Salem and Corvallis Play Football Today

Though the rain may cut the attendance of Salem football fans today when the Salem and Corvallis eleven meet on Bell field, Corvallis, for the Thanksgiving game, there will be a large number of rooters on hand to assist the red and black. Coach Hollis Huntington said little about the game yesterday, other than no matter which team won, the other side would know that there had been a football contest.

The two teams are believed to be about evenly matched, though the dope slightly favors the Corvallis aggregation. Both Salem and Corvallis have defeated Albany. Corvallis defeated Eugene, which managed to nose out a victory here over Salem on Armistice day.

determining of the legislative program.

This and the other two vacancies on the committee will be filled by men from the west and it was stated that these appointees with Representative Anderson, leader of the farm bloc, will give the agricultural sections a majority on the committee. It is the expressed intention of party leaders to appoint a man from the Pacific coast, one from Illinois and from a plains state. Sinnott of Oregon and Graham of Illinois, are among those mentioned for two of the places.

Fight To Be Made

Discussion of the organization of the house and senate was confined largely today to leaders of the Democrats on the one hand and those of the progressive bloc on the other. Leaders of the senate Democrats held an informal conference in the office of Senator Robinson of Arkansas and while he declined to make any statement, it was learned that the decision of Senator Cummins of Iowa, not to relinquish voluntarily his place as president pro tem, had not altered the plan of the majority to put a full ticket into the field and to fight for its election.

Democratic leaders in the house also indicated that they would stand solidly for their ticket. Telegrams were sent to all absentees urging them to be present at the opening session of congress next Monday and particularly at the time when organization balloting begins.

Senate Democrats do not agree with Republican leaders that the election of the president of the senate is unnecessary. They hold that the vacancy in the office of vice president makes necessary the selection of a president, contending that the president pro tem is without the power to designate senators to preside in his absence and that there also is a question as to whether he is entitled to the emoluments that go with the office of the president by reason of the vacancy in the office of vice president.

Senator Cummins plans to call the senate to order next Monday and to preside until the senate has elected his successor.

Will Not Raise Issue

Republican leaders have made it clear that they do not propose to raise the issue of the selection of a president, leaving to the Democrats or the Progressives bloc the initiative in launching a contest.

Parliamentarians say a motion to proceed to the election of a president would be a highly privileged one and would have to be entertained by the presiding officer. If the senate votes in favor of an election, present expectations are that three candidates will be placed in nomination, one by the Republican organization, one by the Democrats and one by the Progressive bloc. The general belief is that none of the candidates could command a majority and that a deadlock would ensue.

It became known today that the decision of the Republican leaders to leave the presidency in status quo was reached at the conference called yesterday by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts after his visit to President Coolidge at the White House.

IRREGULAR MOVES CAUSE INTEREST

Foreign Exchanges Again Reactionary With Low Volume of Business

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Considerable irregularity developed in today's stock market with chief speculative interest again centering in a few active specialties. Railroad shares held relatively steady, and most of the standard industrials showed only slight recessions.

Stromberg carburetor was the individual feature, dropping five points from an early high of 55 1/2 and then soaring to 83 on the announcement of an increase in the regular annual dividend rate from $7 to $8 and the declaration of an extra dividend of $1.50. The stock closed at a net gain of two points at 86. Maxwell Motors "A" which has been fluctuating erratically on rumors of a merger of the Maxwell and Studebaker concerns, moved within a range of four points but closed unchanged at 49 3/4.

Davison Chemical closed 3 1/4 points higher at 72 1/4 after moving within a 4 3/4 point area.

Steel shares lost ground on reports of a subsidence in the demand for pig iron, which has exceeded a million tons in the past two weeks. This contraction was attributed by Iron Age to the higher foundry prices and the fact that most of the large consumers already have provided for their needs of the first quarter of next year. United States Steel common selling ex-dividend 1 1/4 per cent including the extra, closed at 93 3/4 after selling as high as 95 3/8, compared with 96 1/2, last night's close.

A brisk demand for Great Northern preferred and the Erie issues which touched new high records for the year featured the rail group. Buying of the stocks was based on high current earnings, Great Britain reporting net income of $5,294,338 last month as against $2,721,327 in the corresponding month last year.

A late demand for shipping shares resulted in a gain of nearly two points in American international corporation and fractional improvement in marine preferred. Intermittent heaviness took place in the rubbers, tobaccos and chemicals.

Another bullish demonstration in the cotton market sent spot and future prices to new high levels well above 36 cents a pound.

Call money opened at 4 3/4 per cent and then eased to 4 1/2. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were again reactionary with the volume of business small. Demand sterling was off nearly two cents to around $4.35 1/4 and French francs eased a few points to 5.35 cents. Other exchanges were largely nominal.

THE DALLES, Or., Nov. 28.—Henry D. Keyes, county judge of Wheeler county, Oregon, was sentenced today by Justice of the Peace J. W. Allen here to pay a fine of $350 and to serve 20 days in the county jail following his plea of guilty to a charge of the illegal possession of liquor. The justice told Judge Keyes he might return to his home at Fossil spend Thanksgiving and arrange his affairs, but that he must return December 6 to begin serving his sentence.

