

CHEMAWA SCOUTS THRIFTY CHAPS

Boys Gather Up Bones in Pig Yard and Sell Them for Fertilizer

That Boy Scouts are thrifty is pretty generally conceded. But it remains for the 100 Boy Scouts of Chemawa to take the cake in the matter of thrift. For the past two years these thrifty little fellows have gathered up what otherwise would have gone to wastes and made it serve their purpose.

It is necessary for this group to register their troops with national headquarters each year as all scouts are required to do. Not having the opportunity to earn money in the same manner as boys outside an institution, they got their heads together and decided to pick up the bones that were lying around the pig yard, dry them and sell them to dealers in fertilizer materials. This has provided the funds for their registration and gives a decided lesson in thrift. Of course each individual scout will have to prove to the satisfaction of the officers that he has earned and deposited in a bank $1 before he can receive the rank of second class scout and earn an additional $2 before receiving the rank of first class scout.

This thrift program on the part of scouts is engendered by the ninth Scout law which says, "A Scout is thrifty. He does not destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay but must not receive tips for courtesies or good turns."

Next to baseball "passing the buck" is the great American game.

There was a time when business was called a "game" but the players found out it was a serious undertaking.

BIG GAMES AHEAD FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Dallas Tonight and Silverton, Monmouth Raymond Coming Week

Undeclared so far this season, the Salem high school will make every effort to meet the Raymond, Wash., high school Friday night, February 8, with an unbroken record of victories. Little information is available on the northern team, which is said to be at the top of its own league. The Willamette university freshmen defeated Raymond in a close contest recently.

Both Ellis and Heenan are reporting back for work after being confined to the sidelines by illness. Heenan will probably get into the game tonight when Salem meets the Dallas high school at Dallas.

Two games are slated next week before the big game of the year. Wednesday night the red and black warriors will play Silverton at Silverton, followed by a game with the Monmouth high school here. The Raymond game is the next night.

Four different styles of colored window and display cards have been ordered from the east by telegraph, according to Arthur Hamilton, athletic manager. These will be available for the four big games of the season, a different one for each game. The cards are expected to reach Salem in a few days.

First Conference Game Played in Salem Tonight

First of the conference basketball games will be played on the new gymnasium floor at Willamette university tonight when the Bearcats meet the University of Washington quintet. The local team is not dismayed by a late start and numerous injuries to members of the squad and is going into the fray with the determination to win, if such a thing is possible.

With the new bleachers in place there will be ample sitting room for the spectators, and for the advantage of townspeople, a block of tickets has been placed on sale at Hauser Brothers.

thereto and of the delivering to and from of such articles and commodities as are necessary to the conduct of the institution.

Is Near Silverton

"In view of the fact that I believe these requirements are met to a greater extent than in any of the other tracts which have been offered to the board as a site for the institution, I cannot come to any other selection than the following described tract: 330.35 acres of Lela M. Jerman, and 42.66 acres of M. A. McCorkle— in all 372.5 acres, as contained in Proposition No. 2, submitted by H. L. Marsters, Salem, Oregon, and located about eight and one-half miles northeast of Salem, three-fourths of a mile north from the paved highway between Salem and Silverton, on what in that section of the country is generally known as Howell prairie.

"These lands are also in close proximity to the city of Silverton, and but a few miles farther from the city of Salem than the present state training school for boys, thus affording a very desirable civil and social connection not only for the boys of the institution, but for the administrative force as well, all of which factors are so necessary for the successful functioning of an institution of this character."

BEARCATS MEET HUSKIES TONIGHT

Willamette Team Crippled, and Washington Not in Best Shape

When the Willamette Bearcats trot out on the floor to meet the University Huskies this evening, they will go up against the logical winners of the Pacific Coast and Northwest conference championship. So far this season the Huskies have not been beaten, and it is expected that they will be runners-up for the pennant.

