Canned Fruit Scarce— The following appeared in a recent issue of the Wichita, Kansas, Beacon and may throw some light on the canned goods situation. There is no shortage in the northwest Pacific coast. The canned goods and the dried fruit are both there in abundance. The Beacon says: "Shortage in canned fruits, to financial difficulties of the canners on the Pacific coast, may result in increased consumption of dried fruits particularly peaches, apricots and prunes. This is the opinion of Wichita grocers, who are expecting much heavier sales than ever before. Not only is the canned fruit shortage having its effect, but dried fruits are considerably cheaper than they were last year. The reduction in price is especially noticeable in apricots which in Southern California grew too small this year to be available for canning, and consequently dried in great quantities. n16 valley." one of the boys told Sheriff Oscar Bower. The other boy said he had been forced to shift for himself since early summer. His father and mother are separated, he said, she living near Seattle and the male parent in a logging camp near Sisters. n16

When arrested yesterday the boys were hurrying south at the rate of 40 miles an hour, which was thought too fast by Officer Eakin. The pair were taken before Judge Kuntz. A driver's license issued to Richard Day, 15, was held by one. The car is said to belong to the other boy, Weldon Burgess, who said his father had given it to him two years ago, but that his father always took out the license in his name. n16

Day was fined $25. He and his pal possessed only $14. Judge Kuntz gave them permission to wire for money, leaving $10 on deposit in the justice court. He also took possession of the key to the automobile. n16

Both boys were taken to see the sheriff, who gave them a fatherly talk, after which they promised to return home at once as soon as they had paid their fine. Jail held no particular terrors, as long as they were together. Having the $4 in their possession they promised to report to Sheriff Bower this morning, thinking that surely they would receive an answer to their telegram by that time. The automobile is being held and can only be released upon order of the sheriff. n16
