CHICAGO, June 28 .- Urging adoption by the city of Chicago of the University of Chicago " in fact as well as in name," President Ernest DeWitt Burton brought out that John D. Rockefeller has given $35,000,000 to the institution, "a sum almost or quite without parallel in the whole history of education." President Burton made the statement after announcing that Mr. Rockefeller had discontinued his gifts, that the university has no right of further approach to the founders as individuals, "and less reason to make such an approach to Mr. Rockefeller." To the university's resources of approximately $54,000,000, President Burton said, "there should be added within the next ten or 15 years at least an equal amount," and for this sum "we FREE SAMPLE BOOK must look largely to Chicago." "When in December 1910, Mr. Rockefeller promised to give the university the sum of $10,000,000 n ten annual payments, he accom-panied this pledge with a statement that this was his final gift, and commended the university to the friendly citizens of Chicago as those to whom it should look for the means with which to insure its future development, President Burton asserted. "In pursuance of this statement and policy Mr. Rockefeller discontinued his gifts. "It is but reasonable that Mr. Rockefeller should feel that the city whose name it bears and whose citizens have already shown their interest in it by many generous gifts, should adopt the university as their own. The cost of education rises with startling rapidity as one passes upward from school to college, and from college to graduate and professional school."
