mountain regions of Oregon. The question everyone is asking is "who is the man?" Surely some one of the business men of Salem must know, and perhaps he might be glad to get in touch with one of his old childhood playmates. Mr. Parker says that the picture will hang in his show case for the next ten days and that he will be glad to have anyone identify this character.

Close Hour Earlier—Beginning tonight Salem barber shops will close at 8 o'clock Saturday nights instead of 9 o'clock as has been the custom for many years. All shops in the city except one have signed the agreement. The shops close at 8 o'clock on other nights, and 8 o'clock is the daily opening hour.

Home at Auction—A real clever new bungalow will be sold at auction Tuesday next, including the furniture, at 1575 West 4th st., West Salem. Woodry & Woodry are the auctioneers. See today's paper for full particulars. d16

Rates Will Stand—The Columbia Stages and the Royal Blue lines, operating between Portland and Seaside, are allowed by an order of the public service commission yesterday, to put into effect a reduced schedule of fares. The fares were established about two weeks ago, but have not legally been in operation for the reason that the companies did not file their schedules with the commission. Included in the new rates is the establishment of 15 cents instead of 25 cents as a minimum charge.

The Bell Boy—The singer, and the wise one, at the Bligh theater today and tomorrow. 115

Youngsters Marry—Lewis Cobb, 16, and Millie May Pritchard, 21 years old, both of Stayton, were wed this morning at the courthouse by Judge B. M. Payne. The boy's mother, Mrs. Lewis A. Cobb, appeared as witness and gave her consent to the marriage. The groom gave his occupation as a farmer.—Albany Democrat.

Out From Siletz—E. L. Chalcraft in charge of the United States Indian agency at Siletz, was a Salem visitor yesterday. He also visited Chemawa, where he was former superintendent of the Salem Indian school. Miss Chalcraft accompanied him. She visited at Chemawa and also took the opportunity to do some Christmas shopping at the Salem stores.

An Interesting Picture—An extremely interesting picture is shown this morning in the display cases of the Parker-Shrode studio in the Eldridge building on Commercial street. A real mountain character of the old Jesse James type. The man in the picture was, at one time some 50 years ago, a schoolmate of one of the most popular professional men of Salem, but is today living the life of a recluse back in the Store Has New Ideas—"Do your Christmas Shopping Early!" These signs have greeted Salem folk for the last two weeks, varied only by the signs in the postoffice, which reads, "Mail Your Christmas Packages Early." It remained for a downtown confectionery to capitalize the slogan by reversing the order and informing their patrons "Shop Late if You Want To. Our Stocks are Always Complete." Now father may rest assured that he may go into at least one store the night before Christmas and get mother a box of candy and feel that he is not doing wrong by so doing. This shop is also a manufacturing plant and when stocks run low it speeds up production of sweet meats. Other shops who ask their patrons to shop early are not in a position to renew stocks so readily, so "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early" is good advice, besides being convenient for the clerks.

Asby Dixon Appointed—Governor Pierce yesterday appointed Asby Dixon, a Portland attorney, as district judge for department No. 1, Portland and Multnomah county, to succeed Judge J. W. Bell, who has resigned, effective January 1.

State Needs Store Room—Because of the congested condition of space at the state house, the state industrial accident commission is looking about for some place to store a lot of its old records. Rooms on the third floor of the city hall will probably be rented for the purpose.