At the present time Coach Rathbun's lineup for the game is problematical, with Logan and Stencipher out of the game with injured feet. Logan has been nursing a strained ligament for several weeks, but the injury had healed sufficiently for him to play in the U. of W. game until at Wednesday's practice the foot was hurt again. Stencipher has a broken bone in his foot as a result of a practice scrimmage.

With these two men out, Patton and Erickson will probably be played as guards. Jones will take the tip-off position, with the view to establishing the same teamwork that he fostered in the Linfield game last week. Fasnacht will be played at forward, but his running mate has not been decided upon. Another possible combination would be Hartley at center with Jones shifted to a forward position to play with Fasnacht and Patton and Erickson guards.

The Huskies are making a tour of three Oregon schools this weekend—Willamette, Friday night; O. A. C., Saturday night, and University of Oregon, Monday night. According to advices from Seattle, three of the purple and gold players have also received minor injuries at practice.

It is almost a certainty that Guinlach, Husky guard, will not appear on the floor. Hesketh, famous star forward, and Anderson, the center, have broken fingers, but will play if they are needed against the Bearcats.

Unusual interest in the hoop game has been expressed this year by large turnouts to all basketball frays. As this is the first conference game to appear in Salem this year, a big crowd is expected at the Willamette gym when the whistle blows at 7:30 tonight. A section of very good reserved seats is on sale at Hauser Brothers store today.

The Washington Normal school quintet of Cheney, Wash., will play the Bearcats on the Willamette floor Monday night. The normal school squad last year held the non-conference championship for Washington.

representatives of various investors to see the holdings of the Lotz-Larsen company.

With the present sale of stock at par rapidly drawing to a close, there is unusual activity on the part of investors, to get shares now available, as experience has taught most people that, in the mining business when stock starts raising as a result of mine production that it goes by leaps and bounds, and a single day often sees increases that exceed par many times.

H. H. Lotz leaves for the mine today, accompanied by some of the stockholders, and will probably not return until announcement is made that the mine is operating and the mill running.

Former Senator Sinclair Is Now in Penitentiary

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Jan. 31.—Former Senator Percy Sinclair is now in the Walla Walla penitentiary serving a sentence of 10 months to three years for having made false reports of the condition of the defunct Southwestern Washington Bank of Ilwaco. Senator Sinclair's son is already serving a term in connection with the same failure.

By a queer freak of fate Senator Sinclair was brought to the penitentiary by Howard Shattuck, parole officer, who was a fellow member with Mr. Sinclair in the last legislature. Shattuck is representative from Kitsap county.

MACHINERY SHIPPED LOTZ-LARSEN MINE

Drills Motors and Steel Pass Through Salem on Way to Santiam Property

A carload of machinery passed through Salem Friday billed to the Lotz-Larsen Mining company, in the Santiam district. It consisted of motors, water drills, steel and other accessories essential to the immediate operation of the mine. It is also approximately the last machinery that will be sent in for the present as it is intended to start the mill full capacity within the next week.

The equipment being purchased by H. H. Lotz is of the latest and most successful type, and machinery that will be of service for many years regardless of what expansion the working operations make on the property. With the shipping of the motor in this last lot of machinery, the compressing plant is now complete, and all work done toward the immediate mining of ore by air drills, which will speed up mine output by several hundred percent.

Work in the extension of the Minnie E is progressing nicely and the new strike of silver ore, and high grade copper is daily showing greater width at the breast of the drift.

Engineers who have inspected this showing confidentially expect it to "open" with any round of shots into one of the largest deposits in the district uncovered so far. If this expectation is fulfilled, the property will at once have a potential value nearly twice that which was estimated by a world known mining corporation a few months ago.

The old Santiam canyon has seen more activity in the past three months than it has ever experienced before, as many hundreds of people have been into the property, and almost daily trips are being made by people interested in the progress of the company. Sunday witnessed possibly the largest number of men big in the financial world, on the west coast and central west, when F. H. Kunkel took four automobiles loaded with North Dakota, Montana and Oregon mining men and
