

SINNOTT, BAKER FILE STATEMENTS

Candidates for High Political Office are On Record for Ballot

N. J. Sinnott, representative in congress from the second Oregon district, yesterday filed with the secretary of state his declaration as a candidate for renomination by the republican party. His home is at The Dalles. "Chairman public lands committee, ranking member irrigation committee, member house steering committee" is his slogan. Mr. Sinnott's platform says:

"If nominated and elected, I will, during my term of office, advocate and support, safeguarding the fruits of the toll of the farmer and stockman and the exchange value of his products by prompt enactment of the McNary-Haugen bill and kindred legislation for agricultural relief; effective and thorough selection and restriction of immigration as embodied in the Johnson immigration bill; President Coolidge's recommendation for a separate department and a place in the cabinet for education; child labor amendment; protection and utilization of national forests with reasonable grazing fees; adjusted compensation for ex-service men; development of our water powers; additional reclamation projects; immediate and permanent tax reduction."

"Represent Oregon and the nation in a big, patriotic, two-listed manner." is the slogan of George L. Baker of Portland who uses in his campaign for the republican nomination for United States senator. His statement was filed yesterday with Secretary of State Koser. Mr. Baker's platform follows:

"If nominated and elected, I will during my term of office, stand for protection and advancement of American ideals, principles and institutions; administration of national affairs in a clean, business-like, patriotic manner; promotion of improvements and appropriations due Oregon from the federal government; upbuilding of shipping, trade relations and new foreign markets; adjusted compensation for ex-service men; all necessary protective tariffs for protection of our own industries; restriction of immigration; national department of free public education; development of Oregon resources by private and federal aid; upholding of all issues based upon moral and industrial progress and betterment."

Others who filed yesterday were: Henry S. Westbrook, Portland; for republican nomination for justice of the supreme court. Slogan, "Preserve the home from unlawful search; uphold jury verdicts; oppose non-suits; award justice." Other things covered in his platform are: "Favor liberal construction of workmen's compensation act for injured workman and family; oppose delays in judicial procedure; permit no man to go above the law; resolve every doubt in favor of the poor, unlearned, helpless and poverty-stricken; give the Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, rich and poor, black and white, equal justice; stand on every question four-square to every wind that blows."

George S. Sizemore, Burns, for democratic nomination for district attorney of Harney county.

R. A. Hercher, Billard, for republican nomination for representative in the legislature from Douglas county, fourth representative district.

Walter B. Jones, Eugene, for republican nomination for district attorney for Lane county.

Gus C. Moser, Portland, for republican nomination for state senator from the 13th senatorial district, comprising Multnomah county.

J. M. Ezell, Klamath Falls, for republican nomination for representative in the legislature from the 21st representative district, comprising Crook, Deschutes, Jefferson, Klamath and Lake counties.

R. J. Kirkwood, Portland, for the Republican nomination for representative in the legislature from Multnomah county.

NEW FRUIT TROUBLE IS A ROOT KNOT

California Accused of Sending Deadly Fruit Disease Into Oregon Orchards

EUGENE, Or., March 31.—The root knot nematode, said to be one of the worst crop pests in existence, is gaining a foothold in the Willamette valley, according to C. E. Stewart, county fruit inspector, who yesterday took the matter up with the Lane county court, asking that steps be taken to prevent its spread.

The inspector declared that the insects are being brought into Lane county in shipments of carrots from Los Angeles which have been sent to Portland and shipped from there to Eugene and in shipments of clematis and fruit trees. He said that the nematode had gained a foothold in the bottom lands in some counties north of Lane and that the authorities at Oregon Agricultural college have taken steps to combat its ravages.

California Suffering "It is killing pastures in some parts of California," said the inspector, "besides destroying various kinds of crops. It is a menace that should be guarded against and the only thing to do is to fight it and fight it hard."

Inspector Stewart has recently ordered destroyed a shipment of infected carrots and has taken the matter up with the state authorities to obtain their cooperation to prevent the spread of the pest but complains that he is not receiving the cooperation that he has expected from that source.

Earwig Warning Given The local inspector has been very active in the past in detecting the presence of other pests in this section of the state and through his efforts has been unable to control them or eradicate them altogether. He has recently given warning regarding the appearance of the earwig but says that few people in the county have paid much attention to it. He declares that this insect may be expected to appear this spring and summer in greater numbers than ever and that a great deal of damage to vegetables, flowers and fruits can be looked for if steps are not taken to fight the encroachments of the bugs.

Author of The Fool Popular With All

As a result of the widespread effect of Channing Pollock's play, "The Fool," which ran a year in New York and six months in Boston and Chicago and which will have its local presentation at the Grand theatre. Mr. Pollock was called on during the play's enormously successful New York run to make hundreds of speeches before widely varied organizations, including schools, universities and churches. In response to this demand for his services, three times he had to cancel sailings for England.

The request for speeches by the well-known playwright are significant from two angles: first, they indicate strikingly the vitality of the theme of "The Fool" and its treatment, and secondly, the genuineness of Channing Pollock's sense of the opportunity these requests offer to express his belief, not only in his play but in the fact that good plays do succeed. In an attempt to keep up with these requests, Mr. Pollock has had to make as many as five speeches in a single day.

Mr. Pollock's experiences in this connection have consisted of all sorts of curious things—for a playwright—such as taking over religious services in Jewish synagogues, speaking from a box in the theater to a congregation that had made up a theater party to see "The Fool," and addressing people interested in the Behal cause, East Indian natives, and the League of Political Education. At a Catholic Actors' Guild meeting, he not only spoke but wrote precepts in the prayer-books. It is further significant that the author of a play which pleads the brotherhood of man has been the guest of honor at organizations of Jews and Gentiles, Catholics and Protestants in the East and in the West. The author of "The Fool" has been introduced by rabbis and by priests, by social workers and by newspaper men.
