Slight Suspicion Rests On Man Arrested Here

While the sheriff's office refuses to become excited over the fact that a bare possibility exists that C. W. Mann, arrested for forgery by Deputy Sheriff Sam Burkhardt, might have murdered Martha Gratke, 15-year-old Portland girl, it is not passing up any opportunity of bringing the murderer to justice.

Only in a most general way does Mann answer to the description of the murderer. He is about the same height and build as described by Portlanders who saw the murderer leave the Gratke residence.

Sample Toys Displayed, Reminder of Christmas

Santa Claus arrived in Salem yesterday with 15 big trunks of toys to be offered for Christmas. Two of the large sample rooms at the Marion hotel are needed to display the great variety of articles.

This year new mechanical sets and special tool chests for boys, manufactured by Alfred Gilbert, former Salem man, are being featured.

American toys are becoming better than those imported from Europe, according to J. Low, buyer, who has just returned from a European trip. While toys may be purchased at a low figure abroad, there is a heavy import duty to be paid.

While a majority of the toys are standard, the display includes the latest creations, among which are new "mammy" dolls, which speak clearly and are of American manufacture.
