A first glimpse of the New —One welcomes with open arms these colorful springtime fashions. After a winter of cloth and dark silks. One revels in their bright hues and their general freshness, their newness of design. The new satin faced crepe, soft gros grains, and Cantons are here in the "crisp" spring styles. Let us show them to you this week.

Fabrics

—A promise of spring is offered in the new fabrics, and if you are far sighted, you will begin fashioning your spring wardrobe now. Flannels, printed crepes, plain Cantons and many others vie for first place. We welcome a tour of inspection.

Foot Wear

—The new strap pump appears for spring in new and delightful versions, extolling the belief that to be simple is to be smart. Among the new ones are to be found the blue and red sandals in fascinating designs. And you'll find them comfortable, as well.

Millinery

—The new hats borrow their hues from Fashion's Palette, they bestow a touch of springtime upon the costume. Whatever these new hats may lack in size, they more than make up in smartness, for nothing seems quite as chic as the petit chapeau. The range we show is worthy of a few moments of your shopping time inspection.

"Nifties" of 1924

—The "Nifties" of 1924 will be featured by this store within five to six days after they appear on Broadway Street, New York City.

—Novelties such as gloves, veils, bags, jewelry, head dresses, kerchiefs and dozens of others in interesting variety.

—"Watch the counter displays."

Salem, Oregon,
January, 1924

Dear Public:

Our January house cleaning came to an end Monday afternoon and, what a sigh of relief among those who participated.

House cleaning with us means a thorough "going over" from "cellar to garret." Cleaning shelves, arranging stocks and fixing up the store in general.

The committee in charge "voted" the "cleanest stocks" ever shown by this store in the month of January.

However, we believe, to some extent, in the old Greek myth of Janus, who faced two ways, and after whom the month of January was named. Cleaning out the old or odds and showing the new at the same time are the two ways we face. During the house cleaning days many important discoveries were effected—namely checking up odd pieces, slightly soiled articles, and in one or two instances stocks that were too large to compete in a high rate of turnover. These were segregated, placed in special lots to be cleared at exceedingly "low" prices during "Rummage" Sale days.

Our Rummage Sale means exactly what the word implies, we've rummaged our stocks for merchandise that "sticks" using the vernacular of store keeping. The "best" of stores will have odds and broken lines of merchandise after a season of strenuous selling. We claim no exception other than our policy of clearing such wares at prices that insure quick riddance.

Our very unusual guarantee of refunding purchase price applies to every article sold in Rummage Sale that does not give satisfaction.

Yours Truly,
