Legion Hears Chow Call
Chow call will be sounded Tuesday night at the last meeting of the year for Capitol Post No. 5, of the American legion. This meeting will also be the last under the present officers, those having recently been elected to take office at special installation ceremonies January 5. The committee appointed to look into larger and more private quarters for the post will probably have something to offer Tuesday night. With interest growing in the legion and a larger attendance at each meeting, the veterans' room at the armory is proving insufficient to accommodate the gathering and it is out of the question to hold a meeting in the main auditorium. All men eligible for membership in the legion are invited to attend the Tuesday night feed.

Marshfield Guard Inspected
After spending the week in inspecting the 48th company, CAC, Oregon national guard, Adjutant General George A. White and Majors James Dusenbury and J. V. Schur have returned to Salem. The Marshfield unit was pronounced one of the finest in the state. While in the Coos bay section Adjutant-General White, who was a bugler in the Spanish American war, competed with Gubler Tucker, of Marshfield, who claims to be the champion coast artillery wind-jammer. Though no decision was reached, the contest was declared to have provided a great amount of amusement for the guardsmen. Roads leading into Marshfield are in excellent shape, according to Major Dusenbury, though the railroad service is hampered by a log jam.

Postoffice Adds Department
In order to speed up checking and weighing of parcels, the postoffice will have a table in the lobby beginning Monday morning. A clerk will be on duty and assist in weighing all packages and marking them with the proper amount of postage. This will greatly relieve the holiday rush, and is the plan adopted several years ago by the local postoffice.

Turner Scouts Reorganized
Action was taken by the Turner Boy Scout troop last night to register the troop at headquarters after it had been absent from the room for some time. F. P. Rowley, who has been acting scout master, was confirmed for the office. Plans of interest to the Turner troop were discussed. The meeting was attended by Howard Zinsler, Salem Boy Scout executive.

Burglaries Are Reported
Between 5 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m. last Tuesday his home was entered and a duck-back hunting coat stolen, according to a complaint made to the police by R. J. O'Leary, 1990 South High. An alarm clock was the only loot taken from M. J. Melchler, 455 North Sixteenth, he reported.

Lumber Sent to Orient
Lumber shipments are not being made to Japan yet, according to Oliver Myers, of the Charles K. Spaulding Logging company, at the Salem plant is busy getting out an order for 275,000 feet of heavy timbers for China.

Holiday Trade Brisk
Coupled with Christmas shopping, the number of Saturday out of town shoppers in the city yesterday was excessive. Stores were crowded and the sidewalks filled with a hurrying crowd.

Much Property Listed
Property values listed with the multiple listing bureau of the Marion-Polk County Realty association show an gain of approximately $20,000 over last week, according to figures compiled yesterday by Miss Martha Leavenworth, executive secretary. City property representing a total valuation of $58,725 was listed, while farm and suburban tracts to the extent of $181,365 are now available at each office of the members. The total valuation is placed at $220,000. City property ranges from $2300 to $6300 and the other varies between $1200 and $33,600. All members of the bureau are enthusiastic over the method of giving better service to clients.

Bribe Takers in Prison
In charge of S. W. Starmer, Umpqua county sheriff, and Ed Singleton, deputy sheriff, Fred Fred Schulte and John S. (Jack) Connelly, were brought to Salem yesterday and turned over to the prison authorities. Schulte has begun serving a seven year and Connelly a 10 year sentence in connection with taking bribes while supposedly enforcing the prohibition law around Reedsport. Schulte was formerly a constable and Connelly a deputy sheriff, the latter holding office for only 44 days. Both the officers returned to Roseburg on the first train after getting rid of their prisoners.

Women Inspect Prison
A group of prominent Portland club women inspected the state prison yesterday and were in conference with Warden A. M. Dalrymple regarding his work. Dr. Mabel Aiken, though not a practicing physician, is in charge of the women. She is interested in social and welfare work.

