Before the bulge in the corn market began, wheat prices in Chicago had a downward tendency, the result of sympathy with weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, where offerings of Canadian wheat were said to be cheaper and it was reported Argentine shipments had enlarged. As soon as enhancement of corn prices became pronounced, however, there was rather lively demand for wheat, traders who were short showing anxiety both on account of the ascent of corn and as a result of the circumstance tthat wheat receipts in every direction were meager.

Little Different From Fresh Local Dealer Explains for Housewives

Housewives are skeptical regarding frozen fish, a local dealer recently remarked. He went on the economical production of but- to the convention hall. They may to show that fish sold in this condition is often in better condition than that classed as fresh.

When fish is frozen the performance is carried out immediately upon removal from the water, he said. The fish are caught, dipped in brine and allowed to freeze. Practically no time is lost between their exit from the water to the entrance into the ice. After they are placed at the disposal of the retailer, they are thawed out gradually, cold water generally being used.

Fresh fish are packed in ice. Hiram Often this will slip and expose a portion of the fish to the air. Of reach the market and the purchaser, they are really in no better condition than the fish that has been properly frozen.
