TICKETS ON SALE TODAY FOR SHOW

"Laugh and the world laughs with you," is an old but true saying and it would seem as though the entire population of the United States were trying to rush into the theaters to laugh with Ed Wynn, "The Perfect Fool," who comes to the Grand theater for one performance only, Christmas night, Tuesday, December 25. Seat sale starts tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

Wynn's newest offering is clean-cut and classy, without an innuendo to cause a blush to the cheek, a droop to the eye, or a discord to the ear. It is all "daintily different" entertainment. True Rice, is Ed's right-hand bower in the fun-making, aided and abetted by Flo Newton, John Dale, Cass Burt, Arthur F. Buckley, Nydia d'Arnell, Estelle Penning, Anita Furman, Edna Hamel, "that girl quartette," the Misses Keyes, Ferrati, Kirkwood and Fielding, the clever little Meyako trio, and Wynn's Wynn-ing, Wynn-some chorna of charm and beauty.

John Caughill Captain Of High School Team

John Caughill, center for the Salem high school football team, has been named captain for the coming season. The election was held at the annual banquet given in the domestic science rooms at the high school. Talks were given by George Hug, superintendent; J. C. Nelson, principal; Hollis Huntington, coach, and Captain Ringle, of this year's team, and by the new captain. Few men will be lost to the red and black through graduation next spring.

ALUMNI LOSES TO HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

Former College Stars Fail To Come Up To Expectations Last Night

By a score of 22 to 15 the Salem high school basketball team defeated the alumni team last night at the high school gymnasium in the first game of the season. Notwithstanding the fact that most of the alumni players were former college stars, they failed to come up to expectations. At the end of the first half the score was 16 to 0 in the high school's favor. A large number of substitutes was sent in by Coach Hollis Huntington, revealing the fact that he has a lot of material with which to build up the regular team for the season.

Juniors are Basketball Champions of School

By defeating the senior basketball team by a score of 7 to 5, the junior class has landed the inter-class high school basketball championship. All games were close, the juniors having won out over the sophomore by a score of 15 to 14 after an additional five minutes had been played.

The sophomore class won the Willamette university inter-class debate championship this week when its team defeated the junior team in a debate held before the student body at chapel. The judges' decision was two to one in favor of the affirmative side which was upheld by the sophomores. The question for debate was: "Resolved, that the United States supreme court should be denied the right to declare acts of congress unconstitutional except by unanimous decision." The winning team was composed of Warren Day and Ralph Emmons who defeated the freshmen team two weeks ago in a debate on the same question, thereby earning the right to take part in the final debate yesterday. Rawson Chapin and Daniel Taylor represented the junior class in the debate having beaten the senior team in a previous debate.

Each speaker was allowed ten minutes for constructive argument and five minutes for refutation. The judges of the debate were Prof. Frank Erickson, coach of men's varsity debate; Prof. Roy Harding, coach of women's varsity debate at the university, and Prof. Orlando Horning, coach of debate at Salem high school.

FRUIT GROWERS ASSEMBLE HERE

Preparation Being Made For Economic Conference At Corvallis

Leading horticulturists of the state met at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium Friday to make a survey of the present situation prior to bringing recommendations before the agricultural economic conference that will be held in Corvallis January 23-25. Both growing and marketing problems were discussed and an effort is being made to determine certain crop problems, such as what is best planted to yield profits, how much should be planted to the acre, how it should be cultivated or increased and what time is best to make new plantings. The relationship in marketing one crop to another was also the subject of some discussion, particularly regarding perishables. This matter, it is said, has never been considered in any concerted manner among the various interests, and it was the object to find out what, if any, relations there were between sales of the various dried and fresh fruits.

Committees were perfected with leading men of each industry on these, with each group individually interested in prunes, peaches, loganberries, nuts, apples and pears, and other horticultural products.

Among those present for the meeting Friday were: Clayton J. Long, B. W. Johnson, big grower of Monroe; Charles A. Park, Salem, president of the state board of horticulture; M. H. Harlow, Eugene; president of the Eugene cooperative; Fred Groner, walnut grower, Hillsboro; Ben Dorris, filbert grower, Eugene; D. E. Towle, manager of the raspberry cooperative, Gresham; Frank B. Chase, vegetable grower, Eugene and director of the Eugene cooperative; C. J. Hurd, marketing specialist of the extension service at the agricultural college; Prof. C. E. Schuster, professor of horticulture at the college, and in addition on the committee are Al Reed, Hood River apple grower; D. R. Wood, Medford, pear grower and president of the fruit growers' league there; Kenneth C. Miller, Sheridan, president of the Oregon Growers; J. O. Holt, Eugene, manager of the cooperative there; Sam H. Brown, loganberry grower of Gervais; Isaac D. Hunt, Ladd & Tilton bank, Portland, and George Heckert, Salem.

Mrs. Mary La Follette Is Great-Great-Grandmother

There was once a time when Mrs. Mary LaFollette, matron at the WCTU headquarters, Commercial and Ferry, for the last five years, might have been anxious to defy the years that brought gray hairs to her head, but that time has passed and today she proudly announces that she has received word of the birth of a great-great-grandchild in Pennsylvania, placing her at the head of five generations.

In all, Mrs. La Follette has been great-grandmother to 19, of whom 17 are still living. She also has 15 grandchildren, all of whom reside in Pennsylvania. One son lived in Los Angeles for a number of years until his death about two years ago.

Though she will be 79 years old on April 10, of next year, Mrs. La Follette is able to shame many a younger woman by her activity. Not only does she appear daily at the WCTU headquarters, where she also makes her home, but all necessary cleaning, sweeping, dusting and scrubbing is attended to personally. During the early part of her married life and until she was nearly 40, Mrs. La Follette was more or less of an invalid and was not able to do much of her own housework.

Mrs. La Follette was born in Franklin county, Vermont, on April 10, 1845, where she lived until nearly three years old, when she moved with her parents to Wisconsin, which she claims as her really native state. Later she moved to Kansas, coming to Salem 16 years ago next July.
