DECIDEDLY smart was the tea of yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Harry Hawkins and Mrs. Arthur Baber entertained a large number of society matrons and maids at the Hawkins home on Lincoln street.

Delightfully suggestive of spring was the basket of frescos and yellow daffodils with its large bow of silver and green maline, which centered the tea table, daintily with appointments of lace doilies and silver service.

During the calling hours Mrs. Paul Petri very graciously played a number of piano solos, and Mrs. Ward Willis sang.

The music students' contest to be featured by the Civic Music club will take place at the First Congregational church next Thursday evening, Jan. 24, at 8 o'clock.

These contests are a leading aim of the Civic Music clubs in that the young and ambitious as well as the exceptionally talented music students are able to win honors in competition and to establish themselves as professional students or professional musicians.

Students have been privileged to enter as voice, violin and piano contestants and the winners in these competitions will later appear in formal public recital.

Tickets of membership in the club will admit auditors Thursday evening. The decisions will be by ballot from the active members present. Those desiring to attend who have not secured tickets, may purchase them at the door.

The ladies' aid society of the WRC will hold an all day's sewing at the armory tomorrow, Thursday. Each woman is reminded to bring her own dishes and silverware for the pot luck dinner.

An announcement coming from Shaw reads that the Catholic ladies are serving a good supper this evening at Shaw hall. After the supper cards will be in the order of the evening, and many valuable prizes are being offered.

Prominent Society Matron to Assist as Hostess for YWCA Tea Today at Woman's Club

MRS. JOHN J. ROBERTS

One of the largest events of the season will be the YWCA tea this afternoon at the Woman's club, when between the hours of three to six o'clock several hundred women of the city will call as the guests of the local Y. W. C. A. board. Effort has been made by telephone and by announcement from the pulpits of the churches bidding every woman of the city who might be interested in the local organization, to meet the active workers at the present time.

At the tea tables Mrs. W. I. Staley, president of the board, and Mrs. H. L. McMahan, the vice president, will preside over the urns. Assisting in the receiving rooms and in the tea room will be the following members of the board and committees: Mrs. T. A. Livesley, Mrs. William Walton, Mrs. George G. Brown, Mrs. Arthur Rahn, Mrs. W. Connel Dyer, Mrs. Max Buren, Mrs. Paul Wallace, Mrs. U. G. Shipley, Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner, Mrs. Walter Kirk, Mrs. John Albert, Mrs. J. J. Roberts, Mrs. P. E. Graber, Elizabeth Putnam, Mrs. E. C. Cross, Mrs. Harry Styles, Nina McNary, Marjory Blake, Mrs. Harry Hawkins, Mrs. Paul Wallace, Mary Findley and Mrs. J. C. Perry.

An attractive program of special music is being arranged for the afternoon, and the Girl Reserves have planned a clever little skit. Miss Gertrude Ann Goeparth, regional secretary for the city YWCA organizations, will address the guests informally shortly after 4 o'clock.

Mrs. John J. Roberts and Mrs. Harry Hawkins are managing the affair, but it is understood that the members of the board and of the financial and social committee are the hostesses. In the receiving line will be Mrs. F. A. Elliott, Mrs. W. E. Kirk, Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, Mrs. J. H. Fairchild and Mrs. David Wright.

To the calendar of notable coming events for Salem has been added the engagement of Paul Althouse, the famous Metropolitan Opera tenor, by the Apollo club. Mr. Althouse will be the assisting artist at the next concert of the club, February 20. His appearance here under the auspices of Salem's well known men's choral organization, will be hailed with delight, since the advantage of hearing both the noted singer and the Apollo club in one big concert presents at once a highly pleasing musical event—one not to be had in Salem very frequently.

Mr. Althouse will be the most noted and accordingly the highest priced artist ever brought to Salem by the Apollo club, and it is believed by members of the club that this departure from precedent will be sufficiently appreciated by the club's many friends to warrant the prediction of a packed house for the next concert.

Ever since his appearance here last season in the Sale mArtist Series, a return engagement for Mr. Althouse has been requested by many who heard him. Musical critics everywhere acclaim him as one of the best tenors before the public today. Singing in joint recital with Arthur Middleton, the noted baritone, in a recent concert tour of Australia, Althouse was hailed by the newspapers of that country as a second Caruso.

His voice is ringing, vibrant, of pure tenor quality and bears many of the characteristics of the late Caruso's masterful singing.

Mr. Rudolph Gruen, artist and composer, will again accompany Mr. Althouse at the piano and will be remembered by those who heard him at his previous Salem appearance as being a musician of fine personality and wonderful capability.

"The Intimate Strangers," another of Booth Tarkington's inimitable comedy situation plays will be presented the high school auditorium Friday night, January 25, by members of the associated student body, with Echo De Sarg playing the leading role of the romantic maiden lady, and the flapper niece taken by Kathryn Van Doren, Harold Mero and Vergon Perry play the two opposite parts. A humorous character in the play is Clifford Goode as the station agent, and Homer Bray makes his appearance as the handy man. Helen Marcus in the role of family maid creates much fun and is playing the part with much finish, and Catherine Judy takes the part of the solicitous Aunt Ellen.

All is reported to be progressing splendidly and the students are looking forward to one of the best performances ever given under the auspices of the A. S. E. Under the sympathetic direction of Mrs. Small and with the enthusiastic spirit with which the cast is working, all indications point toward a decided success.

Foster and Kleiser Men Reported Out On Strike

Bill posters employed by the Foster & Kleiser company are out on strike.

According to Albert Miller, 1160 Mill street, an employe here, the men are out from the Canadian to Mexican borders. Not only that, but they quit work January 16. The union headquarters at San Francisco is keeping it out of the papers and as quiet as possible, he said.

Miller's claims were verified here to the extent that the men had struck. No reasons were given. There are only a few men employed by the agency in Salem.

POSTOFFICE IS CHICK-INVADED

Ed Snow of Monroe Has Exciting Experience In Shipping Birdies

Ed Snow, proprietor of Snow-white Leghorn Farm, Monroe, Or., relates a little experience in shipping day-old chicks which is different from any story that has ever been related by any of the Willamette valley poultrymen, and is evidence of the vigor and ability of baby chicks to withstand hardships and rough handling in transit by express or mail. Shipments of day-old chicks of times are sent hundreds of miles, requiring as much as three days to reach their destination and through scientific boxing and shipping facilities are almost invariably delivered with little or no loss.

It seems that late last season Ed Snow shipped a box of 108 day-old chicks to a patron at Whitefish, Mont., by parcel post. Upon calling at the local postoffice for his chicks he found them scattered all over the postoffice floor, hiding under packages and behind mail bags, and the frantic postmaster and his clerk, on their knees before a radiator, which was turned on full force in an endeavor to keep the young fowls comfortable and thereby stop their incessant chirping. They were surrounded by cardboard boxes with mail sacks covered over them in their endeavor to confine the chicks, or put them to bed for the night. But as fast as they got a few chicks in one box all were out of another one and pandemonium reigned. The office floor had fed the chicks a quantity of cracked corn and wheat in an effort to appease them and said that two of them seemed pretty sick when they arrived, but had come out all right.

It was finally learned that the chick shipping box had become destroyed or had lost its lid en route and could not be found. Therefore, the chicks arrived loose in a mail sack, and when the sack was opened the little fellows scurried about the postoffice as spry as crickets and none the worse for their rough experience. A note from the poultryman receiving this shipment of chicks from Mr. Snow concluded as follows: "I wish to report the arrival of those baby chicks in excellent condition and I am well pleased with them."
