SPORT BRIEFS

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 5.—An inter-scholastic basketball tournament will be held here again this year, according to announcement today by University of Washington athletic authorities. The contests will be held in the university gym March 7 and 8.

A tournament last year, the first in Washington's history, was a great success, it was said. It has been decided by the authorities to leave the matter of districting to the state high school athletic association.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 5.—A guarantee of $6,500 for a football game between the University of Idaho and Stanford university here next fall was authorized by the executive committee of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce today. Five thousand dollars of the guarantee would go to Stanford and $1500 to Idaho under the committee's action, which was ord-

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Baseball forces of the nation started mobilizing here tonight to clear the decks for the important meetings starting next Monday and continuing throughout the week.

The American league directors will meet with President Johnson next Monday to formulate the league's policy for the joint session with the national league club owners on the following Wednesday.

The schedule for the 1924 season will be among the questions to be considered by the American league club owners. President Johnson favors a schedule of 154 games starting the season about the same date as last year.

Harry Williams of Los Angeles, one of the two presidents of the Pacific coast league, arrived today with several of the coast league owners. President Williams said his mission was to restore harmony in his organization and he believes that if the legality of his election is questioned, the national board of arbitration will uphold the decision of the five club owners who voted him into office.

population is now a municipality and has its own laws. One volume with 250 pages is necessary to hold rules and regulations in Portland alone, he said.

That it would be necessary to fall back on the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and an individual sense of justice in order to keep from violating laws was held by the speaker. The need of the hour is an organized and concerted effort to prevent law breaking, he said.

Justice John McCourt characterized the supreme court as a tribunal for the settlement of disputes concerning the rights of others. He highly eulogized that organization, lauding the character of its judges and that they sought to follow the high standards set by their predecessors.

Criticism of decisions based upon technicalities that are made by newspapers were flayed by the speaker, who pointed out that whenever a newspaper faced a libel suit it sought to save itself by taking refuge from these same technicalities and in a majority of cases is successful.

The work of the supreme court covers a wide area of civil cases in which common law principles and legal principles are involved, he said. Annually 18,000 decisions and written opinions are handed down by the various courts of the state. Complicated business have arisen and the work of settlement of disputes solely upon legal principles is an arduous one involving care, industry and painstaking efforts, he declared.

Members of the supreme court present were Chief Justice Thomas McBride, Justices H. J. Bean, John L. Rand, Lawrence T. Harris and John McCourt. Special selections were sung by Dan Hughes, ex-soldier who served under the British flag for five years, accompanied by Tommy Roberts. John McNary presided as chairman of the day.

Willamette Fraternities To Have Joint Open House

The fraternities of Willamette university will hold their joint open house Saturday afternoon, December 8. A fifth fraternity has been added this year at the university. This is the Epsilon Delta Mu which was granted permission by the administration to organize last spring. All of the fraternities here are locals as no national affiliations have been allowed.

Townpeople are invited to attend any or all of the affairs at the houses so that they may gain a conception of what Willamette fraternity life is like.

It is the plan for visitors to go to the fraternity houses in rotation. The following program has been worked out by the inter-fraternity council which has charge of events of this nature. Kappa Gamma Rho at 316 North Church street will be at home from 7:30 until 9; Alpha Psi Delta at 840 Union street, from 8 until 9:30; Phi Kappa Pi at 1020 Center street, from 8:30 until 10; Epsilon Delta Mu at 1118 Oak street, from 9 until 10:30 and Sigma Tau at 920 Oak street from 9:15 until 10:45.

BOXING

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh and Gene Tunney of New York are close to top form for their 15-round match next Monday night at Madison Square Garden. It will be the third time they have fought for the American light heavyweight championship. Tunney took the crown from Greb in their last meeting in March, but Greb, possessor of the world's middleweight title is confident he will regain the 175-pound honors.

Roland Todd of England, European middleweight champion, will make his American debut in the semi-final match, opposing Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia.

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 5.—Chick Roach slugged his way to a decision over Gene Cline in the main event here tonight. The men are welterweights. Sam Baker, negro heavyweight, defeated George Gibbons, and Eddie Kelly and Teddy Ziedeman fighting at catch weights, received a draw.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Jimmy Carter laid claim to the welterweight title of San Francisco presidio as a result of his decision over Kid Norfolk in the main event of a card here tonight.

Roy Riley and Henry Falgout, featherweights boxed four rounds to a draw. Al Crinelli defeated Johnny Lawson in another featherweight bout.

that operated to entirely eliminate the nuisance. In fact, a number of plants so visited were found where the nuisance, if so termed, exceeded any plant in operation in the city of Salem.

"The various devices known as spark arresters were examined in operation and also to some extent their construction, and it is the consensus of opinion of this committee that they all are of little value, except to take care of ordinary cases.

"This committee from its engineering experience is satisfied that the trouble cannot be entirely eliminated, this fact based on the fuel used, which is of a light nature, hence we can only recommend changes that would tend to improve conditions.

Thorough Burning Necessary
"In the consumption of fuel in a furnace the principal object is to abstract all of its heat value. When this is accomplished only a residue of non-combustible matter remains commonly termed ash. The retention of ash in the receptacle provided for it depends in a measure on its weight and the intensity of draught required to operate the furnace.

"In our visit to the principal plants located in Salem we found that all were using wood waste for fuel. At the time of our visit one of the plants that had been equipped with elaborate and expensive mechanism to check the omission of cinders was not in operation. From an examination of this mechanism we feel that this plant has done everything in their power to prevent the emission of cinders but we are also of the opinion that under certain load conditions, cinders cannot be entirely eliminated.

Water Tube Boiler Praised
"At the next plant visited a large water tube boiler was being installed with modern furnace design. From our observations in this boiler room we all are of the opinion that after this boiler is completely installed and in operation the nuisance referred to will be largely eliminated in so far as this plant is concerned.

that the stacks had recently been provided with spark arresters. Our observations at the time of this visit did not show that an undue amount of cinders was being emitted from these stacks, although the smoke observed would indicate that poor furnace conditions prevailed.

Recommendations Made
"From these observations we conclude that only reasonable results may be expected, and to this end we suggest:

"That furnaces and combustion chambers be so designed that the highest efficiency may be obtained with respect to the fuel consumption.

"That furnaces be stoked in regular order by load conditions.

"That dampers be regulated likewise.

"That where changes are contemplated a high chimney or stack be installed to accommodate all boilers and that proper supervision and check be kept on fireroom employees and the importance of their task in the abatement of this nuisance be impressed upon them."

forced to confine itself to the legal aspects of a case, it does the best that it can."

Only five people out of every 100 evince a desire not to obey the law, according to the speaker. That this is the age of law-making was pointed out. In illustrating his remarks Justice McBride declared that nearly one foot of space is occupied in condensed codes of Oregon laws. In 1874 one volume occupying about three inches of space on a shelf contained all the codes. By 1897 the space had increased to 5 1/2 inches, and another inch found necessary in 1901. As the courts continued its work with many new statutes and amendments the space continued to grow until in 1909 it occupied 10 inches. Nearly every town or 500 or more
