Defeat Minor

The defeat of the government in the chamber was on a question of minor importance. The premier himself was not present. The vote against the government was 271 to 264, many of the votes being cast by proxy.

In the conference President Millerand had with M. Dougmargue and M. Peret all agreed that public opinion, as overwhelmingly expressed by a great majority of the press, made it impossible for any other leader to assume power at this stage.

The conference between the president and the premier was touching. M. Millerand is reported fusively as he earnestly impressed upon him that it was a public duty and a matter of patriotism that he continue "his magnificent work to its conclusion for France."

The chamber lobbies were in high state of excitement until late in the evening although the afternoon session lasted only a few minutes.

The majority of the deputies appeared stunned at the overthrow any belief that Smith's death was had a lead in 16. of the government. The opinion advanced in parliamentary circles is that M. Poincare will return to power with a somewhat changed cabinet. It is thought that the ministers of finance, agriculture and hygiene will be overturned and, so that the premier's program of economies may be begun in the right way, certain under secretaries of state will be eliminated, and that possibly the ministries of agriculture and commerce will be conjoined. But there is no one this evening, either politician or layman, who believes that M. Poincare will not succeed himself.
