

CHICAGO MAIL TRAIN HELD UP AND ROBBED

"blind baggage," or just back of the tender of the locomotive of the train, according to Lawrence Benson, chief of the railroad's special agents.

"As the train approached Roundabout the robbers pulled the air brakes, which brought the train to a stop," he said.

"The robbers were strung along the tracks for the length of a car or two and almost at the spot where the engine stopped," Benson said. Three or four of them forced the door in the first car. They were met with a rain of bullets from the mail clerks and guards in the car but the robbers succeeded in overpowering them. One bandit, however, was shot. How badly, we don't know, although we found a pool of blood on the platform and there was a red trail from there to Buckley road, where his fellows carried him and placed him in an automobile.

"The robbers then forced their way into the second car and the third but escaped unscathed from the rain of lead the guards and clerks fired at them, and as in the first car, they succeeded in overpowering the guards and clerks.

"The robbers did not go into any of the other cars, for they found forty pouches of registered mail in the first three cars. Although there was a crew of seventy mail clerks and guards on the train of eight cars they were all locked in and their instructions were that in no event were they to open the doors. They were all armed and instructed to shoot to kill any one attempting to force entrance into their car.

"The clerks and guards from the three cars were forced outside and lined up against the train. They were guarded by three of the bandits.

"As soon as the robbers had gathered their loot they piled the sacks into four automobiles, parked on Buckley road. The three bandits guarding the train crew made the crew turn away from the road as they retreated toward their cars.

"None of the train crew was able to estimate the number of robbers.

"As soon as word of the holdup reached Chicago all available express, federal and police officers were put aboard a special train which set out for the scene of the robbery."

Portland Plasterers Halt Work on Strike

Work on the new J. L. Parrish junior high school and the $65,000 residence being constructed for T. A. Lively is being held up by the strike of the local union of the Portland plasterers' organization. Nearly 18 Portland plasterers are engaged on the two jobs. The strike does not affect the local union, other than local men will not touch the jobs.

If the striking Portland plasterers are engaged on the two jobs, the strike does not affect the local union, other than local men will not touch the jobs.

Whitfield to Pay Price At Walla Walla Prison

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 12.—At break of day tomorrow George E. Whitfield, convicted of the murder of Anna Nosko, 11-year-old Battle Ground school girl, will pay the death penalty on the gallows at the state penitentiary here unless a last minute stay of execution is granted by Governor Louis F. Hart.

Prize Is Again Won By The High School Clarion

For the second consecutive year the "Clarion," annual publication of the Salem High school student body, has been adjudged the best yearbook published by a high school in the state, according to word received here yesterday from Corvallis, where the contest was staged under the auspices of "The Beaver," the annual OAC yearbook. John Helzel is editor and Clifford Goods, manager, of "The Clarion." Salem has to win once more to gain permanent possession of a fine silver trophy. The "Clarion" was printed this year and last by the Statesman Publishing company.

President Glad of Dawes Nomination

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Hoover in a telegram to General Dawes congratulated him upon his nomination for the vice presidency tonight in the following message:

"I am more than happy at your selection and the assurance of your being again drafted to public service. The country is to be congratulated."

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Hoover in a telegram to General Dawes congratulated him upon his nomination for the vice presidency tonight in the following message:

"I congratulate the party on General Dawes' nomination. I have known him for almost 30 years. He is a man of unusual ability and of undaunted courage. He is a man with a great breadth of vision. He is capable of filling the highest office with credit to himself and his country."

"Cythera" Showing At Oregon Today

Another of Joseph Hergeshelmer's colorful stories of romance has reached the screen—"Cythera," Goddess of Love, which opened last night at the Oregon theater. Again the author of "Tolable David," and "The Bright Shawl," recent screen epics, has demonstrated that he is without a peer in the production of emotion stirring stories, peopled with characters who are true to life in every respect.

In "Cythera," Mr. Hergeshelmer has deviated from the present juvenile vogue, and has written a love story of married persons, although the younger generation is not neglected in the spinning of the plot.

