SPORT IS RUINED ALONG DESCHUTES

Water Taken for Irrigation
Makes Famous Stream
Useless for Angling

The Deschutes river between Bend and the mouth of Crooked river, a distance of about 50 miles, once considered one of the best fishing stretches along that river, has been entirely destroyed as a fishing stream, says the June report of A. E. Burghdoff, state game warden. This is attributed to irrigation.

"The Deschutes river is a good example of the effects of irrigation," says the report. "It has been said that the Deschutes river formerly carried as much water as the Willamette. Whether this is true or not I am unable to say. At the present time one can almost step across the Deschutes river at any point between the town of Bend and the mouth of Crooked river, a distance of approximately 50 miles as the river flows. Before the days of irrigation this was the best fishing stretch along the entire Deschutes river, while today it is entirely destroyed insofar as its usefulness as a fishing stream is concerned. I am told that the water of the Deschutes river are four times over-appropriated, which clearly indicates the great demand for water for power and irrigation purposes. That portion of the Deschutes river below Gateway, or practically below the mouth of Crooked river and the Metolius river where the river flows through a deep gorge can never be used extensively for irrigation, and with the depleted flow of water, the Deschutes will never be of great value as a power stream. This may result in holding fishing at normal for many years in the stretches of the lower Deschutes river."

Burghdoff reports antelope so numerous in Lake county that "they were seen everywhere in the sagebrush, jumping around like jackrabbits."

Tolly, British Player, Wins French Golf Title

LA BOULIE, France, July 2.—Outplaying a fine international field, including the pick of French and American professional stars, Cyril Tolly, former British amateur title holder, sprang one of the biggest sensations of the season today by capturing the French open golf championship with the brilliant score of 290 for the 72 holes test over the difficult La Boulie course.

Playing in a rain storm, the British crack decisively conquered his professional rivals, finishing three strokes ahead of Walter Hagen, the American professional and newly crowned British open champion, whose remarkable 69 on the last round was not able to overcome Tolly's lead.

RAIN, FUNCTIONS UPSET TRAINING

United States Olympic Athletes Held Up in Preparation for Events

PARIS, July 2.—Rain and official functions combined today to put the training of the American Olympic athletes into the background temporarily. The first bad weather encountered since the team left the United States kept all but the swimmers idle most of the day, while a formal luncheon tendered by the American Olympic committee to a notable assemblage of international Olympic authorities and other prominent personages, including Marshal Foch, at Rocques Court, gave the social activities precedence over the athletic preparations. After luncheon the guests were entertained with a brief workout of the boxers and wrestlers and inspected the American camp.

The swimmers at Les Tourelles held trials to determine the entries in the several events, which close tomorrow. Marie Chen Wehselan, the young Hawaiian girl, sprang a surprise by conquering Gertrude Ederle, the world's record holder, at 100 meters, free style. Miss Ederle finished third, being beaten also by Ethel Laskie of Chicago. The time of the winner was one minute, 12 4-5 seconds, which bettered the Olympic record by two seconds and was only 3-5 seconds short of Miss Ederle's world mark.

While passing out pointed remarks remember the porcupine. His only friends are other porcupines.

SPEND FOURTH AT STAYTON

Community Club is Staging An Interesting Gathering

The community club of Stayton extends a cordial invitation to Salemites to come and celebrate with them July 4. They are going to have an old-fashioned picnic and celebration in the park there. There is an old swimmin' hole in the park, so those who care to indulge better come prepared with their bathing suits.

There will be various kinds of water sports also, and the suits might come in handy.

There will be something doing all day. The Cherrian band is going over to furnish music and there will be two ball games. Old time races and sports are also on the program.

One most attractive feature will be the open air dance pavilion. The community club has had this built at great expense because of the exceptionally good flooring used and those who know say there is probably none in the state any larger or better unless at some of the resorts. Good music is engaged and there will be dancing both afternoon and evening.

All concessions on the ground are run by the club and all money received is to be used to defray the expenses of the celebration.

The Women's club will sell cafeteria lunch and as the club is noted for its good cooks—

WILLS AND M'KANE CONTEST ON FRIDAY

American Champion Meets
English Woman Player
in Wimbledon Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 2.—All of the events in the Wimbledon tennis championship tournament reached the semi-final stage today. The women's singles were carried up to the finals through the retirement of Miss Suzanne Lenglen, world's champion, because of illness, and the victory of Miss Helen M. Wills, the American star, over Mrs. Phyllis Satterthwaite of Great Britain.

Every seat and every bit of standing room was occupied when Miss Wills, playing beautifully, triumphed over Mrs. Satterthwaite 6-2, 6-1. The American will meet Miss Kathleen McKane in the final Friday.

The American teams reached the semi-finals in the men's doubles this afternoon. In the upper half R. Norris Williams II, and Watson M. Washburn defeated Charles H. Kingsley and J. C. Masterman and will meet the Alonzo brothers of Spain in the next to the last round, in the lower half. Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter beat Max Woosman and J. D. P. Wheatley of Great Britain and will meet Louis Raymond and P. D. B. Speece of South Africa in the semi-finals.

Williams is the sole American survivor in the men's singles.
