The loganberry market is a victim of the lack of salesmen to sell the balance of the county.

THE CORN SHOW

Today opens in Salem a corn show that has the support of more people than any similar show ever held in this city.

A violinist recently performing in Portland declares that he believed women should be permitted to have careers.

NOT MUCH

Governor Walton, who has just been removed in Oklahoma will not come back. He is not the kind of a man to come back.

The first thing to expect will be an order that instead of wearing buttons, every supporter of Hiram Johnson will be expected to chew gum as an insignia in honor of his campaign manager.

It is ever thus and is getting to be more thus all the time. One county in Wisconsin produces 81 per cent of the Swiss cheese sold in America.

It is mighty fine information that Oregon ranks third in literacy. Not only are our schools functioning well, but we have not attracted the low class of immigrants.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

It is the flavor— We raise the best flavored apples in the world. Publish that true statement far and wide, and repeat often enough and follow it up with good merchandising, and the world will take all the apples we can grow.

Remember that Saturday will be tag day in Marion county. Buy enough tags, at a price high enough, to pay for a splendid soldier monument. The tags will be from 10c up to as large a price as your patriotism will allow you to go.

Get the feeling, or a little of it, that you had when the boys marched away to the World war, and the whole sum will be raised Saturday.

"Nature Lover" in Tuesday's Statesman expressed the hope that the trees in the capitol grounds may be given name plates. This can be easily done.

The English elections are putting the climp in the price of the apples of the Salem district. How? By shooting holes into the price of foreign exchange.

In the mean time, however, the United States is selling enough commodities abroad to have a favorable balance of $100,000,000 a month (for October), and we have more gold than ever before.

NELSON PIKE IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Asks Fathers to Find Way to Better Understand Their Sons

Duties of a father toward his son as learned and observed through many years were stressed by Nelson Pike, Portland, in speaking at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday.

"It is a serious business to raise a child," Mr. Pike said. "But we must take care not to do it in too serious a manner."

"Appreciation is liked by all of us," Mr. Pike continued. "Did you ever think of turning it back to the other fellow or your own son? Give him just a word to help along and extend words of encouragement when necessary."

Religion and platitudes were held to be of little use unless they were put into daily practice. Mr. Pike, in prefacing his talk, told of the origin of the Father and Son movement, in Providence, R. I., in 1907, and of its growth today.

Community friendship, the spirit of fellowship between clubs and its international phase to promote a better understanding between nations were stressed by Lester

I canvass and recommend it at every house I enter."

Despite counter attractions, the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce was crowded last night for three illustrated lectures on Oregon. W. L. Findley, Portland, showed some excellent views of bird life and wild life in various parts of the state.

SONS AND DADS HEAR MR. PIER

Kiwanis Club Listens to Address by Former Portland Commissioner

Bringing a helpful message to boys in particular and some advice to fathers in general, Sylvester C. Pier, former member of the city commission, Portland, spoke to Kiwanians and their sons Tuesday in observance of the national Father and Son week.

"Boys, consider your voting franchise as one of your dearest possessions," Mr. Pier said. "Take advantage of the privilege which is a righteous obligation."

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder Is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

The Fly-By-Nighters

Since a slight improvement was evident in the business conditions of the West, this country has been subjected to an influx of Fly-By-Nighters—salesmen of stocks and other securities of doubtful worth.

The United States National Bank urges its patrons to take advantage of the fact that we have much information on current investments and to consult us about their investment purchases. If it is worth having it will stand a little looking into.

If you make a large-sized pinhole in a card held a few feet away from a gas or candle flame, a very fair inverted image of the flame may be obtained on a screen held a few inches behind the hole.

Molly King's mother kept house in an unusual fashion. She cooked the supper for her family at noon, stored it away in the warming oven or ice box, and went off to her afternoon club.

to bear in mind that is that you must base your business life upon honesty of the old-fashioned kind. Reliability is the basis of success in any business.

PLANTS THAT TWIST

We have all noticed climbing plants which attach themselves for support to trees and other things stronger than themselves.

Without the opportunity to elevate themselves by clinging to the flowers of these vines would not be displayed to the bee and the seeds to birds and wind, but they would have to mingle with the plant-covered surface of the ground.

The tendency of plants is to form spirals. Not all, however, coil or twist. The Virginia creeper attaches itself by means of adhesive disks, while the gourd and grape use tendrils.

Often trees have a twisting grain. Wood grain turns to the right or left but rarely shows a decided constancy. Chestnuts, beeches, and the red maples, have a tendency to turn toward the left, while the sorrelwood turns to the right.

"Dear, dear!" exclaimed Molly to Emily, her friend who was sewing with her. "It's such a shame Arabella has a broken nose. She looks so nice in her new dress that if she just had a face like other dolls, she'd be as pretty as any in the neighborhood."

Still, the cabbage smell in a boarding house is no worse than the smell in the smoker. Trucks serve well, of course, but it seems odd to tax the railroad to keep up the competitors roadbed.
