the fourth by Manager Middleton, who managed to stop the slugging to a certain extent, although the Indians made their last run in the fifth, after having scored five in the fourth.

Sunday's scores were: Seattle 9, Portland 1; Sacramento 7-2, Salt Lake 1-5; San Francisco, 11-2, Oakland, 4-10; Los Angeles, 7-21, Vernon 2-4.

Standing of the Teams	W.	L.	Pct.
San Francisco	124	77	.619
Sacramento	112	87	.563
Portland	107	89	.546
Seattle	99	97	.505
Salt Lake	95	104	.477
Los Angeles	82	110	.425
Oakland	91	111	.450
Vernon	77	122	.387

Weather Conditions Cause Heavy Prune Loss

Weather conditions will be responsible for a heavy loss in the prune orchards and the original estimate is far too low, according to a statement made yesterday by Earle Peary of the Oregon Growers. In some parts of the district the loss will run as high as 50 per cent, he said.

Polk county growers are reporting heavy losses, partly from the weather and partly from a shortage of drying facilities. The loss is expected to reach about 2,000 bushels. About 20 acres reported to have not been touched by the pickers this year.

Zev and Papyrus Working Out Daily—English Jockey Arrives

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Zev and Papyrus who will have their day next Saturday, canted out of the sports limelight today so that it might shine with full candle power on the world's series.

Both the star of the Rancocas stables and the English derby winner who are to race at Belmont Park for a $100,000 purse, exercised lightly but no real time tests were attempted.

Tomorrow Papyrus will get under saddle in earnest, with a stiff workout scheduled for him by his trainer, Basil Jarvis.

The English thoroughbred tomorrow will be reintroduced to his jockey, Steve Donoghue, champion of the British turf, who will arrive on the Olympic to ride the derby winner in the international classic. The little English rider thinks highly of his mount, as he made plain when sailed with the statement that "Papyrus is a generous, game horse."

Zev already is well acquainted with his rider, Earl Sande, recognized as the premier jockey on American tracks. Sande has been in the saddle since Zev has been working out at Belmont Park, although exercise boys have been put up when the colt has not been sent romping his fastest.

A $50,000 rain insurance policy has been taken out by the Westchester Racing association for October 20, the day of the Zev-Papyrus race.

Under the terms of the contract, the association will receive $50,000 if the rainfall between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. exceeds one-tenth of an inch.

Weather More Pleasing To Coach Huntington

Weather more to the liking of the high school gridiron warriors has resulted in some snappy playing, and mud is taking the place of dust and sweat that formerly adorned their countenances.

Stiff practice is being served by Coach Huntington and the men are fast getting into shape for the opening interscholastic contest with Forest Grove high school Friday afternoon on Willamette field.

Practice last night consisted of running down-punts and blocking. While mud at first handicapped the men, they soon got used to the underfooting and displayed some good stuff. Scrimmage was also ordered by the mentor before sending his men to the showers at the end of practice.

but one other hit outside of Ruths circuit clout, while the Giants were hammering Herb Pennock, Huggins' southpaw ace, for nine hits and four runs.

But out of the clear sky of apparent Giant triumph came the collapse of Neft and with him the last break in the shattered chain of McGraw's pitching staff. From the highest peak of effectiveness, from brilliant control, Neft went to pieces and Rosy Ryan who succeeded him, failed in a valiant effort to stem the tide.

Fastest Fastest Runs Ward started the fatal eighth harmlessly enough by tying out to Kelly, but the first sign of Neft's downfall came when Schang and Scott singled in quick succession. Sensing the break of the game Miller Huggins, little pilot of the Yankees duplicated the sort of strategy that earned one victory for his rival. McGraw and threw in the full force of his reserves. ## THESE TREES WOULD BE FORTY FEET UNDER WATER

The voters of New York State at the election in November will vote upon an amendment to the Constitution, among other things, opening the New York State forest preserve for commercial power development. These trees, on part of the so-called "waste land," will be under forty or more feet of water if the power interests are able to carry the proposed Ferris amendment to the State Constitution. The water would be backed up from a proposed dam at or near Ox Bow Bend, in the Raquette River. Flooding the river at the Ox Bow dam site would force the waters up to within a few hundred yards of the United States Veterans' Tuberculosis Hospital, near Tupper Lake village.

judgels for Pennock and walked on four successive balls, Haines taking his place at first as the bases were filled.

Neft tried gallantly to steady himself, to save the situation, but facing a new pinch hitter, Joe Bush, batting for Whitey Witt, he failed. Bush walked on four successive balls, and Neft, a slight, tragic figure, walked from the box, his head down and tears in his eyes. That pass forced in Schang, and Ryan went into the box with the bases still full and the Yankees still two runs behind.

