PAUL ALTHOUSE, TENOR
Feb. 20, 1924.
How wonderful the singing voice,
The singing voice of man,
Mysterious with majesty
Since time itself began.

"Berceuse" has left me silent;
"O Mother Earth," more glad,
Till through the singing of one man
All life I've had!

—Audred Bunch.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cooley were dinner hosts on Tuesday evening at their home, 888 North Summer street, for Miss Marie Briggs and Mr. Leroy Gard, the occasion having the double significance of being Mr. Gard's birthday and the wedding anniversary of the hosts. Marjorie and freesia were used on the table. The evening was spent conversationally.

The Capital Bridge luncheon club met Wednesday as the guests of Mrs. George Rodgers, on Court street for their regular diversion. Luncheon covers were laid for nine. Two tables were made up for the afternoon of bridge. Mrs. Joseph Baumgartner won high score. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. W. Carlton Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop have had as their house guests for the last few days Miss Eva Raistrick of Portland.

The DAR silver tea set for Saturday afternoon at the club house will be the suitable occasion for the presentation of "The Ball Sisters," a skit which a group of the McMinnville club women are preparing. It will be a delightful composite of vocal solos, duets and readings. A Colonial atmosphere will pervade the club house throughout. The Daughters of the American Revolution are the hostesses in charge. The McMinnville committee is made up of prominent women of the town, one group being the wives of faculty members of Linfield college. The hours set for the open tea are from 2:30 to 5 o'clock.

Six tables of five hundred were made up by the members of the Merry Go Round club Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Spencer hosts. Mrs. Max O. Buren and W. G. Allen achieved the card honors. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Moores.

Chapter G of the PEO sisterhood will meet this afternoon with Mrs. A. L. Godfrey, 127 Union street. Out of town PEO members are invited to meet with the chapter.

The Faculty Women's club of Willamette university will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. G. Franklin, 1350 Ferry street, with Mrs. C. L. Sherman assisting hostess.

The Chadwick chapter of the Eastern Star meeting on Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple enjoyed one of the most outstanding meetings of the year. Practically 125 delegates from other chapters were in attendance. The Eastern Star sextette sang. The group includes Mrs. W. Carlton Smith, Gussie Niles, Dr. Angeline McCulloch, Eva Ferree, Miss Allen, and Mrs. Jessie Darby. Mrs. Harry Styles is director and accompanist for the group. Last night, for the first time, the flower degree was bestowed. An appreciative letter, acknowledging a Chapter honor presented in her behalf, was read from Mrs. Emma Murphy Brown who is in Washington, D. C. Three hundred guests were entertained at the pussy willow and daffodil decorated tables where a late supper was served. The committee in charge of the evening's affair included Miss Nellie Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Vass, Mr. and Mrs. David Wright, Mrs. Radcliffe, Mrs. W. H. Steustoff and daughter, Dorothy Steustoff, Mrs. Witchee, and Mrs. Harrison.

The pontifical altar of St. Joseph's Catholic church was the scene of a most beautiful marriage service when Miss Mary Cecelia Healy became the bride of Joseph Raymond De Jardin at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. With the chiming of the wedding bells, the organ broke into the familiar strains "Here Comes the Bride," to which majestic accompaniment the bridal party assembled. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Louise Healy; the groom by his brother, Mr. Gabriel De Jardin of Alsea. Father J. R. Buck, assisted by Father Thomas Keenan, performed the beautiful and impressive ceremony. Miss Josephine Nadeau, of Portland, a cousin of the bride, sang the Ave Maria, with Miss Mary Lebold at the organ during the entire service. The bride was exquisite in satin tulle and tulle, with a sheer full length veil caught with orange blossoms across her dark, soft hair. She carried an elaborate shower bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses and freesias, knotted with filmy white maline. Miss Louise Healy, as maid of honor, wore orchid flat crepe with hat to match, and carried tulips of the deep orchid shade. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. John Jennings, of Portland. Paul Green and Charles Fox acted as ushers for the service, 150 invitations having been issued.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 995 Center street. The linen-spread table held the reception service. Mrs. Sarah Nadeau and Mrs. Carrie Dunham poured. Miss Vivian Jennings and Mrs. Charles Fox assisted. The house was festive with pussy willows, freesias, and daffodils. Miss Josephine sang in a most beautiful manner "Because" followed by "I Love You Truly." One room of the house was set apart for the wedding gifts of which there were a lavish number. Exquisite pieces of pottery, cut glass, silver, linen and electric gifts predominated, each bearing its card or telegram of greeting and congratulation.

Mrs. De Jardin is the daughter of Mrs. C. J. Healy. Her original home is Portland, she having come to Salem in a business way to be associated with the office of Adjutant-General. Mr. De Jardin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. De Jardin of Gervais. He is in the automobile business, having connections at The Dalles where the young people will make their home following a short honeymoon.

Relatives of the family in attendance at the wedding were, the mother of the bride, Mrs. C. J. Healy, Miss Louise Healy, Mrs. Sarah Nadeau, Miss Josephine Nadeau, Miss Mary Frances Nadeau, Mr. John Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. D. De Jardin, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Keppinger, Mr. and Mrs. Antoine De Jardin and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Brassel, Mr. and Mrs.

Julian De Jardin, and Mr. Gabriel De Jardin.

The members of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Evangelical church were hostesses to the ladies of the Auburn Evangelical church on Tuesday afternoon, entertaining in the parlors of the church.