Fate of Yakima Rancher Given to Jury at Midnight

YAKIMA, WASH., Nov. 28.—Just at midnight the fate of J. F. Pearce, tried for first degree murder for the shooting of W. J. Hillyer on July 30, was given into the hands of the jurors. Things from among those who packed the courtroom and corridors during the arguments of counsel remained in their seats to await news of the jury's verdict.

Members of the prosecutor's staff attacked the theories of self-defense and mental irresponsibility during their pleas and counsel for the defense made a stirring plea that the fatal shot was in defense of family.

The entire family of the defendant including his wife, two daughters, mother and brother sat immediately behind the widow and son of the slain man during the session. When the prosecutor finished his opening argument everyone of them was in tears and the widow and son of the deceased man were led from the room by relatives and friends.

The prosecution asked for conviction but not specifically for death sentence.

They will join the squad immediately after the final football game with University of Washington at Seattle Saturday.

BUDGET ERROR IS MINOR ONE

ADDITION INSTEAD OF SUBTRACTION IN CITY ESTIMATE STARTLES BOARD

The budget of the city of Salem is in no way affected by the error found by the county tax supervising and conservation commission yesterday when the city figures were presented to the commission for its approval.

As presented to the commission the budget represented the city's estimated expenses to be $252,193.13, when as a matter of fact the estimated expenses are $252,183.46. The trouble was caused by a clerical error, whereby the estimated expenses are $225, amount of $27,009.67, was added to the estimated $225,183.46 instead of being subtracted from it.

The budget of the city of Woodburn was presented to the commission yesterday by Virgil Massey, city attorney. The amount for the coming year is $28,060, of this amount the actual tax levy will be $15,485 and receipts are estimated at $12,575. Included in the budget items are bonds and interest in the sum of $5635, street work $4450 and water $5405. The only increase is the city attorney's salary, which is raised from $30 to $50 a month.

The city of Hubbard also submitted its budget of $4930.

NEWBERG YOUTHS HELD TO JURY

DISPUTING EVERY MOVE UPON THE PART OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY JOHN CARSON, REPRESENTING THE STATE IN PROSECUTING ROLLAND CRITES AND ELROY HAINES, NEWBERG YOUTHS CHARGED WITH RAPE AGAINST TWO MINOR SHERWOOD GIRLS, ATTORNEY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 28.—Zack J. Farmer, head of the football committee of the Community Development association, today officially invited Syracuse university and the University of Washington to meet it in inter-sectional gridiron contest at the Coliseum here Christmas day. The invitations went out with the endorsement of the general athletic committee of the University of Southern California, composed of faculty, students and alumni which issued a statement declaring that a Syracuse-USC game would be undesirable for two reasons: First, Washington's victory over the Trojans, entitling the northern team to preference; and second, the fact that the University of Southern California played a post-season game last New Year's day.

REPUBLIC STANDS BUT NOT GOVERNMENT

"The military dictatorship, however, took no steps against me personally, although the cabinet

Kliks, McMinnville, greatly delayed the proceedings of the justice court Wednesday afternoon and was reprimanded by Judge P. J. Kuntz. The boys were given separate hearings, and when District Attorney Carson sought to have Crites give some testimony regarding an alleged automobile trip in which the two girls were involved, Attorney Kliks grew loud in his objections.

Crites appeared in the role of a small-town sheik. His hair was long and his sideburns were carefully pointed. Instead of cuffs around the bottom of his trousers there appeared a flare. Under oath he said that a trip involving the other boy and the girls would not incriminate him, though he refused to reply to the question whether or not they motored into Marion county. This resulted in much legal wrangling.

Both boys were ordered held to await action by the grand jury and their bonds of $1000 each ordered continued.

was powerless to resist its efforts. This, as well as the fact that the provisional government was composed of incompetent or dishonest persons, caused me to take the above step."

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(By the Associated Press).—The widespread impression that the main cause of the food scarcity in Germany is that the farmers are refusing to sell their crops, preferring to hold them for increased prices, is wholly unfounded, Count Kanitz, food minister, declared today.

Must Sell Out

"The farmers are willing to sell, indeed they must sell, because they need money to carry on—to pay wages and taxes," he said. "They sold very considerable quantities of the last crop. In all the negotiations the government has conducted with the agricultural interests the latter have shown willingness to part with their product."

Count Kanitz made the point that the farmers living remote from the urban centers are at a disadvantage in that they cannot turn over their money as readily as city dwellers.

Another erroneous impression, he said, was that the depreciation of the mark had been artificially produced by certain classes of the community, notably the industrialists. The depreciation was the outcome of the whole situation, the severe peace conditions and above all the occupation of the Ruhr, he said.

Summing up the situation, the food minister said that Germany needs cereals from abroad in a good time.