Ryan, unsteady by the tenseness of the fight, also was wild and Scott was forced in with the second run when he walked Dugan on four pitched balls, thus making the 12th successive ball that Giant moundsmen had issued.

Mighty Ruth Strikes Out

There as a mighty roar as into this dramatic spotlight stepped Ruth, swinging his all-powerful budgeon. But, instead of further unnerving Ryan, the sight of the master mauler seemed to steady him, for the Babe let the first pitched curve squarely over the plate and fouled the second weakly. The next was a ball, but then, Ryan, putting all he had into his delivery, shot one square-ly across and Ruth, swinging wickedly, missed amid thunderous outbursts from the crowd.

Ward started the fatal eighth harmlessly enough by tying out to Kelly, but the first sign of Neft's downfall came when Schang and Scott singled in quick succession. Sensing the break of the game Miller Huggins, little pilot of the Yankees duplicated the sort of strategy that earned one victory for his rival. McGraw and threw in the full force of his reserves. ## Stengel Honored

The Yankee speed was not alone of foot and hand, but of "brain, and therein Huggins brought about the discomfiture of his rival, McGraw, the supposedly master tactician, the "master mind" whose battle with "brute force" seemed at the start to be the most dramatic feature of the series. "Brute force" as typified by Ruth, was triumphant but because it applied with that quality to other winning requisites.

Casey Stengel, whose spectacular home runs gave the Giants the winning margin in their only triumphs, stands out as hero of the fallen world's champions. Perhaps the score of the world's series of 1923 might be best written: Yankees, four victories; Stengel, two.

his respects to the men behind and affiliated with the 44-hour week in the commercial printing trade of America, predicting that the time is quickly coming when little more will be heard of it.

Other Speakers Heard

H. L. Crawford, president of the local printers' union, delivered the address of welcome, reviewing the history of the local union, and paying special tribute to the charter members.

Other addresses were given by J. S. Wyant, pioneer Salem printer; R. J. Hendricks, publisher of the Oregon Statesman; George Burnett, associate justice of the Oregon state supreme court; Sam A. Kozar, secretary of state; C. M. Ryerson, editor of the Oregon Labor Press; George Howell, secretary of the Multnomah Typographical Union; and William A. Marshall, a member of the state industrial accident commission.

upper left field stands gave the Giants their third run in the fifth inning and Frisch paved the way for the fourth tally in the sixth inning with a booming triple to left center. Frisch crossed the plate on Meusel's single but Cunningham and Kelly were easy victims for Pennock.

Altogether the Giants made 10 hits, nine off Pennock and one off Jones, twice as many as Neft and Ryan allowed. Pennock was far from the brilliance he showed in winning the second game, but he received the credit for his second victory because the Giant twirlers could not weather the storm.

In the final analysis, it was the utter failure of the Giant pitchers that costs the world's champions their crown—that, plus the fact that the Yankees, on the other hand, supported steady and at times brilliant twirling with an indomitable, remorseless attack. Outside of Neft, who alone of the Giant regulars was able to last a full game, McGraw had no sharp shooters upon whom to rely.

And when Neft went the way of the others at last, it marked a swift and convincing end.

The Yankees, over the stretch of six games, outplayed their rivals in every department of the game, save possibly defense, and here there was little to choose with "Jumping Joe" Dugan of the new champions and Frisch of the Giants as the outstanding heroes. Speed, punch and pitching—the fundamentals—all were prepon-

Dr. J. W. Johnson Accused of Obtaining Money By False Pretenses

W. E. Crews, state corporation commissioner, has sworn to a complaint before the district attorney of Multnomah county against Dr. J. W. Johnson, charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses by selling shares in the Oak Savings & Loan association which, it is said, is a fictitious institution. The alleged fraud is said to have been put over on Portland persons, but the full extent of Johnson's operations is not known.

Savings and loan associations are considered about the safest organizations with which the corporation department is concerned, and Johnson is accused of taking advantage of the confidence people have in them to practice his fraud.

Youthful Suspects Are Under Arrest At Ludlow

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 15.—Fleeing across the desert in an automobile registered to David H. Crawther, Salt Lake police officer whose body was found early Sunday on the banks of the Jordan river in Utah, three youths were arrested at Ludlow today by a deputy sheriff after the suspects slipped by Nevada officers.

The arrested youths are Fred Dupont, 20 years old, Robert Aland, 20 and George Williams 19. Deputy sheriffs left San Bernardino immediately for Ludlow and will bring the prisoners here.
