

Makes every FORD a better FORD

Plenty of oil, but oil-starved just the same.

Our research engineers studied Ford lubrication for six years, and, briefly, that was the condition which they found to prevail with perhaps the majority of Fords now in operation.

Plenty of oil in the crankcase, but no oil or not enough oil getting to the wrist-pin bearings and the upper half of the cylinder walls, which the Ford lubricating system, excellent as it is, won't lubricate unless the oil is right.

Zerolene "F" for Fords, the Standard Oil Company's new oil for Ford cars, fulfills the first and most essential requirement of a Ford lubricant—it gets to the parts to be lubricated! Its body and its exceptional adhesive and "crawling" qualities are such that the lubricating system distributes it in proper quantity to every part requiring lubrication, under all operating conditions, winter and summer.

Zerolene "F" for Fords will increase the gas-line mileage, reduce valve-grinding, carbon removal and other upkeep costs, and lengthen the life of every Ford in which it is used. It is a distinct advance in Ford lubrication, offered to the public without any corresponding advance in price.

A Ford, well treated, is an A-1 transportation investment. Protect YOUR investment by proper lubrication.

ILWACO MAN'S TALK ADMITTED AS EVIDENCE

Will do? He replied, "Weeks, I think I will plead guilty, but I can't tell until I see my attorney." When asked if Senator Sinclair had made any reply to his son's remark about pleading guilty, Weeks answered: "He said 'I think I will.'" After Weeks testified J. J. Clark, also a deputy sheriff of Pacific county, whose testimony was ordered stricken from the records yesterday, was recalled to the stand and repeated to the jury what Senator Sinclair had said to him: "I think I ought to plead guilty and go up with the boy." Clark said Senator Sinclair informed him.

Senator Not Bookkeeper. Thad Sweek, treasurer of the Skinner & Eddy corporation of Seattle, testifying for the defense this afternoon, said that he had had between 18 and 20 years' experience in banking and accounting, four years of which was in the service of the United States treasury department. He declared that Senator Sinclair, before he entered the banking business, was a solicitor for a railroad corporation.

Sweek expressed the opinion that Senator Sinclair could not have realized the bank's condition unless he audited the books, and doubted if the defendant could do this, because he was not an expert bookkeeper. Sweek declared further that the majority of bank directors who sign statements of their institution's condition do not know the correctness of the statement's contents. He doubted, he said, if Senator Sinclair ever looked at his personal account.

Under cross examination Sweek admitted that more than 20 years ago Senator Sinclair held a position as bookkeeper in a Tacoma bank, adding, however, that the position was a minor one.

Sweek was permitted to testify before the prosecution had closed because of the fact that he had to leave Chehalis.

CHURCH PLANNING FOR COMING YEAR

Court Street Christian Congregation Grows Rapidly Since 1919

That the Court Street Christian church of this city is a progressive organization is shown by the pastor's annual message and report of the work accomplished during the past year, and the past five years of his ministry.

The present pastor, R. L. Putnam, began his ministry in March, 1919. At that time there was a small struggling membership of about 75 members. Today it is the strongest church in East Salem, with a membership of 373. In spite of the prediction of failure and the discouragements met by the loyal members, and because of their faith and vision for the future, the church has succeeded. The property has been cleared of all indebtedness and a big program challenges them.

It is the policy of the pastor to outline a definite program for each year's work. This one year program is always the yearly part of a five-year program adopted by the church in 1921. The outstanding feature of that program is the erection of a new church and parsonage. A rapidly growing graded Sunday school, which has for two years been too large for the present building, is forcing the issue. Additional rooms have been added, but still the building is inadequate. The average attendance for 1923 was 192. The leaders have seen this situation for several years and at the close of the first year of the present pastorate a new building fund was started. This fund grew steadily to over $2,000.

