BIG CIRCUS IS ON WAY HERE

It is no use denying it any longer—spring is here with us again. The first big circus of the season is coming to town. The Salem Shrine club is responsible for the coming of the Bob Morton circus, one of the biggest organizations of its kind, which has never been at the coast before, but enjoys a wonderful reputation in the middle west and in the south. The circus will exhibit on the show grounds at Fourteenth street for five features, sometimes seen on a circus lot, will be in evidence during the Shrine circus here. There are positively no amateur or vaudeville acts on the program of the Shrine circus that will consist of 20 high class professional circus acts. The personnel of the Bob Morton circus, which will furnish the circus entertainment proper, is composed exclusively of actual, honest-to-goodness circus performers that are known all over circudom as among the very best of their profession. Each and every one of these performers has been connected at one time or the other with Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey, Sells-Floto, or one of the other few big circuses touring the country in summer time. All acts are full of daring and thrills, and they will present a snappy, nights, beginning Tuesday, April 29, under the absolute management of the Salem Shrine club, the proceeds to go into its charity fund. And it will be an absolutely new circus experience for the people of Salem. The circus people will be only in evidence as far as the actual performance is concerned. You will see them only in the three circus rings and in the sawdust arena. The Shriners will turn into regular circus men during the circus week, and they will handle all the business details in every respect. This will make the circus a community and civic affair, and it gives a guarantee that none of the objectionable real circus entertainment that will find only the highest praise. The same applies to the 15 clowns with the Morton circus. They are real laugh-provokers and have an entirely different routine from what has been seen here with the other circuses, and their stunts are new throughout. The Morton circus has been showing lately to crowded tents in San Francisco, and the newspapers there were full of praise in regard to the entertainment offered. This is naturally gratifying to the members of the Salem Shrine club, as it is convincing proof that they are getting a high class real circus here next week.

"Wild Oranges" is Feature at Oregon

Perfectly photographed, abounding in thrills and suspense, and carrying through it a study of fear and its control of the human mind, "Wild Oranges" made its appearance at the Oregon theater yesterday and will remain on the screen there today and tomorrow. It is a King Vidor picture and is fully up to the high standard of the past productions he has made for Goldwyn.

The Silverton Choral society, Mrs. Vida Bennett presided at the piano and those taking part were Mrs. M. G. Gunderson, Mrs. Gilbert Bentson, Mrs. S. E. Richardson, Miss Marie Corhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCall, Mrs. Ruth Richards, H. Halland, Alfred Jensen, Tom Kaarhus, Rev. J. A. Bennett and Elmer Johnson.

The story deals with a man, embittered against society by the death of his wife, who sails with one sailor on his yacht to the Georgia coast, and there meets a strange trio—two men, one of them mad, and a beautiful girl. The experiences of the five during the brief stay in the lagoon make up one of the most gripping stories filmed in years. Frank Mayo plays admirably the role of John Woolfolk, the man who seeks Virginia Valli, the beautiful girl who has lived her life in the Georgia swamps, seclusion from the world on his yacht. Nigel de Brullier as the aged grandfather who has brought his granddaughter to the swamps because of his unexplainable fear of humanity, Charles A. Post as the giant Nicholas, the half-wit who lives with the other two in the swamps, and Ford Sterling as Halvard, Woolfolk's sailor, make up the cast. Only five persons appear in the entire picture.

The chase is the oldest form of screen comedy. It cannot be done on the stage and, since the beginning of motion pictures, we have had the chase. But all the chases ever produced put together could not provide the speed, the laughs and the thrills of "Girl Shy." It turns the trick of making you howl with glee—but there isn't a trick in it. Every stunt, every thrill, every inch of that chase is real, and in several instances the thrills were accidents and were not written in the script. It will be remembered that it was in the
