BLIGH—“Can A Woman Love Twice.”
OREGON—“Red Lights.”
LIBERTY—“An Old Sweetheart of Mine.”

James Whitcomb Riley's "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," one of the finest poems ever written, has been made into one of the most beautiful photoplays we have ever seen. It was shown for the first time at the Liberty theater yesterday, and undoubtedly a large audience. It will undoubtedly prove extremely popular with movie-goers everywhere, and deservedly so, because it has the irresistible appeal which is in the poem itself.

It is the poem, developed and heightened in dramatic power, and transferred to the silver sheet. All the elements which make the poem so well loved are in this Metro photoplay. And the original theme is worked into a rapidly moving story full of humor, pathos, and thrills. It is the type of picture we should have more of.

Today and tonight mark the closing performances at the Bligh theater of Eitel Clayton in "Can a Woman Love Twice?," the remarkable Film Booking Offices photodrama which has been thrilling and entertaining big crowds at every performance during its run. The local success of the picture is but a duplicate of the hit made wherever it is shown, for its dramatic qualities are such as to elevate it far above the ordinary run of "movies."

There are mystery, thrills and suspense in abundance in the new Goldwyn feature photoplay, "Red Lights," which opened a three day engagement at the Oregon theater yesterday. It is an adaptation of Edward E. Rose's stage melodrama called "The Rear Car," in which Richard Bennett had such a big success on the Coast and which Taylor Holmes did in the East.

It would be unfair to those who see the picture later to give the plot in detail, but it is a story of a young girl, Ruth Carson, the adopted daughter of a railroad magnate, whose identity is at last discovered. This discovery begins a series of strange and mysterious warnings of imminent death. Her lover, John Blake, calls on his friend, Sheridan Scott, the "crime deflector," to protect the girl. Passage is engaged to Chicago on the Continental Limited but the mysterious warnings and strange happenings (including a murder as baffling appearance of balls of red light in the car) continue to take place.

SILVERTON NEWS
 SILVERTON, Or., Dec. 11.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Mr.

PRINGLE

Mr. Sharback's sale day proved to be very wet and the attendance was below expectations. Farm machinery sold at a sacrifice, and horses and harness sold cheaply. There seemed to be very few of those present who were interested in the sale.

Lowell Bates has been distributing Christmas stamps in this vicinity.

Ivan Meeks spent the week-end in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Meeks were invited to attend the wedding of their daughter, Marie, of Portland Sunday.

Dan Dybsetter who has been confined to the Silverton hospital for several weeks is reported as improving.

Walter Toft who has spent the past few months in Idaho has returned to Silverton.

Prohibition Violators Pay Big Sums in Fines

Five hundred dollars in cash was donated in the justice court yesterday by two violators of the prohibition laws. Joe Kurisko, of Gates, paid $300 for possession of mash, and G. E. Barringer, Mehama, $200 for possession of intoxicating liquor. Both arrests were made by Walter Barber, deputy sheriff.

Six children, a wife and a steady job contributed to Judge Kuntz' decision to omit a jail sentence, for in seeking to find an alibi for the mash, Kurisko claimed that while he knew of its presence, it belonged to his wife.

After a hard luck tale by Barfinger, during which he related that the liquor was for a poor father fast approaching the point of

WOERNLE GETS COURT REBUKE

Portland Attorney Suspend From Practice for Period of Six Months

The state supreme court yesterday, in an opinion written by Justice Brown, disbars Joseph Woernle, a Portland attorney, for six months, instead of disbaring him permanently, and asked by the grievance committee of the State Bar association and the grievance committee and board of chancellors of the Multnomah Bar association. Woernle was accused of obtaining a passport in his own name in 1914 and turning it over to Hans Boehn, a reserve officer of the German army, so that Boehn might enter Germany and fight in the war with the German forces.

Boehn was accused of committing perjury to obtain a second passport some years later, claiming that the original one was lost or stolen. The first charge was fully substantiated by the findings of the referee, to whom the case was submitted before it went to the supreme court.

Relative to the second offense the opinion says:

"If Joseph Woernle filed a false affidavit in his application for the second passport, the federal government knew all the circumstances before the statute of limitation for the prosecution of the crime of perjury had expired, and the federal government is willing and abundantly able to enforce its own criminal statute." However it is held that the offense is punishable.

While evidence was abundant to show that Woernle's sympathy was with Germany before the United States entered the war, there was no evidence to show that he was disloyal after the United States entered the war.

Other opinions were:

Albert J. Sather vs. Joseph V. Giacomi, appellant: appeal from Clatsop county; suit to recover damages. Opinion by Justice Burnett. Judge J. U. Campbell affirmed.

Justice Rand. Judge John McCourt affirmed.

W. Z. Moss, appellant, vs. E. E. Woodcock; appeal from Lake county; motion to dismiss appeal; appeal dismissed in opinion by Chief Justice McBride.

Grace Libby, administratrix of estate of A. C. Libby, deceased, vs. Southern Pacific company, appellant; appeal from Marion county; petition for rehearing denied, in opinion by Chief Justice McBride.

State of Oregon vs. Frank Reeb, appellant, and Arlen Kinney, defendant; appeal from Tillamook county; motion to dismiss appeal granted in opinion by Chief Justice McBride.

State vs. Louis Doran appellant; appeal from Marion county; statutory offense, appeal dismissed by stipulation.

Glyde Tucker Dickinson of Portland admitted to bar on nine month's probation, on certificate of state of Washington.

Harding Memorial Week Little Observed Here

Often it has been said that a man is soon forgotten after his death, but no more striking illustration of this has been noticed in years than here in Salem. Conspicuous by its absence is even a solitary portrait of the late President Warren G. Harding on exhibition in any of the local stores, where but a short time ago one of the familiar likenesses, bedecked with crepe, was displayed in a prominent position in many places of business.

Upon proclamation of President Coolidge, national recognition of the late executive is called by a Harding Memorial week, December 10 to 15. Governor Walter M. Pierce also by proclamation, designated this week to be set aside for this purpose in Oregon.