UNUSUAL LUCK FOR SALEM FANS

World Champion Race Rider and Aspiring Champion Bays on Card

The privilege is not given to many sporting enthusiasts to gaze upon a home town lad who has piloted the world's speediest running horse, and at the same time and place whoop'er up for another home town chap who bids fair to be a champion boxer. But this is exactly what has been arranged by Matchmaker Pul Burris for tonight when all good sports assemble at the Salem armory to see the several youngsters who are scrambling to reach as high as possible on the ladder of boxing fame.

Sanded the Salem boy who kicked Zev under the wire not long ago for an international championship crown, will be introduced from the ringside before the commencement of the bouts, and in view of the fact that some 10,000 or 12,000 people paid considerable money to look upon this lad but a short time ago, it is hardly conceivable that anyone not sick in bed here will hesitate to grasp this opportunity actually to be introduced to the rider. Sande is no freak, nor is he merely a drawing card—he's a Salem boy who has helped to make world history in racing circles, and that is no trifling matter, either.

Then, just to give the boys a run for their entrance fee, Matchmaker Burris has cooked up a 10 round proposition which is likewise something quite new in Salem. Six rounds have been the rule here, but tonight Phil Bays, who needs no introducing in these parts, and Benny Dotson, one of Portland's favorites, will undertake either to register a K. O. in short order or pace the entire route, the best man win. There is no question but that these boys can last the 10, but from a casual slant at them yesterday afternoon while they were doing their stuff on the training mat, somebody is likely to drop before the scheduled number of rounds proclaims the finish. Dotson took Phil's measure once, but that is no criterion now. Bays has been taking on knowledge, action and much determination since that fatal time, and we would rather hesitate to strip our meal ticket to back the Portlander tonight even if properly approached. Howsoever, Dotson says he can do it again, and that must stand insofar as his own personal opinion is concerned, but if Benny does gather the flowers, he will sure know that he has been tinkering with something pretty tough and rough before he gets through.

Looking over the rest of the field that will start this evening, a close once-over of a boy by the name of Edlie Coates, of Dallas, proved interesting if not somewhat of a surprise. This Coates person weighs 145 pounds and he actually looks good, very good. Jim Murray, of Portland, has been engaged to try his luck with the Dallas comer, and there are a few fans who will not be astonished if Murray fails to get away with anything easy. Coates is one of those well measured fellows who can show both action and a punch, and while he may not be so well supplied with ring generalship, he should at least stay with his man for the majority of the six rounds.

MORE PHEASANTS ARE BROUGHT IN

Shipment Comes From China to Strengthen Birds Already Here

As a matter of strengthening the breeding stock of pheasants at the Oregon State game farms located at Eugene and Corvallis, five crates of Chinese pheasants were shipped to the state farm at Eugene Friday by the Oregon state game commission. These birds are of wild native stock trapped in China and shipped direct to the commission from Shanghai on the Steamer Pawlet that landed at Portland from the Orient Thursday. There were 110 birds in the shipment, being part of an order placed by the commission for 200 birds to be held at the game farms for the purpose of introducing new blood into the state's stock of birds from which distribution is made throughout the state.

With the lowering temperatures prevailing throughout the northwest, advice was sent out to the wardens by the game commission to watch the condition of the upland birds very carefully during the cold period, and if necessary to feed any of the birds endangered by the cold weather or deep snow. These extreme weather conditions, it is felt are temporary, but the commission feels that a bit of precaution and close observation are necessary at such a time to guard against any loss that might occur with a prolonged period of cold weather. There have been no reports of birds needing attention to date, except in The Dalles district where the warden is distributing grain to feed the birds.

SALEM HIGH MEETS DEAF TEAM TONIGHT

Salem high school's basketball team will not receive a rest after the victory over McMinnville on Wednesday night, but will meet the deaf school quintet at the high school gymnasium tonight. The game was arranged by Arthur Hamilton yesterday, and will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

McMinnville was an easy victim but it is believed that the mute aggregation will prove a more serious proposition. While either victory or defeat will not affect interscholastic standing, the Salem high school team is out after a win.
