NEWSPAPER ACTIVITY WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Seventy-five Pacific coast newspaper publishers attended a meeting here today under the auspices of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and heard an address by William A. Thompson of New York, director of the association's advertising bureau, on the value of newspaper advertising.

"The tremendous value of newspaper advertising is well illustrated," he said, "by the fact that the great majority of Pacific coast firms are placing the bulk of their advertising with newspapers."

BOYS' DAY AT LIONS' DINNER

Salem Could Do More for Youngsters, Says Rev. Harry Johnson

"Salem has not done all it should do for its boys, either those in scouting or in other activities," declared Rev. Harry Johnson, pastor of Central Congregational church, in speaking to the Salem Lions club at its Friday luncheon. Boy Scouts were guests of the club yesterday in the organization's observance of Father and Son week.

"We are raising our boys a long way from the atmosphere in which our fathers were raised. Boys in the city are no worse than other boys, but they have more leisure and no opportunity to express themselves. The Boy Scout movement does not need cheering, but time and devotion. Money could easily be raised, but the paramount need is for men who are willing to devote their time and energy to boys."

In order that the Lions might adopt the principles used in teaching scouting, that of learning by observation, F. Howard Zinser, scout executive, called upon several of his boys for demonstrations. The lads showed their skill in tying knots and learned one new one. The system was explained by Mr. Zinser during the course of the demonstration. Leadership is taught, he said, and the best boy in any certain activity in any troop becomes the leader of that activity and in turn instructs the other boys. Scout Shattuck gave a practical demonstration of obtaining fire by friction. The world's record for this, Mr. Zinser said, was nine and one-fifth seconds. Cedar wood was used in the local test. Scouts Fleming and Graber demonstrated artificial respiration.

Joe Nee, accompanied by Miss Volena Jenks, both of Willamette university, delighted the club with several vocal selections in the Scotch dialect.

New Lions introduced to the club were Al Krause, Frank D. Bligh and G. W. Nelson.