Holstein Herd Increased
Since the arrival of a herd of blooded Holsteins at the state prison farm, several calves have been born, but much to the disgust of Tom Cornelius, who has charge of the dairy and farming department, none has been of the milk producing variety. Complaint of the situation was stopped yesterday with the arrival of two heifer calves.

Parking Signs Effective
Beyond all doubt, the recently installed parking limit signs are bringing the desired effect, for though there was an unusually large number of automobiles in the city Saturday, no difficulty was encountered in parking for a short time any place within the fire limits. All streets adjacent to the restricted district were lined with automobiles, particularly the court house square, which was entirely surrounded.

Realtors Hold Luncheon
The first of the Saturday lunches to be held by the Marion-Polk County Realty association was held at the Grayhalls yesterday, with all members present. These are informal luncheons, and members devote their time to discussing various exchanges or trades that they may have.

Provisions Not Mandatory
That provision of the law which says that the final order of the county tax supervising and conservation commissions shall be made by December 16 is director and not mandatory, according to an opinion of the attorney general. The law says that the order shall be in by December 16, but the attorney general holds that the commissions have until December 28, which gives sufficient time for the annual tax levy.

PERSONALS

Ronald C. Glover, Salem attorney, returned from a business trip to Spokane Saturday morning. Sam Starmer, sheriff of Douglas county, arrived here yesterday with two prisoners for the state penitentiary.

Linn Nesmith, well known here, was in Salem between trains last night on his way to Klamath Falls where he is now making his home. He attended the funeral of his cousin, C. N. McArthur, in Portland yesterday.

Mrs. Hattie Ordway and daughter were Stayton callers in Salem Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Anderson, of Medford, were recent callers in the city.

Waterloo, Linn county resort, was represented in the city yesterday by Lillie Dobson, Lee Dobson, Beattie Miller, Mrs. Nettie Bruce and O. L. Seabrook.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Witherbe were overnight visitors in the city from Oregon City.

Polish Organization Seeks Larger Immigration Quota
(By The Associated Press)
WARSAW, Dec. 14.—(By Mail)—Thanks to the interest taken by President Wojciechowski in American Poles, the organizers of the circles in various parts of the country for the protection of returning American Poles have been able to set up a central office in Warsaw. This office will centralise all the work that is being done for these Poles returning to the homeland, and will keep in touch with American organizations interested in the same work.

In love, yet forbidden to marry! How to overcome the objection of modern parents is solved in "The Marriage Maker," a new Paramount feature to be shown at the Oregon theater Tuesday. Lord Stonbury, played by Jack Holt, is about to marry a girl for her money because all he has is a title. But then comes the girl he loves, a girl he hasn't seen in years, what should he do?

Brooding over this unhappy turn of affairs, Stonbury is about to end it all when a Faun from the fields, prying into civilized life puts in an unexpected appearance and luckily for Lord Stonbury, brings about a radical change in conditions. How? That's the novelty of "The Marriage Maker."

The paramount picture, "Ruggles of Red Gap," a James Cruze production and a picturization of the novel and play of the same name by Harry Leon Wilson has scored an artistic success in its two days at the Bligh theater.

The screen version of the story, prepared by Walter Woods and Anthony Colver, is an exact picturization of the original, produced with all the skill of a master director and with the last word in modern photography and lighting effects. Featured in the principal roles in the production are Edward Horton, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson, Fritz Ridgeway, Charles Ogle and Louise Dresser.

"Ruggles" is not just another picture—it is far more—it is a James Cruze production for Paramount.

The latest Mack Bennett photoplay burlesque of adventure and red hot romance on the burning desert, satirizing "The Sheik," contradicts all statements relative to the manner in which the Arabians live.

In "The Sheik of Araby," as the new production is known, Ben Turpin and Kathryn McGuire, the featured players, would make you believe that ham and ostrich eggs were the regular morning meal and that the milkman delivered the milk and cream each day, and even the newsboy left the daily papers at the tent entrance; also that living in a tent is as clean, wholesome and comfortable as a hotel.

