

INTERESTING NEWS FROM FAR OFF HAWAII

The Oregon Statesman has received two interesting letters from far off Hawaii which are given to the public herewith:

Headquarters Coast Defenses of Pearl Harbor
Office of the Intelligence Officer
Fort Kamehameha, Hawaii,
December 31, 1923.

"In going over our publicity files of a recent date I found the enclosed story. Knowing it to be of interest and true, I am taking the liberty to send it to you. I have seen these robes and the enclosed article covers practically everything concerning them and their history.

"The Bishop museum was presented to the people of Hawaii by Mrs. Bernice Bishop as a memorial. On the grounds is a school for Hawaiian boys and girls, known as Kamehameha school. The condition of attendance is that each pupil be of part or full Hawaiian blood. The museum has one of the finest and most complete exhibits of ancient and modern Hawaiian relics and curios in existence today. In the collection are all kinds of fruits and flowers, reproduced in wax, relics of royalty, such as thrones, weapons, uniforms, and the feather robes spoken of in Staff Sergeant Kelly's article. The museum is on a tract of land covering from thirty to thirty five acres. These grounds are very well kept and are covered with all kinds of Hawaiian shrubbery and trees, including the largest banyan tree in the Hawaiian Islands.

"Mrs. Bishop was the daughter of King Kamehameha IV and a direct descendant of the great ruler, Kamehameha I. She married one of the wealthy white men of the islands by the name of Bishop, and died after a very fruitful life sometime in 1880. The income of her wealth is used in the upkeep of the museum and the school.

"Due to the fact that several people are unable to visit these islands, this little article by Staff Sergeant Kelly will, no doubt, prove of interest to your readers. Thanking you for your kind attention I remain,

"Respectfully yours,
"GUY R. OSBORNE."

Normand and Dines Both Are in Hospital Now

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—Courtland S. Dines, Denver oil operator who was shot New Year's night by Horace Greer, chauffeur for Mabel Normand, film actress, and Miss Normand herself, both are nursing wounds in the same hospital tonight.

Greer, who admits he used Miss Normand's pistol on Dines, late today was formally charged with "assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill." The district attorney's office recommended

Many Intoxicated Drivers Lose Licenses in Olympia

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 3.—Driving while intoxicated accounted for the majority of the 211 operators' licenses cancelled during 1923. Fred J. Dibble, director of licenses, announced today.

Reckless driving was the cause of many other cancellations.

Four hundred and eighty blue licenses were issued and 17 blue licenses cancelled.

TOTAL OF 211 HELD IN JAIL

Register at County Sheriff's Office Shows Variety of Offenses

A total of 211 persons were housed in the county jail during 1923 for periods varying from a few days to six months. There were 199 prisoners in 1922 and 200 in 1921.

Liquor fines approximated $7000 in 1923, according to Sheriff Oscar Bower, and a total of 3901 days in jail was the aggregate sentence. In addition to criminal cases, a vast amount of routine work and civil cases received attention. Many cases passed from the sheriff's office to the justice court. The personnel of the office includes Sheriff Bower, J. W. Lewis, office deputy; Deputies Sam Burkhardt and Walter Barber and Bert Smith, traffic officer working out of the office.

With the exception of 35 insane men and 22 insane women, the register includes the following crimes: Possession of intoxicating liquor, 36; larceny, 21; contributing to the delinquency of a minor, 9; forgery, 8; arrested for other counties and states, 7; assault and battery and detentions, 6 each; automobile thefts, 5; driving an automobile while intoxicated, obtaining money under false pretences, transportation of intoxicating liquor and issuing checks with insufficient funds, 4 each; assault and robbery armed with a dangerous weapon, burglary not in a dwelling, burning property for insurance and lewd and lascivious cohabitation, 3 each; adultery, assault with a dangerous weapon, cutting trees on the land of another, escapes from institutions, failure to pay out fire, investigation, manufacturing intoxicating liquor, and rape, 2 each. One of each of the following crimes were represented: Careless and reckless driving, crime against nature, disorderly conduct at dance, grand larceny, indecent exposure, involuntary manslaughter, kidnapping, non-support, putting dirt in milk bottles, seduction, stealing a ride on a railroad train and threatening to kill.

ILLINOIS DISASTER TAKES MANY LIVES

Dust Explosion at Pekin Catches Many in Corn Products Plant

(By The Associated Press)

PEKIN, Ill., Jan. 3.—Upwards of two score workers are dead or missing and another two score were injured, a dozen of them probably fatally, as a result of a dust explosion and fire which destroyed two buildings of the Corn Products plant here early today.

