

HOPS ARE STILL MAKERS OF MONEY

Mean More to Marion and Polk Counties Than All Fruits Put Together

"When the prohibition amendment went into effect, many thought the hop industry of Marion and Polk counties was ruined," says a recent bulletin from the chamber of commerce. "Yet, based on government figures, the 1923 hop crop of the two countries brought larger financial returns than the combined crop of the peaches, apples, cherries, prunes, pears, loganberries and strawberries."

In comparing the 1923 hop crop in the Salem trading area, the bulletin points out that it sold for more money than all the wheat, barley, rye, and corn crops of the two countries. Oregon produced 4,343 bales and 41,100 tons of these were grown in Marion and Polk counties. The Oregon acreage in 1923 was 11,724 while 8435 of these acres were in the two counties.

Of the 11 hop markets in the two counties, Independence ranked first with 15,554 bales and Salem second with 11,509 bales. There are 195 pounds net to the bale and the average price was 30 cents a pound. The 41,107 bales makes a total of 8,015,865 pounds, and at 30 cents a pound, the total year sold for $2,404,759, of which 75 per cent was English money, the report continues.

The E. Clemens Horst hop yard of 550 acres is the largest hop yard in the world and is located just across the river a few miles west of Salem. T. A. Livesley & Co. has a total of 712 acres in cultivation and is the largest hop growing company in the northwest.

Klamath County Prisoners Can't Be Kept in Salem

Klamath Falls prisoners will not be permitted to serve their time at the state prison, Warden W. M. Dalrymple has advised C. C. Brower, district attorney of Klamath county. It was found inadvisable to comply with the request.

District Attorney Brower recently wrote to the board of control asking that between six and 20 prisoners be confined in the state prison because of inadequate jail facilities in Klamath Falls. Prisoners are frequently in excess of the number of cots and mattresses and are forced to sleep on the hard concrete, he wrote. Though there is a move on foot at present to provide better accommodations, there has been no county jail for the last five years and the city jail is of little use in confining real prisoners. Even though the city is tired of present conditions, it will be several weeks or months before the situation is improved.

It takes over the assets and liabilities of the old bank, and the stockholders in the old bank lose all their investment. The president of the new bank is P. H. PALMER SPEAKS ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Noted Church Lecturer Appears Before Large Audience at Grand Theater

Erza W. Palmer of Denver, Col., spoke to a large audience at the Grand theater last night on the subject of Christian Science. The speaker said in part:

"Existence for each of us is a state of consciousness. Without conscious knowing, existence would be blank. Since every person has consciousness, it is pertinent to ask, What are we conscious of? Are we conscious of harmony and health, or do we recognize discord and pain? Since good or evil, peace or pain, can only be known to us through consciousness, is there any relation between our thoughts and our health and happiness, or our poverty and pain? If so, what is this relation? Christian Science makes clear that we live in a mental world, and that all problems which present themselves are fundamentally mental problems. It shows, for instance, that disease is a wrong state of mind—a mental picture which has become objectified on the body—and that when a better state of mind supplants the wrong, the disease disappears.

"We cannot be at the same time both perfect and imperfect nor can we be both sick and well, pure and sinful.

"The Christian Scientist soon discovers this distinction between right thinking and wrong thinking, and he strives to retain a right basis of thought, and to keep his thought free from mental darkness of whatsoever character. True consciousness is the expression, the emanation, of God.

"Now let us examine carefully what spiritual consciousness is. Christian Science teaches as does the Bible that God is Spirit, Life, Truth, Love. Since God is Spirit and God is all, He must be infinite, universal Mind.

"Now what is it that would prevent us from living and enjoying our real heritage as children of God? Opposed to this heavenly consciousness is that counterfeit knowledge which externalizes itself to the physical senses through a supposititious matter world, a corporeal man, and the ills of morals. This carnal mortal mind and its manifestations—the physical universe, mortal man, physical force, storms, disease, hate, sin, and death—all war against God and the spiritual man. This is the battle between flesh and Spirit so often referred to in the Scriptures. The struggles of men for centuries have been to overcome this false consciousness and to grasp more and more clearly that exact demonstrable knowledge of God which is man's only salvation.

"When we turn to the Bible we find that prophet and disciple, through righteous prayer and spiritual power, controlled the destructive forces of nature, healed diseases, and raised the dead; they proved conclusively that spiritual understanding was the most powerful agency among men, since it utilized the omnipotence of divine Spirit. We find that these Bible men and women struggled with much the same problems that confront us. Since these men found guidance and strength in a secret place unknown to the physical senses, is it not reasonable to believe that this same guidance and strength are available for us? There is only one answer to that question in the whole Bible, and that answer is this: Salvation is universal.

"Mary Baker Eddy saw that since God is All-in-all, as the Scriptures declare, the only creation is spiritual. On the other hand, everything that is unlike God has no actual existence, even though it may seem very real and tangible to the physical senses. Since Jesus and his disciples destroyed physical ills, these evils cannot be of God, because God's creation is good and imperishable. It was this scientific unity which all the great Bible characters grasped, in the spirit if not in the letter. The sick were healed by reading the book; sinners were reformed.

"Four hundred years ago Copernicus grasped the secret of the stellar universe. He discarded as untenable the Ptolemaic theory that the sun revolved around the earth. He proved that, contrary to the testimony of the physical senses, the sun was the center around which the planets revolved. Thus we understand this allness of Mind and man as the divine idea, medical theories and human fears fall as did the Ptolemaic theories before the demonstrations of Copernicus."

PERCY CUPPER MAKES ADDRESS

Spirit of Living and Not the Dead Needed, Says Local Engineer

"The spirit of the people is the answer to the question regarding the lack of development of Oregon resources," Percy A. Cupper, former state highway engineer, said at the Kiwanis luncheon Tuesday noon. "It is the spirit of the living and not of the dead that counts. There is everything here to make a great city, valley and state and it has been said truly of Oregon that nature has done more and man less than in any other state."

The vast undeveloped power, other natural resources and recreational possibilities were stressed, with emphasis upon irrigable lands. In speaking of these Mr. Cupper pointed out that of the 3,000,000 potential horsepower in the state only 300,000 was developed and that while there were 3,000,000 acres of land that were irrigable, only 1,000,000 were under irrigation.

Musie was furnished by a male quartette from Willamette university. The reward of merit, offered by C. E. Albin, was given to F. G. Deckebach, Jr.

Announcement was made that the Tuesday noon luncheon next week would be replaced by a 5:30 o'clock dinner, at which time the winners of the visiting contest would be proclaimed. The two teams were captained by Cooke Patton and T. M. Hicks, the losers to pay for the dinner.
