CHERRIES WILL GO EAST IN REFRIGERATORS

A Larger Market Will Thus Be Opened for Another Oregon Product

Dan C. Freeman, the head of the industrial department of the state chamber of commerce, will be in Salem next Monday to address the local chamber of commerce and to stimulate interest in the prize offered for the best booster article to be published. The Statesman is helping along in that contest to the best of its ability. It has succeeded in stirring up considerable interest. There is so much to say about Oregon that one hardly knows where to begin. But the industrial department wants anything that will boost Oregon and that ought to be comparatively easy.

The two best letters received this week are given below. The first one is local entirely. It speaks for itself however:

Editor Statesman:

My bit in boosting Oregon is to call attention to the great revival just closed. It has shown a united city and that is one of the best boosts that any city can have. It is easy enough to knock and also easy enough for one denomination to go off by itself and refuse to play in the back yard of any other denomination. Salem will present a more united front than ever and that means a lot to our city. It will bring us to the front in all religious moral matters. It will also raise the tone and standard of our wonderful city. Salem will be the moral center of the state and as such it will attract the very best people in the state.

I am signing my name at the bottom but prefer that you do not use it. I want your dollar but I do not want publicity on this particular phase of the boosting game. Sincerely,

Salem May 18.

Editor Statesman:

I notice our cherries are to be shipped in refrigerators to New York and marketed there. It is an idea that ought to be fruitful.

We can grow the largest and best shipping cherry in the world. This is no idle jest. It must be true when New York buyers will travel across the continent to buy our Bing and Lambert cherries.

In my travels from New York to San Diego and thru parts of old Mexico, from New Orleans to Seattle, British Columbia and Alaska and parts of Europe, never have I seen any fruit on the market to compare with Willamette cherries for size and flavor.

Once the east gets a taste of our Oregon cherries there will be instantly established a market. The Oregon cherries do their own boosting. They meet the challenge of the best tastes and carry themselves in any kind of fruit society. Let us rally around our cherries and help lead them into these refrigerators.

It is hardly necessary to say that these cherries should be purchased through business agencies of Salem. The business men are working well together for the advancement of the city and can be depended upon to do their share.
