things apparently proved too much for one of Salem's most prominent burglars. He is not mercurial—simply impecunious. He wants to go hunting. At one Salem home, according to report received by the police today, he stole an alarm clock. At another he picked up a first class, duck-back hunting coat. At still another he stole a dime's worth of liver. At each dwelling he declined to take articles of value. (Continued on page 7)
