

OREGON MEN UNDER SHADOW OF ARARAT

If Noah Returned to Landing Place of the Ark He Would Be Amazed

Had Noah returned to Mount Ararat at the place where the ark landed anytime up to a few years ago he would have found the same sort of tools and farming implements in use as those he unloaded from the ark. Had he delayed his return until this year, he would have rubbed his eyes more than did Rip Van Winkle when he awakened to find that the Volstead Act had come in during his sleep.

O. A. C. Man There
Modern farming methods are now employed in the shadow of Mount Ararat, and an Oregon man, Leonard Hartill, of O. A. C., 1912, had the honor of taking 12 tractors, and their complement of plows and harrows, for American relief work in the Near East. Twelve Armenian boys, whom he has already trained to handle this machinery, now do the work which formerly required THREE HUNDRED MEN AND A THOUSAND HEAD OF OXEN. He has not only improved the method of farming, but by deep plowing he has doubled the productivity of the soil. One of his farms consists of 14,000 acres, and another of 6,000; both furnished rent free by the soviets of Russia. Wheat and barley are their chief crops, although vast quantities of vegetables and $10,000 worth of cotton were produced last year.

Oregon Woman Has 1800 Orphans
In these efforts Hartill is seconded by Ethel Long Newman, O. A. C., 1920, who with her husband, Sam Newman, a young Baptist preacher from Idaho, has charge of an orphanage of 1800 children.

Not only are they producing vegetables and grains, but they are developing a herd of cattle, hoping to be able to give a sufficient meat ration to the Armenian and Greek children in the Near East orphanages. The absence of

PSYCHOLOGIST AND AUTHOR TO LECTURE HERE TUESDAY EVENING

Aryan Kelton, recently returned from India. Author of musical play, "The Buddha Girl," at the armory Tuesday evening.

Aryan Kelton, psychologist and distinguished young author, is in Salem and will lecture at the armory Tuesday evening and afterwards conduct classes in the modern science of life—practical and applied psychology. This popular psychologist comes to Salem from Seattle where it is reported that his opening lecture was very well attended. He is making a complete tour of America having returned from India about a year ago and until just recently taught classes in his school of astrology and psychology beside Leary's old famous book store in Philadelphia.

Aryan Kelton is author of the musical play, "The Buddha Girl," which created quite an impression in Chicago and New York where it was produced. He is the founder of the "East India Occult Students," which has for its devotees some of the most distinguished people in the world. At one time he was referred to as the "Little Master," but is known today in the realm of art as the psychological star.

Mr. Kelton is a member of the society known as the "Union of the East and West," which has for its members such celebrities as Dr. Rabindranth Tagore, H. G. Wells, Lord Sinha, etc.

fats in the children's food has been one great handicap to their development.

Has Saved Many Cattle
Hartill, with the aid of two scientists whom he rescued from among the refugees—one a veterinarian and the other a widely known bacteriologist—has developed a serum for the treatment of the Russian plague and has saved thousands of head of cattle by the discovery of this remedy. Many of the milk producing animals are tubercular, and this situation is one of the many problems the relief workers are facing.

The presence of these diseased cows is one of the reasons why a trainload of condensed milk is being made up and sent from America to the Near East. A number of lodges, clubs, churches, as well as the Salem schools, have been making liberal contributions the last few weeks to the filling of Oregon's car of milk.

Lions Club Minstrels Progress With Training

Rehearsals for the Lions minstrel show to be given at the Grand theatre February 26 and 27 are progressing in fine shape and the men beginning to show the results of regular practices, held twice a week.

Ballads will be sung by Otto Hoppes and Leslie Springer, with the entire minstrel joining in on the chorus. Other soloists and special numbers are Steve Willet, Claude Stevenson, Dr. S. F. Scott and Al Krause. Old familiar faces which will be seen, though perhaps not recognized, will be those belonging to Dr. Carl Wanner, Ed Chastain, F. Ray Felker, Rufe White, Frank Zinn and Floyd Strasbaugh, the 100 per cent end men and without whom no Salem minstrel would be complete.

The Boy Scout movement has been adopted by the Lions club and the organization has taken this means of raising money in order to carry on the work in this community.

Several new features, including vaudeville, have been added to the program and one of the best minstrel shows in the history of the city is promised.

The score at half time was 11 to 10 in favor of the home team which was playing smooth ball. Gradually Whitman pulled away to a larger lead from the weakening bulldog squad.

Salem again jumped into the championship class last night when the red and black quintet annexed the game with Raymond, Wash., by a score of 25 to 11. Salem now is not only leading in its district but by virtue of the victory last night has the edge over the district represented by Raymond, which was also a top-notch.

Failure to penetrate the five-man defence offered by Salem was responsible for the defeat of the visitors. In addition to this defence they were not used to so large a floor and were at a disadvantage. Practically all of their scores came from long field goals.

The game was not without thrills and was a fast contest. Salem ended the first half in the lead by a score of 14 to 7. Raymond centered itself on keeping the score as low as possible. Raymond converted one out of three free throws at the basket while Salem annexed three out of seven fouls.

Early in the game Erickson, Willamette guard got a field goal by breaking through from his position at the opposite end of the floor.

During the first half the Bearcats exhibited some of the best team work they have shown this year with Logan as the key man. Patton continued to star in the forward position which he assumed for the first time in the game with CPS Friday night. Short passes were used almost altogether in the first half until Logan received a slight injury to his knee. At the end of the half the score
