

DEMOCRATS IN CONGRESS RACE

Purdy of Salem and Swagler of Ontario File—McLain for Delegate

Ralph W. Swagler of Ontario, yesterday filed with the secretary of state his statement as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the second Oregon district. "Effective agricultural relief, lower taxes and clean government" is his slogan.

As a platform he submits the following: "I will endeavor to assist agriculture not only by remedial legislation, but by favoring such international cooperation as may help to stabilize European finance and industry and thus provide a market for our farm products. I shall endeavor to have legislation enacted equalizing the agriculture, labor and capital of our nation so that such prejudice as now exists shall be eradicated and all investments shall yield a fair return. I shall endeavor to give to Oregon necessary relief in transportation and transportation costs and give to our country higher standards of public and political morals."

Hugh McLain of Marshfield filed as a candidate for delegate to the national Democratic convention for the state at large. He says: "I believe that William McAdoo is entitled to my support on his public record of achievement. If elected I will support him if he receives Oregon's endorsement." His slogan is "Oregon's choice first. Clean, able, progressive Democrat second."

Other candidates who filed today were: John C. Ritter, Portland, for Republican nomination for state senator from 13th senatorial district, comprising Multnomah county.

Edward F. Bailey, Junction City, for Democratic nomination for representative in the legislature from third representative district, comprising Lane county.

S. A. Miller, Milton, for Republican nomination for representative in the state legislature from the 23rd representative district, comprising Umatilla county.

Will E. Purdy of Salem filed his declaration as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative in congress from the first Oregon district. "Equal justice for all" is his slogan.

CLUB LEADERS REALTOR GUESTS

Improvement of Tourist Camp Grounds Is Main Discussion Topic

Resolutions providing for a community house to be erected through the cooperation of various civic, business and labor organizations of the city, maintenance of an information booth and the barring of commercial advertising for the Salem auto camp grounds were unanimously approved at the luncheon of the Marion-Polk County Realty association Thursday. Representatives of various civic clubs and organizations, special guests of the realtors, spoke in approval of the plan as outlined.

"In the past tourists have complained about soliciting at the camp ground," A. C. Bohrnstedt, chairman of the board of governors of the multiple listing bureau of the association sponsoring the community house, said in outlining the project. "Most progressive grounds are provided with some regular place in which information may be obtained and not have visitors dependent upon volunteer information from persons not qualified to give such. The resolutions are offered at this time in order that advantage might be taken of the publicity being broadcast by the State Chamber of Commerce and the railroads which will bring thousands of tourists to the northwest this season."

The first resolution was in effect the erection of a community house, to approximate 30 by 46 feet, through the volunteer efforts and contributions of civic, business and labor organizations, the building to be erected under the direction of the Salem Federation of Clubs, which will receive the suggestion at its meeting tomorrow night. In order to assist, the Marion-Polk County Realty association is to pledge $100 toward the building. The other resolution provided that under no circumstances should commercial advertising appear on the grounds other than pamphlets published by responsible organizations and to be available when requested. Bulletin boards for church and club notices are not to constitute this advertising. For the purpose of keeping a responsible person on the grounds to answer inquiries regarding resources and opportunities of Salem during the months of June, July, August and September, the association offered to contribute $50 a month providing the Chamber of Commerce would cooperate and give its financial support. The realtors also guaranteed to underwrite the project if the building is erected and the information booths and support is forthcoming.

Representative citizens and heads of various organizations spoke briefly upon the project, giving almost unanimous support to the plans of the realtors.

Mayor J. B. Giesy outlined the history of the camp grounds and the program to use the revenue derived from the grounds in improvements. He expressed his appreciation of the attitude taken by the realtors.

Homer Smith, chairman of the park board, declared he was glad that some concerted action was being taken toward boosting instead of knocking. A knock at the camp grounds is a direct slap at the city, he said. The traveling public is satisfied with the auto park as it is, he said, and a majority of the knocking comes from the people of Salem and not the tourists. He intimated that the plan looked feasible, but said there were no funds available this year, though there might be next season.

Dr. H. E. Morris, president of the Kiwanis club, declared that by teamwork the various clubs of the city could accomplish anything, and as president of the Salem Federation of Clubs, assured those present that the community house plan would be discussed at the federation meeting Friday night.

Harley O. White, president of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that the plan was highly feasible and that there should not be any difficulty in obtaining support to the project. Cooperation, not criticism, was urged.

Dr. William B. Mott, president of the Lions club, said that the possibility of such a building was good and the only thing was that it might prove of insufficient size. He urged that its floor space be doubled that contemplated by the realtors. Billboards being erected in the vicinity of the grounds, said to be by the Deaconess hospital, were scored and he urged that they be cleaned out by some method.

