Trumm, who for the past six years has been engaged in business in Salem, has taken the agency for the Jewett and Paige automobiles and today is unloading a carload of Jewetts in his new sales room. Mr. Trumm announces that while he will not be able to secure any Paige cars before January 25, he will be prepared to service all Paige and Jewett cars in the territory.

Objects to Stages—Because stage drivers had been driving machines on his property, Frank Durbin deemed it necessary to erect a barrier to prevent the custom. Consequently when one of the posts was found broken, he blamed the stage company. They knew nothing of the matter, they said, and suggested that perhaps it might be one of the telephone company's trucks that was to blame. After a denial had been obtained from the telephone company, it was discovered that one of the state trucks, hauling wood, had caused the damage. It had been the practice of all stage drivers when proceeding to the stage terminal to head their machines upon the property owned by Mr. Durbin, and then back into the station.

would never be told of Him in any other way. This is the statement made to Ensign Holbrook of the Salvation army.

This beautiful way of celebrating that day of days is taking hold of many of the classes in many of the Sunday schools around town and there is not a day passes but some one of the many under Shepherds of the Master tell of their desire to have their charges bring gifts for some who are less fortunate.

As far as the Christmas and winter relief effort of the Salvation army is concerned this year, the receipts so far from the kettles and checks sent in is far behind that of last year.

Ensign Holbrook says that at Thanksgiving time the that way that the Christian people in the Sunday school classes put out material blessings in the way of goodies far beyond describing. The ensign says that Christ's people are not forgetting the celebrating of His birthday in a most appealing manner.
