Pioneers Actively Work For Twilight League

Pioneers of Salem are active in various lines and have completed a schedule for a twilight baseball league, according to Loyal Warner, who is directing the activities in the city.
The first of the baseball games will be played today between the Lincoln and Whittier teams, with the Daniel Boones and Shelton teams and the Jason Lee and West teams playing April 12. The winners of these games will play elimination games on April 16 and 18, with the finals on April 23. Whittman was not matched with any other team, but will fight it out for the championship.
There are 45 bird houses under construction at present and it is expected other boys will enter the bird house building contest in a few more days. Eight individual prizes have been offered for winners, with a felt banner for the winning club. These prizes include a baseball glove, baseball, flashlight, two pocket knives, a year's subscription to either the Youth's Companion or the American Boy, watch and Eversharp pencil. The prizes will be placed on exhibition at the YMCA today.
Henry Hartley, a freshman at Willamette university, has been named new leader of the Daniel Boones at the First Methodist church. This club has a membership of 15 boys, with prospects of eight others in the near future.

April 13 Favored Date
For Blossom Festival

Blossom day, an annual event sponsored by the Salem Cherrians, will be held earlier than usual this year and probably will be on Sunday, April 13 or 20, with the former date being favored by King Bing Al Pierce. Last year the date was set too far in advance with the result that Blossom day was greeted with no blossoms.
Cherrians will meet Tuesday night to formulate final plans for the big event, including naming committees to have charge of all arrangements. Under present plans automobiles will be stationed at convenient places for the purpose of giving information and for carrying for persons who lack motor transportation. The Boy Scouts will have an important part on Blossom day. Post cards will be sent out to people living within a radius of 200 miles from Salem, notifying them of the event and inviting them to Salem to assist in the observation of Blossom day.

CARL HUNT IS HEARD BY RED CROSS

Threads. These threads cross and re-cross on the ocean until it has been styled 'the bridge of the ocean.' The boy who writes today to a lad in Europe will not care to look at him in a few years over a gun barrel.
There are five and a half million members of the Junior Red Cross in America, greater than the adult membership. Money is not the goal in this organization, but rather service.
Disaster relief work is another of the objects of the Red Cross under its charter grant, Mr. Hunt explained, and he outlined the work which has been accomplished in this line. The special funds of the association for this work were not used in the Japanese disaster last September, he stated.

The five million dollar relief fund called for by President Coolidge, were by the president's order administered by the Red Cross, Mr. Hunt explained. Not a dollar of the more than $11,000,000 subscribed by the people of the United States was used for transportation or administrative purposes, he explained.
The $3,000,000 which remains of the money subscribed will be used to build and endow an American Red Cross hospital, in Tokio, which will be used for the permanent care, if necessary, of those injured in the earthquake.
"Of the more than 35,000 former service men being cared for by the veteran's bureau, sevenths of them are suffering with either tuberculosis or mental diseases, Mr. Hunt said. "The peak of tuberculosis is considered past among service men, but it is considered that the number of those suffering with insanity is on the increase."
"The local chapters contribute their share toward the work of the service men in these hospitals in looking up the family history of each case, which is necessary before complete diagnosis is possible or attempted. Red Cross medical service workers to the number of 98 in this division bring to these men in the hospitals the touch which the hospital cannot give."
The entire personnel of the board was not present last night, but it was decided to meet every first Thursday in the future, and a special meeting will be held April 17 to consider ways in which the Junior Red Cross work can be put before the teachers of Marion and Polk counties that are within the jurisdiction of this chapter.

The most important service of the state treasurer is his work as a member of the state board of control. During the eight years that he was treasurer Mr. Kay served on the board and became intimately familiar with all state affairs. His business experience has served to equip him thoroughly for public service. He is head of the Thomas Kay Woolen mills of Salem and is a heavy taxpayer. Mr. Kay had no intention, after the death of O. P. Hoff, to run again for the office of treasurer, but has yielded to a demand made upon him by leaders of the republican party.

Completion of the first week's schedule in the Twilight league was effected at a meeting of representatives of the six teams at the YMCA last night, with the ONG and Loggers opening the season on the Willamette university field Tuesday, April 22. Games will be played on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights this year and will be called promptly at 6:15 o'clock by Hiddie Bishop, official umpire for the league. The Tinnors will meet the Bankers on April 23, the Legion and YMCA mixing on April 25.
Quisenberry's offer of fobs for the teams, was accepted at the meeting last night, presided over by Dr. Barrick, president of the league. Hauser Brothers' offer of a loving cup for using the Wilson baseball was also accepted.
This year the league will play two Senators, the teams drawing for the players by lot. This means the league will be stronger this year and every indication is that it will surpass the league last year. The American legion team walked off with the trophy last year and consequently is making efforts to top the league again.

habit of appropriating special funds for numerous purposes, amounting to millions of dollars. No money in a special fund could be used for any other purpose. When the general fund became exhausted state warrants were stamped "not paid for want of funds," and though millions of dollars was on hand, the state was compelled to pay interest on its unpaid warrants. Mr. Kay prepared a bill providing for one general fund covering all the purposes for which special funds had previously been appropriated. Thereafter the state had no interest of this character to pay.
Mr. Kay's record throughout his public career has been conservative and economical. It is con-core followed, this time Burton Brown's "All For You."

The fourth group included four irresistible songs of folk nature given in costume with action. The costume used was an interesting piece of apparel known as the French smock. Fanning donned it before his audience explaining about it the while. H. P. Turpin, the wholly devoted accompanist, secured it in Paris, the only satisfactory one he ever owned. The first of the folk-songs was a Stainbook arrangement, "Est-il donc bien vrai"; the second, from Ferrari, "Le Cycle du Vin." Mr. Fanning expressed the fact that it was really obsolete in theme, but it remains that expression like the Salem audience heard last night is something that can never grow old. Both remaining folk-songs followed Stainbook arrangements.
