Machinery Loss Is Adjusted—

Settlement for $10,000 on machinery destroyed by fire at the state penitentiary has been made, J. W. Murray, bookkeeper at the prison, said yesterday. This amount will fully replace the old machinery, which had been insured for 100 per cent of its value. Insurance upon the flax, valued at $30,000, is still pending.

Harding Medallions Displayed—

First showing in Salem of the government's Harding memorial medallions was made Monday by F. S. Lamport of the United States National bank, who received two of the plaques inclosed in neat leather cases. The medallions are made of bronze, and are about three inches in diameter. One side bears the profile of the late president, while the reverse is a memorial and carries the dates of his inauguration and death. The medallions are on display at the bank.

Prison Makes Many Brick—

Though work at the prison brickyard was halted for one month following the escape of three men who were working there, the brickyard has turned out 1,000,000 brick this season. While many of these were shipped to OAC and other points, a great quantity remained on the prison property for the construction of the huge warehouse to hold the flax. This building is as nearly fireproof as can be made, and is rapidly nearing completion. Walls are up about 14 feet at present, and only six feet remains to be added. Steel for the roof has been ordered and is expected to arrive in 10 days or two weeks. As soon as the roof has been placed, the flax will be transferred to permanent shelter from the temporary sheltering sheds at the rear of the prison.

Speeders Draw Heavy Fines—

Monday was a heavy day in the justice court, three speeders being assessed a total of $55 by Judge Kuntz. Austin J. Ford was fined $25, Alexander Gage and C. E. Henderson $15 each. The men were arrested by State Officer Jack Nakin. Ralph E. Phillips, arrested by Max Planey, was cited to appear Wednesday.

Truck Driver Dislocates Shoulder

To have his shoulder dislocated in an accident and then to complete his delivery of milk was the experience of Hans Hofstetter, driver of a Meadow Lawn Dairy milk truck Sunday morning. The truck went into the ditch just before the state prison about 6:30 Sunday morning, and though Hofstetter managed to jump clear of the wreck, he struck on his shoulder, dislocating the member. He was picked up by passersby and taken to the office of Dr. Garinjobst, where his shoulder was set. He went to the dairy, obtained another truck, pulled the first machine out of the ditch and continued the delivery of his milk.

STATE INCOME TAX LAMBASTED

Thomas B. Kay Declares Measure Discriminates Against Capital

"Statements made by exponents of the proposed state income tax measure that 4 per cent of those who pay 80 per cent of the taxes and that 90 per cent contribute nothing are a challenge to the intelligence of the people of Oregon," Thomas B. Kay declared yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce. Though he admitted that he would probably vote in favor of the measure, he denounced it on the ground that it is severe to business interest, was discriminatingly clear to be a double tax.

"People are ignorant upon the question of taxation and agitators are able to play upon the prejudices of the public. A tax is a tax, no matter what kind, and it is just as hard to pay a govern-ment and that not one dollar out of 20 escapes taxation."

Heavy artillery in the way of figures had been prepared by the speaker, and he loosed one barrage after another upon his audience. Taxation is not the trouble with the farmer, Mr. Kay said, though he did not explain just what was the matter.

"The average farmer does not pay in excess of $250 annually in taxes," Mr. Kay said. "If every cent were remitted he would not be in better shape. Farmers pay 31 per cent of the taxes upon land, the classification including timber lands which are owned by capitalists. Improved city property taxes are 40 per cent higher than farm assessments."

Improved and unimproved lands in the state are assessed at $350,000,000, the speaker said, with an assessment of $300,000,000 upon city property.

Referring to the argument that a large percentage of big business interests pay no taxes, Mr. Kay said that stockholders pay taxes as much as any individual, though their names do not appear upon the tax roll. No property represented by stock escapes taxation, he said. The treasurer of a large corporation issues a single check for tax payment, and the stockholder is taxed indirectly through the subsequent lowering of dividends. A tax upon both stock and upon physical property was deemed tax as it is a local tax. The burden lies upon corporations and the wealthier individuals of the country. Capital is necessary to conduct large businesses and it is not just to penalize it."

