

The MARKET BASKET

HEALTH PURPOSE SERVED BY FRUIT

Housewives Advised to Use Orchard and Vinyard Products Freely

In meal planning substitute in place of pie more fruit.

This is the season of the year when every Oregon housewife uses fruit at each meal, at times two fruits or more. Fruits served raw is a better appetizer and where the flavor is so delicious as in the Willamette valley there is no reason why these fruits should not form a large part of the menu. Fruit at breakfast times is the first course as it stimulates the appetite and prepares the digestive tract for the remainder of the meal. A fruit cocktail is appreciated by the family at luncheon or dinner. For this odds and ends may be used. These interesting looking pans with a raised bottom seen in the windows make attractive short cakes. They can be filled with any fruit, raw or cooked and cut at the table.

Some one has said that dessert is what folks eat after they are through with their meal but there is a physiological reason for serving desserts. A pleasant sensation left in the mouth at the close of a meal tends to continue digestion.

The housewife should endeavor to remember the principles of contrast in all her meal planning, no matter how simple the meal. But when fresh fruits are available and of such high class select them for your meal while you can for the time will come too soon when they are gone.

Whether a friend in need is a friend indeed usually depends on what he is in need of.

Greater Abundance Found in Stores Now—Watermelons are On Sale

The markets of last week have been added to by a greater abundance of many of the vegetables but no further variety. Most things are cheaper this week. The peas are of such size that easterners' eyes bulge and they take a second look to see if they are real, then there is a longing to see them grow or rather they want to live in such a fertile valley. Oregon potatoes are plentiful. Then there are asparagus, beets, carrots, celery, radishes, rhubarb, lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes, onions and spinach.

Watermelons are being sold in most of the grocery stores. Raspberries are at hand and they are welcomed. They make a change for short cakes. Strawberries are holding up much better than was expected. The quality is improved if that is possible.

Cherries, the early varieties, are at their best. Several varieties are offered. They are ripening fast. In about ten days the Bings will be on the market. Cantelopes are juicier and the markets are well supplied.

The only way for the farmers to get even with irresponsible picnic parties is to start having picnics in town themselves.

DUN'S REPORTS A GAIN IN RETAIL

Seasonal Phases Cause Small Trade to Increase; Wholesales Decline

NEW YORK, June 13.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

"Most of the barometers by which commercial movements are measured, showed a decrease of demand in primary channels, but a gain in retail trade. These are strictly seasonal phases and do not reflect any unusual or unexpected change in general conditions. The chief interest now centers on the probable course of events after the elections, and there is a disposition in many quarters to await a plainer insight into the future. In most instances goods previously contracted for are being taken readily, although isolated instances of cancellations still appear. It is the usual time in certain markets for clearance sales at lower prices, yet this fact does not wholly explain the continued excess of declines in Dun's list of wholesale quotations. Weekly bank clearings were $7,169,870,000."

HEAT IN SOUTH LIFTS WHEAT UP

Profit Taking Sales Have Reactionary Effect and Market Ends Nervous

CHICAGO, June 13.—High temperatures threatening to damage crops in the southwest did a good deal to lift wheat prices today, but profit-taking sales led to a reaction later. Wheat closed nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 1/2 cent higher, July, $1.11 1/2 to $1.11 3/4 and September, $1.13 to $1.13 1/2, with corn unchanged to 1/2 cent up; oats unchanged to a shade higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Before uneasiness developed concerning the hot wave, wheat traders here were largely guided by a decline in Liverpool quotations and then by an advance at Winnipeg where foreigners were said to have been purchasing to a considerable extent early. Later, with the mercury registering about 100 in Oklahoma and with Kansas also hot, the wheat market here climbed to a point equalling the highest prices hitherto reached on the present movement. It was asserted that if the heat continued the wheat prospect would be seriously endangered, the more so as the change had been sudden from a long period of cold weather.

Export demand for wheat from the United States appeared slow except that some No. 2 hard was said to have been sold for late June shipment by way of the Gulf of Mexico at 10 cents over Chicago.

Corn averaged a little higher, owing to the fact that other markets were outbidding Chicago. The hot wave though eased corn values at the last. Oats trading was light.

Better export call for lard helped strengthen provisions.

RAAS MAY OR MAY NOT BE IN SALEM

But the Raas Interests Will Be Buying Cherries Here On Monday Next

The Raas interests will be buying and packing cherries in barrels in Salem on Monday. They will be doing this in the Southern Pacific warehouse building on Forty street, back of The Statesman office; the same quarters they used last year. Their boxes have been stored in the loft of The Statesman warehouse next to the alley since last cherry harvest. Some of these boxes were taken out yesterday and trucked to Dallas.

Price Not Fixed
Mr. Raas is connected with and buys cherries for the Lyons-California Glace Fruit company, and the Oregon cherries are used mostly for maraschino purposes; Royal Anns.

Mr. Raas himself may come to Salem, or he may not. His people here do not know. They think he will, however, because he always says his coming to Salem is like a vacation for him.

The price? The reporter was not informed. He is not permitted to even give a guess.

But representatives of the canneries were offering 5 cents a pound for Royal Ann cherries yesterday. They were out among the growers seeking contracts.

Ratio of Cows to People Declines

CHICAGO, June 13.—Dairy cow population has not kept pace with human population in the United States, according to reports of an agricultural foundation investigation, which says that less than a million cows have been added to American herds in the past five years.

The report says there are only 221 cows per thousand persons, a decrease of 43 per thousand since 1890. During 1922, in spite of the stimulation and propaganda for dairying, there was a drop of one cow per thousand population.

District Interest Bonds Now Total $1,607,740

District interest bonds issued by the state of Oregon, according to a statement prepared by Jefferson Myers, state treasurer for the purpose of guaranteeing and paying interest on bonds issued by irrigation districts, now total $1,607,740.

On its issues of district interest bonds it is necessary of course for the state to pay interest, and under the agreement entered into between the state and the districts, the districts are required to provide the funds to the state for the purposes of paying this interest.

There was due the state from the several districts for this purpose on June 1 a total of $24,244.87, but the amount paid was only $25,430.28, or $3,914.55 short. Districts that have defaulted in their payments are Warm Springs, Summer Lake, and Crook county. The law provides an appropriation of $10,000 to take care of such possible defaults, so the amount of the default has been paid from this sum.

Should the north unit project in Deschutes county issue the $5,500,000 in bonds, which is estimated as necessary for that project, it is said the interest in five years at 6 per cent would amount to $2,550,000, which sum the state would have to guarantee.
