From the Soldier Boys
Camp Lewis, June 19.

Editor Statesman:
At 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, June 10, at the command "Let's go," given by Captain Hendricks, 65 members of Salem's own Infantry, Company F, sailed forth from the armory and after an uneventful trip of only indoor sports engaged in by Uncle Sam's first line of defense and the splendid sets prepared by Sergeant Plant, arrived at this almost deserted campment at 4:30 p. m. and are comfortably entrenched in building No. 18, Eleventh and Oregon streets.

Was the boys "all in?" I should say not. With scarcely any sleep the night before and the usual drowsy 200-mile ride, upon arrival every man "hit the hay" and all but built a modern barracks, including hot and cold water showers, set up a modern barber shop, conducted by Private First Class Kinyon, who has advertised "Whiskers removed without pain or tears," put into operation a cuisine that any Capitol City canteen might rightfully be proud of, served mess at 6:30, spent "Home Sweet Home" in big letters in front of the building, kicked the pigskin and tossed the horsehide till dark, then peacefully but not quietly soared to the land of nod, only to be awakened by the familiar screech of the top-cutter at 8:30 a. m.—"Everybody Out!"

Since arriving at camp A. R. Mason, A. D. Rose and H. J. Herndon have graduated to the three-striper class, while T. R. Rhodes and C. H. Rodgers wear two.

Mrs. Earl B. Kinyon of Salem was our guest at supper June 13. Private Burris has been searching for a button press while Back B. Reimann turned all bunks upside down in pursuit of the company canteen. The electric mop and revolve oil caused a few uneasy heads until it became known that the 51st took all that particular equipment overseas in 1918.

Hard work and long hikes have been eliminated from the schedule to every extent possible and actual instruction and demonstration substituted.

Friday, the 18th, our unlucky day. Guard duty assigned for tomorrow, the Colonel and the Skipper can't agree on the proper method of managing our army, and the Top failed to raise the company paper bound from under the blankets before inspection and therefore got a zero in rating bar-tack.

Only those minor ailments that attend the change from civilian to military existence have interrupted the physical well-being of Salem's rifle platoon.

Tomorrow at 6:45 a. m. 17 members will start a two-day trip to Mt. Rainier via army truck. Good eats; excellent morale; plenty of time for sports and recreation. Everything lovely and nobody sad.

Salem, we expect the continuance of your hearty cooperation during the coming fiscal year.
SOLDIER.

Netarts a Lively Beach
Resort Active Three Days

NETARTS, Ore., June 19.—The deep seat boat Rainbow left Portland Saturday morning in charge of River Elliot F. G. Blight of Salem, who left the boat at Astoria. She proceeded from there under command of Al Southmayde and Pilot Elmer Downing, making the trip from Columbia bar to Netarts bay and anchoring in front of Happy Camp in seven hours.

As weather conditions were favorable, our guests, Walter F. Downing and Geo. P. Downing, report a very enjoyable trip. They also had aboard former owners of the Rainbow, C. P. Hayes and Fred Hayes, who made the trip with the boat for the purpose of looking over conditions of the bar and bay, so as to give advice, as they have been fishing off Columbia river bar for five years. Captain C. P. Hayes is of the opinion that the Rainbow will have no trouble operating out of Netarts Bay, as the bay is located between Cape Mears and Cape Lookout, which breaks all seas north and south, and he reports nine feet of water two hours before low water.

The Rainbow will make regular trips twice a day, starting Saturday, June 21, continuing through the season to September 15, and later, weather permitting, and will be run in connection with all resorts at Netarts Bay and will also take passengers from ocean side. Happy Camp has a small gasoline boat running to the upper clam and oyster beds in Netarts Bay. This boat will take passengers twice a day.

COUNTERFEITERS TAKEN

TACOMA, Wash., June 17.—Douglas Wharton, alias Douglas Morton, alias Frank E. Martin, said by the police to be a member of the counterfeiting gang operating in practically every city on the Pacific coast was arrested in Tacoma today and turned over to the United States secret service. The arrest was the culmination of three months' work by city detectives and several members of the United States secret service, following the finding of 12 copper plates for $10 and $20 federal reserve notes.