The tale is that of Lee Randon, who could not understand why his wife, following their marriage, became transformed so rapidly from a gay young butterfly into a too-domestic drudge, carrying to extremes her love of a routine and, to him, hamdrum, existence. Lee wanted to move in gay circles; his wife preferred to remain at home and do her housework. How Lee found the love he was seeking by means of a doll; how he idealized the bit of china, keeping it on a shrine in his home; how he met its living image, and the unusual manner in which they solved the love tangle which bound them constitutes a drama that is poignant and gripping throughout.

The quality of the cast is in keeping with the brilliancy of the story. It consists of Lewis Stone, Alma Rubens, Norma Kerry, Irene Rich, Constance Bennett, Betty Bouton and Charles Wellesley.

"Cythera" was produced and directed by George Fitzmaurice for Samuel Goldwyn, and we unreservedly recommend it to all lovers of good entertainment.

BRINGS FOOD SUPPLIES

NOME, Alaska, June 12.—After a hard three-day battle with ice floes almost within sight of here the steamship Victoria arrived at 1:30 o'clock this morning bringing the first food supplies, which were running low in this district, since last spring. The United States guard cutter Bear tonight was still fighting her way through the ice, 25 miles southwest of Nome.

KLANSMEN NOT GUILTY

EBENSBURG, Pa., June 12.—(By The Associated Press.)—A verdict of not guilty of riot, but guilty of affray and unlawful assembly, was returned by a jury tonight in the case of 31 alleged Ku Klux Klansmen and residents of Lilly, who were tried upon charges growing out of the riot April 5 between visiting Klansmen and townspeople of Lilly. Counsel for the defense immediately filed a motion for a new trial.

EUGENE MAKES QUOTA

EUGENE, Ore., June 12.—Eugene is the first city in Oregon to reach its quota in the alumni $5,000,000 gift campaign, it was announced today by Judge Lawrence T. Harris, chairman of the city committee. Pledges amounting to $102,700 are reported. The Eugene alumni's quota was $100,000.

PLANE CRASHES

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 12.—Unofficial reports, considered authentic here, indicate that a naval seaplane operating in the maneuvers off San Clemente Island, fell today, injuring, if not killing the pilot. Efforts to confirm this were unavailing because of the Mississippi disaster, which overshadowed all else in this harbor this afternoon and tonight.

LOWDEN REGRETS HIS NOMINATION

Former Governor Is Sorry He Was Named; Pleased With New Ticket

OREGON, Ills., June 12.—Refusing next to the biggest gift that lay within the power of a political party to confer upon an American citizen, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, tonight expressed regret that the republican national convention at Cleveland had seen fit to so honor him in spite of his repeated statements that he would not accept the vice presidential nomination under any circumstances. Governor Lowden complimented the party on its near unanimous nomination of President Coolidge to succeed himself as president and predicted that the republican party will gain a great victory in November with Coolidge and Dawes.

"As for my reasons for declining," said Mr. Lowden, "it is because the vice presidential office is not active enough for my nature. I am an active man and I could not see myself consigned to presiding over the United States senate. Do not mistake by estimate of the vice presidency. It is a great office and I feel proud of the honor conferred upon me but I am farming on a large scale both here at my home at Sinnisphi farm and also in the south. I am av-live, very active, and I do not want to cease to be active. Therefore the vice presidency does not appeal to me and never did.

"The ticket is an excellent one. President Coolidge is a great man—courageous, brilliant, and has placed himself on record on all issues. There is nothing indifferent about him.

"This is not the first time I have been discussed for the vice presidency. Back in 1918, shortly before Theodore Roosevelt's death, and when he appeared to be in good health, he came to Springfield. I was then governor and I think it was conceded that he would have been a very active and prominent candidate for the presidency in 1920 had he lived."

CAUSE OF DEATHS FOUND

SAN PEDRO, June 13.—Inflammable gas and poisonous fumes caused the death of the victims, rather than the violence of the explosion on board the Mississippi, eye witnesses pointed out tonight. The explosion itself did little damage. The flames which were what created the inferno in which the 48 perished life rats in a trap.

Many of the officers and men aboard the ship did not know of the disaster until several minutes after it occurred. The blast came of course at a time when other guns were roaring at the target.
