 BLIGH—Vaudeville.

Glenn Hunter, star of "West of the Water Tower," which began a four-day run at the Oregon theatre last night, justified not only the confidence of Paramount in casting him in the lead in this unusual, but proved the accuracy of his own judgment in selecting a vehicle for his debut as a screen star.

When Hunter was selected as a candidate for stardom they accorded him the privilege of choosing his own vehicle for his premier. "West of the Water Tower" was his selection, principally because it pictured so truly the life of the small western town from which he came. His interpretation of the lead role embodies that element of personal knowledge of small town life which is necessary to successfully put the theme of the production across to the audience. He is ably supported by Ernest Torrence, May McAvoy, George Fawcett and Zasu Pitts.

"Unseeing Eyes," said to be the most thrilling film ever woven around life in the Canadian north woods, opens at the Grand theatre for a two-day engagement today. Many of the scenes were filmed 10,000 feet above sea level and dangerous camera exploits were demonstrated over and over again. The story itself is thrilling and fast moving and for its interpretation on the screen he Cosmopolitan corporation assembled a brilliant cast of players.

"A farmer's life is no life for a perfect lover." So opines Orville Caldwell, who played the role of Dan Taylor, the rural husband in "The Six Fifties." Universal attraction playing at the Bligh theatre, and based on Kate McLaughlin's noted stage play. Caldwell had to learn to make harness, for there was a scene in which he mended his harness while his discontented wife dreamed of Broadway and bright lights. He had to learn to nurse little pigs. There is a scene in the picture with a piglet and a disinfectant sprayer of which he has strenuous, if not fond memories. "A farmer's life is a dickens of a life," says Caldwell. "I know—I've lived it!"

The picture, featuring Renee Adoree, Caldwell, and a big cast of well-known picture artists, tells the story of a young couple whose matrimonial bark is almost wrecked.

Robertas Comedy Animal Circus comes to the Bligh theatre today with three other feature acts of vaudeville for a two days showing.

LOGGERS BEATEN BY WILLAMETTE

Bearcats Lead Throughout Game With College of Puget Sound

The Willamette University Bearcats defeated the College of Puget Sound Loggers by a score of 22 to 15 in a basketball game in the new Willamette gym last night. The game was not as fast as some of the games here this season but Willamette's team work was perhaps the best shown on the local floor this year. At the outset of the game the score went to 4 to 2 in favor of Willamette. It stood at this point for several minutes, then the Bearcat began the steady scoring. Throughout the game Willamette lead by a score almost double that of the Loggers. At the end of the half the score stood 13 to 6 against the CPPS aggregation. Frequent fumbles and inaccurate shooting as well as inefficient team work were the causes of the Loggers' defeat. The CPS center, Enochs, was the leading figure in both the Logger defensive and offensive plays.

The Bearcats have shown a marked improvement in general floor work since the last game. Patton, who formerly played at guard, has been placed at forward and the Robertson's position and Robertson is playing at guard. In his new role Patton proved a decided success as he was high point man of the game last night with 10 points to his credit. Logan, the Willamette captain who has been out of the game with injuries played nearly the entire game at center. He was relieved by Hartley during the last of the second half.

The line-ups were as follows:
 Willamette (22) CPS (15)
 Fasnacht (3).....f.....Allerdice (2)
 Patton (10).....f.....Stansel (2)
 Logan (4).....c.....Enochs (4)
 Robertson (3).....g.....Van De Venter
 Erickson.....g.....Oler (2)
 Jones (2).....s.....Chouning (2)
