IF I WERE BRAVE
If I were brave
I would go most gladly
Along the walks
Where I now go sadly.

Meager use
Have the brave for weeping.
All strong pleasures
Are in their keepings.

Brave hearts have
Small cause for aching.
Gay adventure
Is theirs for taking.

I am weak
Put on some tomorrow
I shall go light footed
Away from sorrow.

When life has laughed
At love's young token...
They are only brave
Whose hearts are broken.
—Gertrude Robison Ross.

The culminating affair of an altogether successful music week will take place this afternoon at the T. S. Roberts home, 505 North Summer street, in the form of a musical tea, with Mrs. Harry Styles and Mrs. Bertha Junk Darby assistant hostesses. The calling hours will be from 4 to 6 o'clock. A continuous vocal and instrumental program will be given during the tea. The pupils of Professor Roberts will give diverse numbers assisted by Miss Iva Claire Love, violinist; R. D. The Piety Hill club will hold no meeting on Thursday afternoon. The date for the meeting, which is being postponed, will be announced later.

Mrs. Whitney Gill (Ruth Schultz), who has been spending the past several weeks as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schultz, will leave tomorrow for The Willows, Calif., joining her husband there, where they will make their home.

Miss Margaret Putnam had as her house guest late in the week Miss Alice Forshaw of Pendleton. On Thursday Miss Putnam entertained in Miss Forshaw's honor with a delightful bridge party, four tables playing. Pink tulips and for-get-me-nots were used in the rooms. Mrs. S. J. Butler assisted the hostess. The guests were Miss Forshaw of Pendleton, Mrs. C. V. Johnson, Mrs. Edward Gillingham, Mrs. C. B. Montague, Mrs. Walter L. Spaulding, Mrs. Roy Mills, Mrs. D. N. Hendricks, Mrs. C. F. Patton, Mrs. Robert Duncan of Silverton, Mrs. Algood, Mrs. Sibley, and Mrs. Collins of Dallas, Miss Emma Godfrey, Miss Zoe Stockton, Miss Elizabeth Braun, Miss Helen Litchfield, Mrs. C. W. Bass, and Mrs. F. E. Barker. Honors of the afternoon went to Miss Zoe Stockton and Miss Alice Forshaw, Miss Forshaw receiving the guest award.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. S. J. Butler complimented Miss Forshaw also with bridge. A blue decorative scheme was used throughout. Two tables were in play. The guest group included: Miss Forshaw, Miss Margaret Putnam, Mrs. Roy Mills, Mrs. T. E. Johnson, Mrs. C. F. Patton, Mrs. Walter L. Spaulding, Miss Zoe Stockton, and the hostess. The guest award again went to Miss Forshaw. Mrs. Patton won high score.

Miss Forshaw, who left for her home yesterday morning, was accompanied as far as Portland by Miss Putnam and Miss Godfrey plan to return today.
