INDUSTRIAL STOCKS YIELD TO TRADERS

Bears Hammer Persistently and Accomplish Drop in Prices on Exchange

NEW YORK, March 28.—Prices of industrial stocks continued to yield today under the pertinent hammering of bear traders. A rally, based on short covering inspired by the announcement that Corn Products, old stock, had been placed on a $10 annual basis, set in toward the close, but not until after the average of 20 leading industrial stocks had established a new low record for the year.

the early trading on buying obviously influenced by the publication of additional favorable February earnings statements, particularly by the northwest carriers. These gains were materially reduced or cancelled later when heavy selling developed in Norfolk & Western.

New low records for the year were established by United States steel common, 97; American Can at 102; Baldwin 115 and Studebaker at 91 1/4, but all made a good recovery from their low prices of the day.

Oil shares moved up with rails in the early dealings in further reflection of another decrease in crude oil production, but they fell back with the rest of the list in the selling which engulfed the market soon after the noon hour.

Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent and then advanced to 5, where it closed. Time money rates were unchanged, the shorter maturities commanding 4 1/2 per cent and the longer dates 5. Prime commercial paper was unchanged at 4 1/2 per cent.

Another sharp gain in Spanish pesetas to 13.30 cents, a new high record for the year, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Strength of Spanish exchange is believed to be due to the restrictions imposed by the Spanish government on trading in that currency. Other European rates held firm, demand sterling ruling around $4.30 and French francs around 5.47 cents.

WHEAT PRICES AT NEW LOW LEVELS

Values Break to Within Quarter Cent of Dollar Mark in Chicago

CHICAGO, March 28.—Wheat values broke to within a 1/4 cent to $1 a bushel today with all deliveries reaching a new low record for the season. Reappearance of liquidation on the part of holders of wheat, corn and oats and preceded the fresh downturn of prices. Wheat closed unsettled at 3/4c to 1 1/4c net decline, with May $1.00 1/4 to $1.00, and July, $1.02 1/4. Corn, 1/4c to 1 1/2c off; oats, 1/2c to 3/4c lower, and provisions varying from 10 to 12 cents setback to a gain of 2 cents.

In contrast with the weakness which later developed, the grain markets early showed a tendency to advance. Predictions of colder weather with rain had led to a temporary reversal of position on the part of a number of traders who previously were active sellers but who inferred that adverse weather would bring renewed delay to oats seeding, as well as hinder the movement of corn and wheat. Absence of selling pressure, however, was subsequently less noticeable than apparent deficiency of buying power. Then the lack of any aggressive support for the wheat market was given decided emphasis after midday when word came that Canadian oats were continuing to find a ready outlet in New England. Besides weakness of the New York stock market and in cotton had a bearish effect on grain.

Only as wheat approached the dollar-mark was there much let-up in the selling after liquidation here had once got under way. The dollar-mark pause in the selling of wheat was also coincident with depression of corn to 75 cents for May delivery, a price regarded as about even with hogs at $7.50, the first time in a long while that such an equal ratio has been established.

Corn fell to the lowest prices touched of late. Oats went under 40 cents for September, a new bottom figure for the crop. Provisions sympathized to some extent with the weakness of grain.
