THE man who sang the "Pipes of Gordon's Men" by Hammond, with his back to the audience, his hands resting before him on the vast Knabe piano, and the man who was his accompanist, Rudolph Gruen, an artist of amazing technical sensitivity, attracted many of Salem's devotee group to the St. Paul's Parish House for a post-concert reception on Wednesday evening.

Miss Ruth Bedford, a highly sympathetic pianist, is accompanist of the club. Mrs. Julia Harms appeared also with the club as an assistant soprano.

All were responsive and jocular about the program. The visiting artists were unusually communicative, and there was much congenial jostling for a place near the affable tenor and the splendidly sensitive pianist.

Two solos, one by Paul Althouse, himself, and the other, a sea-song, by Mr. E. A. Gwynn, bass, made up a midnight program. Dancing followed. The club, probably remembering Mr. Althouse's last encore, paraphrased their sentiments to the effect that as far as they were concerned, the Metropolitan tenor was a candidate for honorary membership in their organization.

The Oregonian of January 25 has this to say in regard to this trio's latest concert there: "A heavenly concert was given last night by the Chamber Music trio. The Mozart trio C Major No. 4 from the first to the last note had a crystal clearness, with a feeling of deliberation even at its swiftest pace that made the movement one to be long remembered.

Silverton Legioners Have Telegram From Stanfield

SILVERTON, Or., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Delbert Reeves post of the American Legion enjoyed an enthusiastic meeting at the Knights of Pythias hall Monday night. Seventy-five members were present.

An important feature of the meeting was the reading of a telegram received from Senator Robert N. Stanfield. Senator Stanfield's telegram was in reply to one sent to him from Delbert Reeves post, thanking him for past assistance he has given the bonus bill and asking him what his stand would be should the president veto the bill.

Senator Stanfield replied that he was in favor of a fairly adjusted compensation bill, but that at the present he was not in a position to say how he would vote should the bill receive the veto of the president, because the bill as it was first drafted might be amended and changed in so many ways that by the time it reached the president he would perhaps be justified in vetoing it.
