WINIFRED BYRD DESERVES PRAISE

Kind and Encouraging Words By Frank Irvine of the Portland Journal

"A Salem Girl" is the heading of the following from the editorial columns of the Portland Journal of last night, no doubt written by Frank Irvine, the big hearted, able and appreciative editor of that paper:

"Winifred Byrd has won national recognition by indomitable persistence and real merit since she captivated New York critics as a newcomer wholly without influence.

"As an Oregon product she represents the growth of a community that has been richly fed upon the great art of all nations. Of what good is all this feeding if the American, and especially the finest local growth, be not given due recognition? Only in this way is the inner development of a musical America demonstrable. The hope of the future is in the native artist of today.

"Miss Byrd's New York critics, situated as they are with concert-going, give her amazing praise. Their admiration of her vitality and artistic individuality is genuinely heartfelt.

"This Salem girl's achievements musically are an honor to Oregon, and her concert in Portland Monday evening will be of much interest to a great many Portlanders."

Frank Riches made a business trip to Corvallis Tuesday.

B. Tingstad spent the week at Astoria. Mr. Tingstad went to Astoria to attend a church meeting.

Trinity Sewing circle will meet Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gunderson on the East Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Foster are moving to Portland for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Talmadge have moved to Oakridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coleman of Tillamook are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ingram.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Nelson entertained a few friends at their home Wednesday night.

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Prowlers Are Active—

Two Salem homes were visited by prowlers early Saturday morning, according to complaints to the police. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Millard, 2011 D, was entered through a window and a number of articles stolen. The loot included a watch; fob; Masonic emblem, man's coat, cloak and a pair of gloves. Before leaving the house the burglar spread the table and partook of a hearty luncheon, including a jar of jelly. Prof. R. Harr, 1367 North Twelfth, awoke about 4:30 o'clock to see someone attempting to crawl in through the window. He called to the prowler who disappeared, leaving a small hammer behind him.

Dog Recognizes Store—

For a period of two days Harry McGill, who recently became the owner of "Rusty," a German police dog puppy, bemoaned the loss of his pet and spent many hours in driving around the city in hopes of seeing him. "Rusty" had been permitted to roam in the yard and then had disappeared. Just as McGill was about to give up hopes, two small boys with the puppy tied to a string passed down State in front of Al Krause's store, where McGill is employed. Before the pup became the property of McGill it was owned by Krause. Recognizing the store, the small dog gave a joyful yelp and struggled to enter the door. The boys said they had found the dog in their neighborhood and had merely given him a temporary home. McGill gratefully accepted their explanation.

The bureau will be opened Monday, and will hold office hours of from 1 o'clock until 5 o'clock every afternoon with the exception of Saturday, when the bureau will be open between 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock.