Rescue parties were working frantically and had recovered fewer than a dozen of the bodies tonight when a second shift of rescuers entered the ruins to fight ice and fire in a near-zero temperature, hampered by the fear that overhanging walls might crash in and imprison the rescuers themselves.

Superintendent H. B. Lawton tonight issued an official statement that he could not tell how many more were killed as some workmen may have left the plant without "checking out."

Earlier in the day a report, issued from the plant employment office, had it that between 34 and 40 were known dead or missing, 29 injured in Pekin and Peoria hospitals, 11 of them probably fatally, and 14 injured removed to their homes.

Tonight the fire was still burning. Streams of water directed on it by Peoria and Pekin firemen kept it in check, but added to the difficulty of wreckers by coating debris with thick ice. Wives and families of the victims showed wonderful coolness. They did not congregate at the plant, but kept coming and going in steady succession, inquiring with quivering lips for word of their loved ones.

Nearly all the dead, missing and injured are Americans, residents of the little town of Pekin, whose 13,000 people were torn with a similar grief in 1917 when the river steamer Columbia bore 88 Pekin excursionists to a grave in the Illinois river, between here and Peoria.

State and federal investigation of the explosion were in sight tonight. George M. Moffat of New York city, vice president and general manager of the Corn Products company directed Superintendent Lawton to spare no costs in rescue work and invited D. J. Price of the department of agriculture to conduct a full examination.

There was no official who would venture a guess as to the possible first cause of the explosion.

Canners Agree to Cook Vegetables Under Pressure

PORTLAND, Jan. 3.—Demonstrations in berry canning methods and addresses on various features of the canning industry occupied the delegates to annual convention of the Northwest Cannery association at today's sessions. There were 250 delegates present this afternoon. Tonight they were entertained at a smoker. Sessions will continue tomorrow, closing with a banquet in the evening.

Members of the association have agreed to cook all vegetables hereafter in pressure tanks as a precaution against botulism bacteria.

They took action yesterday at the tenth annual convention of the association, held in the American Can company plant, after J. O. Holt, president of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association, talked on "Standardizing and Sterilization."

Speakers yesterday were Robert C. Paulus, manager of the Oregon Growers' Cooperative association; W. G. Allen, Salem, and Dr. E. S. Kohlman, chemist of the National Cannery association of Washington.

Los Angeles Bandits Make Get Away with $32,500

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—Two pairs of bandits who today obtained a total of $32,500 in cash and checks by robbing a bank in one section of the city and holding up a creamery company cashier on the street in another district apparently had made good their getaway by night.

The first affair cost a branch of the Pacific-Southwest bank $6,500 in cash, when one robber pair lined up bank employees and customers against the wall and cleaned all the loose coin and currency from the vault and tellers' drawers.

Zerolene "F" for Fords is the latest product of the Standard Oil Research Laboratories. We believe it does the lubricating job for Fords as no other oil will do it. Zerolene "F" for Fords will increase gasoline mileage, save carbon-removal and valve-grinding expenses, reduce friction and wear, and prolong the life of every Ford in which it is used. It is a scientific, practical answer to the Ford owner's lubricating problem—and it costs not more, but less than most of the special Ford oils now on the market.

Plenty of oils are good in the can and in the crankcase. Zerolene "F" for Fords is not only obviously good in the container—a clear, bright golden oil whose quality is evident in its appearance—it is good on the job. On every part of the job. It satisfies the first requirement of a Ford lubricant—it gets to the parts that require lubrication.

The wrist-pin bearings, for example. The Ford lubricating system is an excellent system, but it won't splash oil to the wrist-pin bearings, unless the oil is right. Neither will it reach the upper half of the cylinder walls—unless the oil is right.

Zerolene "F" for Fords saves your Ford at these crucial points. It reduces the up-keep cost of your car and lengthens its working life.

Zerolene "F" for Fords gets there, under all operating conditions, in summer and in winter. Like other Zerolene oils, it is made from selected Western Naphthenic Base Crude, and is consequently one of the best cold-test oils obtainable. Like the other Zerolene oils, it deposits very little carbon, and that little is so soft and fluffy that most of it blows out with the exhaust. You won't be bothered with caked and "frozen" piston rings if you keep Zerolene "F" for Fords in your crankcase exclusively.

All Standard Oil Service Stations and most garages and other dealers now carry Zerolene "F"—on tap and in cans. Clean out your crankcase today and start right with Zerolene "F" for Fords.

A Ford, well treated, is an A-1 transportation investment. Protect YOUR investment by proper lubrication.