Mrs. B. L. Steeves was hostess yesterday for women of the East and West Central circles of the First Methodist church at her new home. Potted plants added an attractive springtime air to the pretty living rooms. More than 40 women enjoyed the pleasant afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hudelson yesterday observed their 58th wedding anniversary. Members of the Yew Park circle of which Mrs. Hudelson is a member, gathered during the afternoon at the Hudelson home.

Potted hyacinths were presented to Mrs. Hudelson by Mrs. C. J. McAdams, president of the circle and guest of honor responded with a brief talk. Mrs. Austin, a sister of Mrs. Hudelson, is her guest this week having come for the wedding anniversary occasion. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Durkheimer and Mrs. C. J. Lisle.

Mr. Guy O. Smith, local attorney, returned Wednesday from San Francisco where he has been spending the last few days in the interest of legal business.

Mrs. Claudine Mellinger extended gracious hospitality to the members of the Writers' club who met at her home on South Church street for their last February meeting. The house was particularly attractive with bowls of spring flowers used about the rooms. The informal program of the evening afforded some delightful things: Miss Marjorie Mellinger read on historical sketch entitled "A Pioneer Mother," which was based on fact occurring near Roseburg. Miss Minna L. Harding haunted an extended poem, "The Haunted House." Two characteristic sketches by Mrs. Blanche Jones met with particular favor. Mrs. Edith Sherwood read a group of three poems, "Shadows," a quatrain, and a lyric, "I Love You," which met with sufficient editorial favor to find acceptance with the Overland Monthly recently. Mrs. Fargo also read the letter she received. Mrs. F. S. Barton's contribution was a song of the Circuit Rider. Mr. A. De-

Spain continued to pay tribute to the pioneer preachers, reading the poem he submitted in the recent Booth contest. Mrs. F. G. Franklin, instead of contributing original work, reviewed The Nation poetry contest, the results of which have been very recently announced. Perry Reigelman presented an allegorical play, "The City of Living Dreams," a work of considerable possibility. Additional members of the club who were present are Dr. F. C. Franklin, Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Ross, and the hostess, Mrs. Mellinger. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Green, 1*83 State street, on March 4.

Mrs. Mary Boeschgen has returned to Salem after having enjoyed a week's visit in Portland.

Pantomime and music afforded entertainment last evening for the Young People's society of the Central Congregational church. The program was in charge of Vera McCune. Olive Bernard is president of the society.

A pot-luck supper will this evening bring the members of the Central Congregational church together at the church for their regular monthly social hour. Mrs. Joe Schindler is in charge.

Miss Edna Garfield was a visitor in Portland Monday evening, attending the organization for a branch poetry club.

The vocational work, of which Mrs. F. E. Barker is in charge, will be organized as follows: Two classes in sewing and one in millinery. The sewing classes will meet on Thursday and on Monday, the Thursday class meeting at 9 o'clock in the morning, and the Monday class at 7 o'clock in the evening. The class in millinery will meet at 1:30 Tuesday.

About 50 members of the Marion Lawrence Sunday school class of the First Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. E. E. Carrier on Court street Tuesday evening for their regular monthly meeting. A business session for the class was followed by a short program consisting of a reading by Lloyd Waltz and a piano solo by Miss Lucille Crockett. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Lucille Crockett, Mrs. U. G. Boyer, Mrs. Horace Sykes and Mrs. C. F. Wilson assisting Mrs. Carrier.

Mr. Jake Probe of Canada is making a visit with his father, Mr. Max Probe.

Theresa and Clara Shutt are motoring to Aberdeen, Wash., where they will visit relatives for a week, having left Salem yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Daily, formerly of Salem, writing from Oakland, are informing their friends that they are planning to drive to Salem during vacation. Mrs. Daily was formerly Miss Dorothy Esch. Mr. Daily is employed in an automobile factory in Oakland.

Lora Purvine, a former Salem girl, is visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Purvine. She plans to spend two months in Salem. Miss Purvine is specializing in a branch of photographic work in Long Beach, Cal.

Mrs. Dora Walker, who has been ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. W. Henry on North Church street, is able now to return home.

Mrs. P. E. Graber, after a two weeks' visit in Seattle, has returned home. In Seattle she was the guest of a former school friend.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Eberly and small son are leaving Salem for Texas within a few days. Mr. Eberly is in the forestry service here. He plans to dispose of his Salem property and take up similar work in the southern state.

Completely surprising Mrs. William Hartman on her birthday, a group of friends and neighbors gathered at the Hartman home, 1698 South Liberty street, Tuesday evening for a happy party. The evening was spent in absorbing games and in music. A delicious luncheon was served. The guests for the evening were: Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Poling, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Badertscher, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rex, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Seegar, Mr. and Mrs. William Garnjobst, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Remington, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wenger, Mr. and Mrs. G. SOME IMPORTANT NOTES FOR BEEMEN

A Few Paragraphs Broadcasted By Agricultural College Experts

A good colony of bees at the beginning of the main honey flow should consist of one selected queen and 75,000 to 100,000 workers. There should be as few drones as possible present.

The queen bee mates with the drone or male bee on the wing. Her matings are not under the control of the beekeeper except as he makes it possible to have a supply of good drones and limits the supply of poor drones. The queen mates but once in her life time.

European foulbrood and cross bees may be eliminated by replacing all inferior queens with good Italian queens. It is the highest step toward success.

The man who keeps his bees in any old box is in the same class as the one who lets his chickens find their own feed in the grass and looks for eggs in the brush pile.

Increase of the honey crop is best obtained by increasing the quality of the bees and improving the management of them rather than by increasing the number of colonies. One good colony properly managed will sometimes produce more honey than 50 colonies poorly managed.

When buying bee supplies buy only the best. This is especially
