BEST PLAYERS COMING NORTH

Portland and Seattle Get Pick of New Players for Coast League

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 17.—With the opening of the playing season bringing the test of the diamond on the other side of winter, baseball fans of the Pacific northwest have raised a chorus of rejoicing—the burden being that the southern clubs of the Pacific coast league fared less well than their northern foes in lining up players in Chicago last week.

Clark Pettenger, reputed a lively shortstop who was obtained by Salt Lake City team when it relinquished Paul Strand, champion hitter of the league, is cited as a leading instance. Hopes are held out for the performances of Tony Lazzard, from the Three Eye league; Hensel Hulvey, from the Carolinas and J. H. O'Neill, Shreveport, La., who were obtained with Pettenger.

Portland, the boosters favorite has made acquisitions in Distel, shortstop from the Texas league; Query, a young catcher from Sioux City, Iowa, Hugh Bedient, former Red Sox pitcher who has been with Toledo and Demaree.

But the deal most frequently heard acclaimed as one that has strengthened the north in comparison to the south is the one that brought Cliff Brady to Seattle. Northern writers declare that southern clubs were so busy fighting the battle of William H. McCarthy, whom the minor league arbitration board refused to seat as president of the coast league, that they to some extent neglected their own interests.

Bobby O'Dell, Jockey, Says Sande Best of All

Bobby Odell, a jockey who is well known on the Central circuit, comprising Kansas, Colorado, Benrasa, Oklahoma and Texas, landed in Salem yesterday from Canada where he has been for several months, and left again last night by automobile with a friend for Ashland, the first lap of a trip to Tia Juana where he hopes to ride again soon. Odell says he never has ridden in a race with Earl Sande, but he is well acquainted with the world's premier jockey and says he is the cleverest and squarest jockey he ever met. "Sande is different from most of the jockeys," says Odell. "As soon as the race is over, he is away, and doesn't hang around with the other boys, and doesn't have anything to do with their gay parties. If he can't ride square, he won't ride, that's all there is to it. He wins if he can, and if he sees a hole as big as your hat, he is going to try to go through it. He always looks his horse over before a race and if he doesn't like the way he is ridden down, Sande rubs him down himself."

Odell last saw Sande at the big derby at Lexington, Ky., where Sande rode Zev to victory. Odell is a native of Indiana. He has ridden such well known racers as Evelyn Thaw, Unconcerned, Way Behind and others. He rides at 102 pounds, but just now weighs 115. In Canada recently he was kicked by a horse and received some fractured ribs that may make it difficult for him to get back into the racing game for awhile. Besides racing he has followed carnivals and circuses as a con-tortionist. He started as a news-boy, and says he has gone back to it several times.

"I landed in Salem with 3 cents in my pocket," said Odell. "I hope to get back on my feet pretty soon."

BILL HUNT READY TO FIGHT MR. RICHARDS

Bill Hunt, Salem, vs. Eddie Richards, Portland, heavyweights, six rounds.
Willie Murphy, Salem, vs. Bud Taylor, Portland, lightweights, six rounds.
Briek Buchanan, Independence, vs. Jim Robinson, McMinnville, welterweights, four rounds.
Shorty Fargo, Salem, vs. Kid Smith, Corvallis, lightweights four rounds.
Fox Twins, Independence, gnawweights, four rounds.

Shorty Fargo of Salem and Kid Smith of Corvallis will mix for four rounds in the curtain raiser and as both are ambitious to break into the boxing game it should be a lively match. They are lightweights.
Bud Stengel of Portland will referee.

Matchmaker Harry Hansen of the Portland boxing commission has requested that seats be reserved for himself and three members of the Portland commission.
After trotting over the landscape for many miles, knocking the stuffin' out of two punching bags and more or less crippling several of the local boys who offered to lend a hand out of civic pride, Big Bill Hunt, Salem's super-dreadnaught in the squared circle, is confident that he will gather in the posties tonight when he meets up with Eddie Richards, a heavyweight slugger from Portland.

Matchmaker Burrell announces that he has made everything ready for the big go at the armory, and that if either of the heavies breaks a rope, or pulls down a ring post, some somebody in that ring is going to get terribly walloped. From a close-up of these two hefty gents, they seem to be in very good condition. Of late they have been "knocking our Bill around" considerably, but on this festive occasion, William has decided that someone else has got to drop and that if Mr. Richards feels he is entitled to more than four rounds in good condition he must show the folks something he never showed before in the way of defending himself.

Just to give the fans a little excitement in the way of some fast going, there has been included on the card a six-round affair between Willie Murphy of Salem, and Bud Taylor of Portland. These lads are lightweights, and the dope sheet shows both of them are fast, foxy and gritty to the nth degree.

While looking about for a pair of likelies to fill out the card from the standpoint of the fan who enjoys seeing plenty of rough going, Matchmaker Burrell ran onto Briek Buchanan, of Independence, and Jim Robinson, of McMinnville, both welterweights. While the fighting pedigree of these out-of-town boxers might be a trifle short, past performances advise one that Briek and Jim really crave to knock somebody out when they show up in the ring. With this in mind, together with the fact that arrangements have been made whereby a return match is guaranteed and winner to take all the berries, the four rounds they are scheduled to go tonight should be chock full of pep and ginger. It is reported here that Independence will be over in a crowd to back Briek with everything from pants to galluses, and that Jim Robinson will bring along a number of admirers from his home at McMinnville.

In addition to a curtain raiser of four rounds, the Fox twins, the spicy little chaps from Independence, will entertain the big folks for four rounds.

COL. BARTRAM IS COMING TO OREGON

He May Have Something to Say About a Linen Mill Here When He Arrives

Colonel W. B. Bartram writes to a Salem friend from his home in Ottawa, Canada, that he will come to Oregon shortly after the first of January.

Salem people interested in the industry, and others, will remember Colonel Bartram as the man who brought the Canadian flax pulling machine to this district, and remained till it was demonstrated to be a complete success. Colonel Bartram is connected with concerns in Canada that grow flax on a large scale, and also own and operate a large spinning and weaving plant.

He is convinced of the highly advantageous position of the Willamette valley, and especially of the Salem district, for the development of a spinning and weaving plant—a linen mill—for the making of the finer grades of goods, and he has been making investigations along this line. He had an idea when he left Salem of perhaps interesting a group of Canadian and New York capitalists in such a project here.

How far along he has been able to bring this project, he does not say in his letter; but he does say this: "I hope to see the state