By means of a chart Mr. Kay illustrated how the corporation was penalized in comparison with the individual. According to taxes collected in 1919, there were 19,815 people making returns upon incomes up to $2000, representing a combined income of $28,851,259, with $286,000 paid in taxes.

An additional 13,568 made returns on incomes from $2000 to $3000. These represented a total income of $32,603,349 and taxes of $311,657. The total amount of incomes represented by 33,383 people was $61,454,608, with taxes to the amount of $596,765. Only two men in the state had incomes between $500,000 and $750,000, Mr. Kay said. Their total income was $1,328,469, yet they paid $835,229 in taxes a sum $258,664 in excess of the total taxes paid by more than 33,000 people.

In speaking on the proposed income tax measure, Mr. Kay made some interesting comparisons and explained the results in figures. He took 10 people, representing an investment of $400,000 and showing a profit of $50,000. With each being exempted $2000, each was assessed $375 in taxes. A corporation capitalized for $400,000 with 10 incorporators and the same amount of profit, is taxed $2515, he said.

Advocates of the proposed measure admit that the bill is no good, Mr. Kay said. "But that it is better than nothing at all."

The Chamber of Commerce dining room was redolent with suggestions of Hallowe'en, Miss Florence Pope having decorated the room for the noon hour. Loganberry punch, contributed by P. M. Gregory, was a feature of the menu.

RAISING SILVER FOXES GOOD BUSINESS SAYS R. H. COSTER

R. H. Coster of Portland, one of the Mt. Rainier National park silver fox farm, has many statistics and experiences to relate relative to the propagation of this fox.

The history of the fur industry discloses the fact that North America for practically four centuries was the world's supply for furs and with the progress of civilization this industry is fast becoming extinct. The company represented by Mr. Coster is capitalized at $300,000, and has a fox farm at the entrance of the Mt. Rainier National park, and also a smaller one being developed near Portland. The silver black fox is the product of domestic breeding originated in Alaska and Labrador more than 30 years ago. The animal is approximately five feet from tip to tip and produces a fur ranging in value from $650 to $1500.

The company at present has 51 pair of the fox. They cost the company $2000 a pair. They mate when six months old and continue their relation during their productive period of ten years. Each pair produces from six to ten young each year. The farm is at the entrance of the Rainier park and at an elevation of more than 2000 feet, with snow nine months. The fox sleep during the day time in their native state, and are active during the night, and are kept in enclosure so that they are under guard night and day. The industry is being promoted by many of the leading citizens who realize the importance of continuing such animal life under domestic influences.

The silver black fox is a phenomenon or freak of nature. In its wild or native state it was a freak of the family of red fox. Nature did not permit such freaks to occur often. In a litter of five pups both of the parents of which were red, there might appear a perfectly marked, lustrous furred silver black. Then again there could be a hundred or more litters without a single silver black fox. It would appear now and then. Its origin

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney ores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidney or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

is shrouded in the myriad mysteries of nature's laboratory. But the silver black fox has always been the prize catch of the professional trapper. The matchless and striking beauty of the fur, its great market value and its uniqueness, has made it a symbol of distinction the world over. Its scarcity and wondrous beauty put a high premium upon it.

The Hudson's Bay company first introduced the fur of the silver black fox to the royalty of Europe in 1607—169 years before the United States of America was born. During the succeeding centuries the popularity and demand for it increased with a striking rapidity, notwithstanding wars and the changing edicts of Dame Fashion, the rise and fall of nations and dynasties. It became and remained the fur of royalty.

The first of a series of 16 lessons in advertising was given last night at the YMCA. H. T. Vance, formerly on the advertising staff of the Standard Oil company and now head of the office training department at Oregon Agricultural college, is in charge of the class which will meet each Monday night. Advertising campaigns will be the topic taken up at the next meeting and it will be devoted to campaigns suitable for town the size of Salem. An enrollment of about 20 students is expected.