R. O. Snelling, president of the Rotary club, expressed confidence that his organization would cooperate as it had with every other worthy enterprise, though he was not in a position to commit the club definitely.

George Griffith, representing the Auto Dealers' association, personally pledged the support of the dealers to the plan.

Mrs. Richard Cartwright, president of the Women's Civic league, told of the need of such a building, and though it might not materialize this year, it should be built next year. In the meantime she urged the erection of a temporary shelter, such as a large tent, so that it could be used this season.

Elmo S. White pledged the support of the Boy Scouts, who, he said, would do their share.

Hubert Beckwith Groves, author of "Americanism" and "Making the Constitution," who has been making a lecture tour through the state of Oregon, speaking to high and grade school students upon the federal constitution, and early American statesmen, arrived in Salem yesterday.

Mr. Groves spoke at the Woodburn and Silverton high schools Thursday morning and at the three Salem junior high schools in the afternoon. Today he will visit the Salem high school and speak at Independence, Dallas and Mouth.

Mr. Groves has been specially engaged by the Portland Telegram which is sponsoring the National Oratorical contest in Oregon and southern Washington.

NEW QUARANTINE IS ESTABLISHED

Because of a new outbreak of the foot and mouth disease among California livestock, a new proclamation was issued today by Governor Pierce, extending a former proclamation of a few weeks ago as a precaution against the disease entering Oregon.

The new proclamation requires the disinfecting of sheep shearers and other persons whose occupations bring them into contact with livestock. Importation of any vegetables from the infected district is prohibited, until official certification has been made.

Discharge of garbage by steamships or dining cars plying between California and Oregon points is prohibited. It is required that this be burned or placed in metallic cans and consigned to an incinerator or discharged at sea.

Cleaning and disinfecting of stock cars, auto trailers and other vehicles coming into Oregon from California, the disinfecting to be under official supervision is another requirement. The quarantine also is invoked against the importation of vegetables until adequate certification has been made.

Effort Made to Bring Dog Meet to Eugene

Salem dog owners are back of a movement started at the Oregon Field trials meet at Lebanon over the week-end to bring the national field events to Eugene in September. Members of the organization will confer in Eugene Sunday, April 13, regarding the event. If these trials are brought to the Willamette valley, it is expected that dogs from at least three southern states, from the east, middle west and west are assured. The state organization will assist in financing the meeting, it is understood.

Dogs valued at more than $10,000 each would be entered at the meeting in the fall if held at Eugene, it was announced by Mr. Zimmerman, owner of one of the largest and finest kennels of dogs in the country, who said he would enter his dogs, a number of which are valued in excess of $10,000. As most of the big dog owners have trainers for every few dogs, and the dogs are kept under the constant attention of the trainers. The ones which would enter the field events at Eugene would be among the finest in the world.

"The Lebanon trials were fine," Charles A. Evans, local druggist and judge for the events, said upon his return to Salem. "Instead of the 75 or 100 dogs that were present, a national event of this kind would bring at least 150 and probably 200 dogs to Eugene. The entry of Dr. C. E. Bates, "Pallacho Don," won first place in the puppy stakes, and as a result of this Dr. Bates will enter his dog in the Washington Field trials at Centralia this coming week-end. Several Salem dog owners attended the Lebanon meeting, a majority of them on Sunday, the second day of the events."

Mr. Evans will leave Salem for Centralia Saturday morning where he will act as judge in the field trials being held by the other dog club.

what was this beautiful girl's story? SEE Madge Bellamy IN HER GREAT PHOTO DRAMA "The White Sin"

What is a white sin? Do all people at some time or other in their lives commit white sins? Is a white sin forgivable? Have you ever committed a white sin?

THE SECOND BIG PALMER PHOTOPLAY
Producers of "Judgment of The Storm"

WHAT was this beautiful girl's story? What was "The White Sin" she committed? How many of us are free from sinning? Haven't we all—even the best of us at some time or other committed a white sin?

Remember the words of the greatest Man of all time when he said: "Let him among you that is without sin, cast the first stone."

How quickly the world stands ready to accuse—how eager to trail into the dust the reputation of others.

How hard it is, once accused, to come back.

In this great picture, pronounced by dramatic critics, reviewers and playwrights to be one of the most powerful dramatic documents ever screened, you'll see revealed the glory of womanhood in all her strength and weakness.

Here is a true slice of life picturized in unforgettable scenes of towering drama. There is no greater drama than life itself. You know it. Yet how few of us really and truly understand it.