This latest Bennett farce, an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release, will be given its first showing next Friday at the Grand theater.

William S. Hart in "Wild Bill Hickok," directed by Clifford S. Smith, is an announcement that will have familiar ring to the motion picture world. In the good old days, beginning in 1914, Clifford S. Smith directed this famous star in no less than 45 pictures. Twenty-two of these were two-reelers and 23 were five-reel pictures. These were the Western productions that made Bill Hart world-famous as the king of Western heroes.

"Wild Bill Hickok," marks the director's debut for Paramount release. It will be shown at the Bligh December 26. Ethel Grey Terry plays opposite Mr. Hart and heads an excellent supporting cast. The feature is said to be one of the most thrilling of Mr. Hart's long repertoire.

When "Zaza," the great French play was produced in Paris some 25 years ago, and which was the starring vehicle for Madame Rejane, it was believed by many critics that it would be impossible for any American actress to portray that arduous role as artistically as the actress named, but these critics were in error, as the evidence showed.

The picturization of this charming play by Paramount with the beautiful American actress, Gloria Swanson, in the title role, is said by many to be a far more powerful characterization than has ever been seen on the American stage or screen. In this splendid picturization, which will be shown at the Oregon theater Friday, Miss Swanson relies entirely upon the power of pantomimic art in which the French always have been adepts, but those who have seen the great screen artist in her wonderful emotional interpretations, in which she has appeared for several years, will be the first to declare that Miss Swanson is the only American screen star who vests the role of "Zaza" with a power never before witnessed in silent drama productions.

The life ambition of millions of fire-buffs to go to a real fire in a fire chief's car was realized by Alice Calhoun during the making of "The Midnight Alarm," which closes at the Grand theater tonight.

At the invitation of the chief of the fire department of Los Angeles, Miss Calhoun, accompanied by her mother, visited Engine Company No. 14 to obtain an insight into the life and duties and thrills of real fire fighters, about whom the story of "The Midnight Alarm" is concerned.

Miss Calhoun was shown through the station. She visited the quarters of men and saw how they lived while on duty. She was told how the fire alarm system worked and given facts about the power and speed of the fire engines and trucks.

The evening passed uneventfully. The battalion chief, however, had a "hunch" that a midnight alarm was about due, and inasmuch as Miss Calhoun was making her new picture, "The Midnight Alarm," he persuaded her and her mother to remain and go to the fire he hoped would materialize.

At four minutes after 12 the alarm came through. The men slid down the brass poles and took their positions on the truck as signal concluded. Miss Calhoun, with her mother, went into the battalion chief's car.

FORTUNE SMILES ON MINER

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 23. (By mail.)—Joe Wilson, 80 years old, and his son, aged 50, showed up in Seward recently with 120 ounces of placer gold which they had taken out in 12 days at Moose Pass, 29 miles from Seward on the Alaska railroad.

Old fashioned form: "May I presume to introduce myself, sir?"
Modern form: "Gotta match?"

League Would Provide For Organized Relief

(By The Associated Press)
GENEVA, Dec. 14.—(By Mail)—One outcome of the recent Japanese earthquake is found in the efforts being made by the League of Nations to secure quick information from all governments concerning the creation of an international organization for the speedy relief of populations stricken by calamities. A proposal to found such an association was made at the last assembly by Senator Circolo, president of the Italian Red Cross.

The underlying idea of the project is inter-governmental cooperation on insurance principles. Governments would undertake to contribute to a fund to be utilized internationally through the various Red Cross societies, to afford organized and adequate relief immediately upon the occurrence of any great disaster within the territory of one of the participating states. The plan is to place the organization under the supervision of the council of the League of Nations, which would act chiefly in an advisory capacity.

As a general thing, the reformer who says the forces of hell are opposing him is flattering himself.
