The meeting of the faculty women of the university has been postponed from this week until after the holidays. The next meeting will be some time in January, with Mrs. F. G. Franklin and Mrs. C. L. Sherman as hostesses.

Women of the WRC will meet this afternoon at the armory to prepare the Christmas boxes which will go to the old soldiers' home in Roseburg. Each year the women send this bit of cheer at Christmas time to the shut-ins and old soldiers. The women of the corps are urged to be present to do their share of the work.

Members of chapter G, PEO Sisterhood, will meet at the home of Mrs. F. W. Seles for a Christmas party. The women are asked to bring a box containing lunch and a gift for one person.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hofer of San Francisco are leaving that place today for Salem where they will be holiday guests of Col. and Mrs. E. Hofer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barsch, formerly Catherine Carson, will leave Oakland, Cal., Saturday to be guests at the home of Mrs. Barsch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carson, for the Christmas season. Since her marriage in the early spring this is the first visit Mrs. Barsch had made in Salem.

For a gay dance and Christmas party the Tillicum Dancing club met with a few additional guests in Derby hall Tuesday evening. In the Christmas setting of the hall the dance continued until a late hour when Cynthia Delano appeared in costume to give a clever little clown dance. Then Santa Claus came in and unloaded the gifts from the tree. The unwrapping of the joke packages called forth much mirth from the members of the party. The dance was continued until later, when refreshments were served before the party adjourned.

Miss Amelia Babcock arrived in Salem yesterday to spend the vacation days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Babcock. Miss Babcock is a senior at Oregon Agricultural college where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Departing yesterday for Vancouver, B. C., Mrs. S. W. Thompson is to be the guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kiltz, Jr., of that city for the Christmas season. Miss Lou Thompson accompanied the "Irene" company to Vancouver some time ago and is remaining there until her mother returns to Salem early in the new year.

witnesses to the ceremony. The young couple will live on Mr. McDowell's farm in Polk county.

Mrs. Robert Kinney of Astoria came to Salem Tuesday to be the house guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Moores until after Christmas.

Special attention is called to the fact that the Thursday bridge luncheon club will not meet with Mrs. O. C. Locke today, as formerly announced. It has been postponed to the first Thursday of the new year, at which time Mrs. Locke will be hostess.

For luncheon and an afternoon of cards Mrs. E. L. Kappahn will be hostess to the members of the Thursday Bridge club today.

EVERGREEN KNOWN HERE FOR 44 YEARS

Editor Statesman:
I am a pioneer of the early fifties and lived here in the days of the wild crab apple, choke cherry, strawberry and wild blackberry, the great cross pollinizer of this valuable product, now under consideration. I was happy in my childhood days when, with my bowl of berries and cream. I enjoyed them as a great luxury in our pioneer home. I am proud of the development of our great state and look forward with optimism toward her future possibilities. I am indeed pleased to note the future prominent position the Evergreen berry is taking in the commercial world, after its gigantic struggle to take its deserved place. It was first branded as a wild berry, while, more than 44 years ago, I paid fifty cents for a little plant. It was often called a menace that could scarcely be eradicated, if once set upon your farm, while experience has proven that to cut off the vines, shear your goats, turn them into your berry field and they will do the rest. In the days when the long skirts were popular, and the farmer allowed the long thorny laterals to grow, it required a very genial disposition, or a dummy, to gather them or else she might say something. The farmer has learned how to prune off the long thorny trailers, by the use of a hooked knife fastened to a long light handle, or a sickle section attached the same as the knife. Then with this implement cut off these long trailers about four feet from the ground. Do this each year about ten days before berry picking. Then with the modern styles of short skirts or coveralls, it may be regarded as a real Christian industry.
The following year the pruned laterals have sent out many branches, not unlike a little bushy tree. The vine is much more prolific and the annoyance of those long thorny trailers is disposed of.
The cross pollinization with the wild blackberry has raised the standard of quality, which, in turn, increased its demand and with it the price, until, in my opinion, it brings to the farmer as large a net margin as our average products. This berry assists the farmer in utilizing every square rod of the nooks, corners, hedge-rows, tumble-down shacks and pig pens, by simply planting the roots, fertilizing with any kind of mulching. He soon will have transformed those ungainly landmarks of his home to beautiful mounds and hedges of profit and beauty. And further it helps make up the chain of industries on a diversified farm, so the laborer can go from the loganberry, peaches and pears to the Evergreens and continue, if desired, until many other crops are calling for their aid.
