

WAR VETERANS FAVOR NEW BONUS MEASURE

(Continued from page 1) Five Hawley of Oregon and Treadway of Massachusetts ranking Republicans on the committee, were designated to confer tomorrow with Mr. Mellon on fiscal matters as a preliminary to next week's committee sessions.

Members of the committee said they expect that once hearings get under way Secretary Mellon will appear in person as he has done frequently in the past, to explain his tax proposals.

Republican house members who are war veterans, continued to make plans for pressing the soldiers' bonus bill to a vote. A meeting of the Republican former service men will be held tomorrow and it was indicated that unless a bonus bill was reported to the house without delay they would launch a movement to have the Republican membership, at a conference instruct the ways and means committee to report the measure.

Former service men in the house generally favor re-introduction and passage of the bill vetoed during the last congress by President Harding. They predict that not more than 60 votes will be cast against it in the house and that it will receive enough votes in the senate to ensure its passage over a presidential veto.

BOUGHT MAN'S ASHES

INGLEBY, Eng., Nov. 15.—(By mail)—Opening a brass box which he bought a year ago as part of a miscellaneous collection of articles, a dealer was astonished to find an urn with an inscription indicating that it contained the ashes of a man named Abraham Knowles who was cremated in Philadelphia in 1898.

CREAM CLEARS A STUFFED-UP HEAD

Instantly Opens Every Air Passage—Clears Throat

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your clogged nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more yawning or snuffling. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine.—Adv.

ORIGINAL COMPANY COMING TO GRAND

Perfect Fool Here for Two Shows at Grand Theater Christmas Day

H. P. Hill, advance agent for "The Perfect Fool" which will play in Salem Christmas day at the Grand theater, was in Salem yesterday making arrangements for the show here.

"The Perfect Fool," with Ed Wynn, is the original Broadway company, and while it does not make one-night stands as a rule, will do so at Eugene and Salem to break the run from San Francisco north to Portland and because it is impossible to open in Portland until Wednesday because of the Orpheum circuit which is in possession of the Heilig until Wednesday.

"The Perfect Fool" is considered one of the biggest bookings which it has been Salem theatergoers' good fortune to have, since it is the original company and because it is unusual for the company to make one-night stands. Two shows, matinee and evening, will be given Christmas day.

A titled beauty in the person of the Countess Nydia d'Arnell is a recent discovery of Ed Wynn.

their broils." He urged that the present generation be trained to be ready for the future. "It is hard for some people to see the world as a unity and to be truly great it is first necessary to become servants of all," he said.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

with you, Pa Cosgrove," I said decidedly. "And we're wasting time discussing anything else. Will you ride with us or the doctor?"

"With the doc, I guess; so if anything happens to his car I could help him out. It's been acting up a bit, he says."

"Suppose we run right behind you," I suggested. "Then if anything goes wrong with his car we can pick him up and lose no time."

"That's the ticket!" Pa Cosgrove exclaimed. "We'll be off in a jiffy."

The physician, a short stocky man, with the air of efficiency and readiness to meet an emergency which only the successful man possesses, already had gone to his car, and we heard the noise of its starting as Pa Cosgrove ran toward it. I turned my own ignition switch and swung in close behind Dr. Moss's car as it started at breakneck speed down the road.

"Well! I must say, Madge, this is a very queer proceeding," Bess began querulously. "Why? Pa Cosgrove didn't care—"

"Let me give you a piece of advice, sweet child," Dicky said lazily. "You might as well tackle that famous rock—you know—'this rock shall fly as soon as I—as to budge my missus when she gets that Puritan conscience of hers 'rot' on an idea. Besides, did it ever strike you that if we beat it at this juncture, it would be distinct proof to Smithy's alleged brain that we did have a hand in beaming that poor lad? No; I'm afraid there's nothing to do but

DEMOCRACY IS LANDERS TOPIC

School Head Finds it Lacking in Government, Education, Religion

"Though democracy is our ideal we lack it in our government, educational, religious and economic life," was the declaration made to the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon by J. S. Landers, president of the state normal school at Monmouth. That the country is still intolerant of various ideas was illustrated by the speaker in his comments upon a certain measure that was voted upon last year and which is now in the hands of the courts. The measure was not named by the speaker.

Democracy was likened to a ray of light, which can be separated into seven primary elements, each of which was dwelt upon briefly by President Landers.

Freedom was held to be the first of these elements and was inculcated in America by the early settlers. Equality, before the law and of opportunity was also stressed. The third was justice, in religion, commercial, political, social and other activities. Tolerance was deemed necessary by the speaker, who said the spirit of intolerance is still possessed to a large degree. Cooperation, both within and between various organizations was urged. Sympathy and can be best obtained by putting oneself in the attitude of the sixth element was held vital in love, was described as the other people, both here and abroad he said. Brotherhood, culminating seventh and last element.

"We have not attained all of these elements and are only approximating them", President Landers said. "The citizen of today cannot give too much thought to these things. He must be willing to aid the weak brother at home and abroad, particularly assistance and protection for young republicans."

"In our economic life we lack much of the democratic spirit. Business, industry and economic life are still carried on for individual interests, which is following the old belief. We need to reorganize our economic life and come to a place where we are willing that the other fellow shall have an equal opportunity with us. The altruistic side of our lives needs strengthening."

Touching upon international relations in closing President Landers said that "if we had cause to participate in the World war we also have legitimate cause to participate in European affairs without entangling ourselves in

FURNITURE SALE

THIS great furniture sale is swinging along like a great ocean liner on a record breaking voyage. All previous records broken for selling. There were more people here, they bought more, they were better satisfied. No sale of the past can show such a record. Only a few of the many bargains are mentioned in our advertisements. Just as the pages of the newspaper cannot possibly chronicle all the interesting news of the day, so this ad can never give you more than an imperfect idea of the bargains. But come today or tomorrow and see for yourself.
