

MAY TAKE OVER DRY FRUIT PLANT

Campaign to Finance Co-operative Company Is Now Under Way Here

Campaign to finance a co-operative canning company to take over the Bruce Cunningham dried fruit plant in West Salem is now under way according to Joseph Baumgartner, who yesterday signed a 90-day option on the plant. Mr. Baumgartner has $40,000 and the remaining $75,000 will be raised. The Cunningham plant represents a cash investment of $64,000 and has a daily drier capacity of 2000 bushels of prunes.

Under present plans the new company will be strictly a co-operative organization. Only growers are eligible for stockholders in the proposed concern and the stock is to be sold on the basis of $100 per share, each share to represent one acre of bearing fruit.

If all the stock is sold before the 90-day option expires the necessary canning unit will be built and put into operation this season. If the stock is not sold the company will be confined to prune drying this year. The fund remaining over the purchase price will be used to equip a canning unit with a capacity of 1000 bushels of fruits and vegetables daily.

Ten per cent of the selling price will be charged off from the returns to the growers and will be devoted to the operation of the plant. In case this amount is more than is required to meet the maintenance costs the surplus will be pro-rated to the stockholders.

CORN MAKES BRISK UPWARD MOVEMENT

Upturn Follows Reports That Farmers are Holding for $1 Bushel

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Corn rose briskly today to above the highest price which July and September deliveries had previously touched this season. The upturn was based on spreading an organized movement to hold back corn for a dollar a bushel. Corn closed firm, $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ higher, May, \$1.15 to \$1.16; Wheat finished $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ to $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ down; May, \$1.09 to \$1.09 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, and July, \$1.09 to \$1.10, with oats unchanged to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ up, and provisions varying from $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ off to a gain of 2¢.

Corn trading broadened noticeably in volume and the May delivery as well as the later months displayed strength. May ascending to within a fraction of the best prices so far. Profit taking sales, however, led subsequently to something of a setback from the day's top figures. Receipts showed a falling off in practically all directions.

Wheat values were adversely affected by a decline in Liverpool quotations and by word that eastern interests were believed to be hedging cash wheat. Increasing reports of damage to the domestic winter crop failed to have more than a temporary bullish influence.

Oats mainly took their cue from corn, and provisions reflected the firmness of the corn market.

ANACONDA COPPER CAUSES BIG STIR

Unexpected Dividend Brings Flood of Selling Orders on Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Unexpected passing of the Anaconda copper dividend today brought a flood of selling orders into the copper shares, weakness of which eventually communicated itself to the general list. Copper issues broke 1 to 4 points, several of them to their lowest prices of the year, while a number of other active industrial stocks closed 1 to 2 points below yesterday's final figures.

Anaconda, approximately 100,000 shares of which changed hands during the day, dropped to 33 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, as compared with the year's high of 41, closing slightly above its low price for a net loss of 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ points.

Not all of today's dividends was unfavorable, however. Directors of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel company resumed dividends on a \$6 annual basis, after having suspended payments since the spring of 1921 and the stock immediately climbed 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ points to 65 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢.

Professional operators on the short side took advantage of the break in Anaconda to increase offerings in other parts of the list, some of the late selling also being influenced by intimations of further sensational developments at the Washington oil inquiry. Opening prices had been fairly steady. Oil money held at $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ per cent all day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet, with the bulk of the business being done at 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ per cent. Business in the foreign exchange market was on a moderate scale with rates irregular. Demand sterling dropped nearly $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ to \$4.29 $\frac{1}{2}$, but French francs held fairly steady around 4.27. Passing of the grain export season sent Canadian dollars down $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ to 96 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢.

YOUTH REPEATS BOOSTER TALK

Just as the engineer the world has ever known," declared John L. Brady, who spoke upon the general shown by the automobile manufacturer, emphasizing the fact that he had never had a strike or permitted his employees to organize, though he now gives employment to more than 60,000 men.

"Though Henry Ford is a genius and wizard along his line he will eventually fail because he has failed to take into account the fundamental principles between capital and labor—those of collective bargaining," Mr. Brady said in closing.

Mrs. Mary Talmadge Headrick delighted the organization with her violin solos. She was accompanied by Prof. T. S. Roberts, R. J. Barton, sang, with Mrs. Headrick playing a violin accompaniment. The attendance prize, donated by "Dolly" Farmer, was won by Karl Becke.

No Newspaper Fight Is Conclusion of McAdoo

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—William Gibbs McAdoo, candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, declared here tonight that he is not going to make a newspaper fight out of charges made against him by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, also a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in a speech last night in St. Louis.

"I'm not going to fight this thing out in the newspapers," the former secretary of the treasury declared. "When I have something to say I will say it in a public address."

Routine Business Done By Salem School Board

Additional drawer room in the art room at the high school was voted by the school board in regular meeting last night. Members of the Salem Trades and Labor council appeared before the board requesting that a clause be inserted in the contract for the new junior high school specifying that Salem labor be used and the Salem wage scale be observed.

The matter of what action the board should take regarding the goitre survey came up for discussion but was passed over until additional information could be secured. The superintendent, George Hugg, was instructed to follow the same plan as used last year in the matter of election of teachers. The questionnaire sent to the teachers last year asking their desires in the matter of assignments, preferences etc., met with the approval of the board and was said to have been satisfactory from the point of view of the superintendent and teachers. It probably will be used this spring again.

Kolb and Dill, kings of the comedy stage, will play to a capacity house at the Grand theater Thursday night when they offer "A Big Reward," if the money order and box office advance sale of seats is any indication of the crowd to be expected. Orders have been pouring in to the boxoffice during the past two days, not only from Richard Barthelmess at his best. That, in a sentence, describes the performance of this popular star of the screen in "Twenty-One" which opened at the Oregon theater yesterday and will remain at the attraction there until Friday. In the part of Julian McCullough, 21-year-old son of a rich man who is unable to master his own fate because he has not yet reached his majority, Barthelmess proves that he is a versatile star, one who can jump from character roles to modern parts and back again with admirable ease.

Dorothy Mackall again adds to her laurels in the part of a working girl. The settings, it is said, were taken at the famous Westchester-Biltmore Country club at Rye, N. Y., the rendezvous of millionaire New Yorkers and at the famous estate of Samuel Untermyer, "Greystone."

"Twenty-One" is a picture which will delight all lovers of simple modern tales. It is unpretentious but very human. In the cast, in addition to the star and Miss Mackall are Bradley Barker, Ivan Simpson, Dorothy Cummings, Elsie Lawson, Joe King, Nellie Parker Spaulding and Helen Tracy.

John S. Robertson, who directed "Twenty-One," has given his characteristic careful attention to settings, acting and situations. One boy at school's worth two at pool.

Concrete Roads Are Built to Ride On— Not to Slide On

When you come to a stretch of Concrete road you feel your car "take hold" on the firm, even surface.

You notice the sure, swift action of the brakes even in wet weather—how easy it is to steer.

You make your own comparisons with other road surfaces.

Then you realize why Concrete hard-surfaced roads are being built everywhere in response to motorists' needs.

One of the purposes of the Portland Cement Association is to enable everyone—whether he uses Concrete or has it used for him—to get the greatest value for his money.

We have a personal service to offer individuals and communities.

The Value of Sound Advice

The country is besieged in this day and age by many high pressure salesmen of nicely sounded schemes to get rich quick. Their proposition can be gone over carefully and sound as if there is not a doubt in the world as to the successful outcome.

But there are small flaws in it which are invisible to the layman. The officers of the United States National Bank know these flaws and are more than willing to advise you and protect you from nefarious schemes.
