EMINENT POET OF OREGON IS DEAD

The death of Hazel Hall Sunday morning at dawn startled not from its unexpectedness, but from its clear pathos.

Hazel Hall never walked. Yet her last book was named "Walkers" — the "walkers" that passed by her window day in, day out as she watched, through the curtains which named her first book.

Miss Hall wrote eagerly till the day of her death. Her life as a poet she lived in exactly eight years. But the brevity of the time will not matter.

Many will express surprise at the years, she seemed always so child-like to those who knew her.

more hellish will be the accusations of others who are lost and who come to say, "You taught me his evil," or "You were a hypocrite or a liar, and it spoiled my nice clean life."

Sin is the foundation cause of every evil, every tear, in the world, said the speaker. It fills the insane asylums, the hospitals, the prisons and jails; it puts accursed, sickly little children into founding asylums, marked with the mark of hell in their little bodies and doomed forever by the same laws that would have made them beautiful and love'y if the laws had been obeyed.

"There is no way, save through the cross of Christ who cleanses from sin, and who has power even to take away the consequences of sin," was her powerful plea to all her audience to come and start for the better way of life.

There was a most gratifying response to the appeal for converts, one of the best in the whole revival series, though the congregation was comparatively small.

they would ruin him. He went down on the Titanic, deceived and ruined by the devil of spiritualism. He had said to Mrs. Demarest, "Little girl, you'd make a wonderful medium!" She had told him "The only medium I shall ever be is for the living God!"

"There is only one name that can save the world—the name of Jesus Christ. Democracy can no more save than autocracy; autocracy has led to despotism, and Democracy leads to bolshevism. Germany has been rampant with the gospel of force; England is swallowing rationalism. But there is no salvation in any of these philosophies.
